Time magazine poll

Ford, Carter neck and neck

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter are running neck and neck for the presidency, each with 43 per cent of the vote, according to a poll released Saturday by Time magazine.

The survey by Yankelovich, Skelly & White, an opinion research firm, was a sampling in September of 1,308 registered voters. The remaining 14 per cent said they were still undecided.

The firm's August poll had given Carter a 6 per cent edge over Ford. The survey says that Carter's lead dwindled as a growing portion of the population perceive him as a liberal.

The poll also showed that 44 percent of those interviewed felt Ford would win the November election while only 40 per cent saw a Carter victory. In the August poll, 57 per cent had seen Carter as a winner with only 34 per cent willing to put their money on Ford.

Regionally, Carter holds an 8 per cent lead in the South, a 5 per cent lead in the Mid Atlantic states and a 3 percent lead in New England. Ford's stronghold appears to be in the west where he commands a 15 per cent advantage.

Although 86 percent of the respondents indicated a preference between Ford and Carter, 52 per cent admitted they still have not made a final decision — finding which paves the way for a November cliff hanger.

Time said the poll indicates that Ford's strongest point is the voters' mistrust of Carter. Almost two thirds of the Ford supporters said they have too many unanswered questions about the Georgian governor.

Gallup poll has Carter ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Two recent Gallup polls understated Jimmy Carter's strength when released and the latest poll showing Carter 8 points ahead of Ford may be revised, George Gallup Jr., president of the polling organization, said Saturday.

The latest poll, released Friday, was based on a less than complete sample, Gallup said. The results were "correct," he said, but may be revised when fuller sample returns are available.

Racial slur by Butz explodes

Demos and Republicans call for agriculture secretary to resign

By The Associated Press

Denunciation of Earl Butz' racial slur threatened to engulf the agriculture secretary Saturday as both Republicans and Democrats called for his resignation.

A White House official said the slur might bring Butz' early departure from President Ford's cabinet, but added that President Ford "has not talked about" it.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said Butz had not volunteered his resignation as of Saturday night.

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter called Butz' words evidence of his insensitivity to people, an embarrassment to the Ford administration and a danger to Ford's chances for election.

Republican party leaders in Toledo, Ohio, canceled a Butz appearance today at a GOP rally. "The Republican party — the party of Lincoln — cannot condone such intolerance and vulgar attitudes," said the county party chairman.

Asked if Ford might have taken the initiative in canceling the Butz appearance, William Greener, spokesman for the President Ford Committee in Washington, said: "No, he did not." In reply to another question, Greener said he had seen no indication Butz might resign.

Ford reprimanded Butz on Friday, and the agriculture secretary apologized, saying he regrets his language.

In a recent comment quoted by the magazines Rolling Stone and New Times, Butz referred to blacks as "coloreds" and described in a derogatory manner what he characterized as their sexual, dress and bathroom predilections.

EARL BUTZ

Ford's vice presidential running mate, Bob Dole, called Butz' remarks "stupid" and "ill conceived," but compared them to recently-criticized statements by Carter about lust and adultery.

The agriculture secretary was summoned to the White House on Friday and was given "a severe reprimand" by Ford, who found Butz' racial comments "highly offensive," presidential aides said.

Carter said Butz' slurs are "a continuation of the insensitivity of Mr. Butz for people of this country." Asked whether Butz should be fired, Carter repeated his long-standing position that Butz "should never have been in office as secretary of agriculture."

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, termed Butz' comment "despicable" and said that Butz should either resign or be fired. "The decent thing for him to do is resign and if he doesn't resign" the President should remove him, Mondale said.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, chairman of the House Republican Conference, urged Ford to fire Butz, saying in a letter: "Anyone harboring such racist views should have no place in your administration."

Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., the only black member of the Senate, called Butz' remarks "vulgar and offensive."

CRANE FALLS A 190-foot crane lies broken on foundation of Encina power plant under construction in Carlsbad, north of San Diego. Six workmen who were on the crane plunged to their death.

Six workmen killed as crane collapses

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Six men, five of them clinging to a 190-foot high crane, were killed Saturday when the crane collapsed. It narrowly missed 90 other workmen.

"Everybody ran like hell," one worker was quoted as saying later. It took almost four hours to remove the last of the six bodies from the steel wreckage.

The accident took place at the Encina oil-burning plant of San Diego Gas Electric Co., where a $170-million generating unit is being built.

Company spokesmen refused to allow reporters near the jumbled steel, and all who saw the accident were sent home immediately.

Although two San Diego County coroner's deputies investigated, neither would talk with reporters.

Authorities did not immediately identify the the dead men.

The dead included four electricians and two ironworkers. Except for a man crushed in the cab below, they were working high on the red, white and yellow crane and on a balancing arm which extends horizontally to the opposite side of a heavier lifting arm.

A third of the weights needed to balance the opposite arms had been placed in the balancer, and spokesmen said the workmen were trying to raise the other extension arm which does the actual lifting of heavy construction material.

"The vertical piece crumbled without any warning, apparently," a spokesman for the utility said. The crane buckled in four sections, throwing one man 100 feet away from the crane's base and the others onto the concrete foundation with its protruding reinforcement rods.

The wife of one of the workmen who escaped said later he called it "indescribable — just awful. Everybody ran like hell."

One man was treated at the scene for shock and released, another was treated for minor scrapes.

Bomb just misses president of Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A bomb ripped through a reviewing stand Saturday just five minutes after President Jorge Videla and his party had left at the end of a military ceremony.

Unofficial reports said two military officers were slightly wounded by splinters of wood hurled through the air by the force of the explosion which destroyed the stand.

However, government spokesman Hugo Martinez said, "There were absolutely no victims in the blast and the president was not affected."

Witnesses said Videla had just finished presiding over an army communications day ceremony at the Campo de Mayo army base 20 miles northwest of Buenos Aires. The base is the largest military installation in the country.

Videla, a 51-year-old army chief, became president after a military coup last March overthrew President Isabel Peron. He lives at the base as commander of the 90,000-man Argentine army.

It was the first apparent attempt against Videla since the military seized power.

It was not known who planted the bomb and no terrorist organization immediately claimed responsibility.

Digging through mud for hurricane bodies

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Search teams dug through a thick blanket of mud Saturday to recover the bodies of victims left by Hurricane Liza in its deadly sweep across Mexico's Lower California peninsula.

Officials said at least 630 persons, and perhaps as many as 1,000, were killed by the hurricane, which roared in from the Pacific with torrential rain and winds up to 130 miles an hour Friday, causing floods and havoc.

La Paz Municipal President Jorge Santana was quoted by a San Diego Union news team as saying 750 bodies had been recovered and the search for bodies was continuing.

Officials worried about possible epidemics ordered troops to bury the recovered bodies in mass graves, or to burn them.

Singer Bing Crosby, who has a home in the La Paz area, 550 miles south of Tucson, Ariz., was among several Americans stranded overnight at a La Paz hotel by flood waters, the Los Angeles Times reported.

Some 14,000 persons were reported injured or bruised and 70,000 were left homeless.

The dwindling storm, which had meandered offshore in the Pacific for three days before suddenly cutting its deadly swath across the peninsula, passed over the northern Sierra Madre Mountains Saturday and entered the United States at El Paso, Tex. It was moving northeastward through eastern New Mexico and western Texas.

La Paz, a city of 85,000, suffered the worst devastation. The storm cracked a 30-foot-high earthen dam, sending a huge wall of water and mud down on a crowded shantytown, washing away scores of thatched-roof shacks. The city's streets Saturday were littered with debris and hundreds of wrecked automobiles, many buried roof deep in mud.

Partly cloudy this morning, clearing this afternoon. Slightly warmer days and cooler nights. High today 77. Low tonight in the low 60s. High on Monday 30. Monday sunrise 6:47 a.m., sunset 6:32 p.m.

Cost nation's cities $1 billion

Administration's handling of N.Y. crisis criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional report says administration handling of the New York fiscal crisis cost municipalities across the country more than $1 billion in higher borrowing costs.

In addition, the administration made its decisions on the basis of incomplete studies and guesses rather than careful research, the report by the commerce subcommittee of the House Government Operation Committee concluded.

Generally critical of the way the administration handled the crisis, the report also said that the administration failed to recognize the potentially severe problems that would result from a default by the city.

The Treasury Department engaged in "fiscal brinkmanship," that unnecessarily delayed a solution to the city's crisis, it said.

That delay, in turn, subjected "domestic and international financial markets and the citizens of New York ... to needless uncertainty; and, the costs of municipal financing across the country were raised substantially — by as much or more than $1.4 billion," the report said.

Assistant Treasury Secretary Robert Gerard denied the subcommittee's contentions, saying changes in the municipal bond market in the summer of 1975 "cannot be attributed to what the Treasury did or did not do.

"The investment community became newly aware of risks to municipal securities. This happened as a result of the crisis happening and not as a result of any federal action or lack of action," Gerard said.

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., chairman of the subcommittee, said the report "strongly suggests that this administration is not attuned to the plight and concerns of our large cities.

"The administration's handling of New York's fiscal problem demonstrates as well a lack of effective management of the government's decision-making process relating to economics, banking and urban affairs." ing and urban affairs."

In its single recommendation, the report said that the Council of Economic Advisers, the Treasury Department and federal bank regulatory agencies should begin a joint study of how to improve coordination and cooperation among agencies when dealing with "broad-based economic problems requiring a multiagency efforts.

"Decision-making in the executive branch of government regarding the New York City fiscal crisis was premised far more on incomplete studies and educated guesses than on the kind of careful research demanded by what was potentially the largest bankruptcy in U.S. history," the report said.

It said that a coordinated research effort by executive branch agencies probably would have resulted in an earlier presidential recommendation to Congress for emergency assistance to the city.

West Germans vote today

BONN, West Germany (AP) — More than 90 per cent of those eligible were expected to vote today in West German parliamentary elections being closely watched for signs that an anti-Socialist trend is spreading through Europe.

The most recently released polls, taken two weeks ago, gave Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and his ruling Social Democratic coalition at least a 2 per cent lead.

But Helmut Kohl, candidate of the conservative Christian Democrats, said the polls failed to reflect any possible effect from the Sept. 19 Swedish elections — in which the Socialists lost for the first time in 44 years.

Kohl has been urging West Germans to "follow the Swedish example," but there are few parallels between the two countries. The level of taxes and bureaucracy is lower in Germany. And the use of atomic power — the support of which may have cost the Swedish Socialists the election — has not been mentioned here.

Campaigning on the slogan "Freedom Instead of Socialism," the Christian Democrats have said social democracy brings in a huge bureaucracy which in the long run takes away freedom. They have also tried to picture Schmidt and his Social Democrats in the same camp with Soviet bloc Communists.

West Germany has 41.6 million persons eligible to cast ballots for candidates for the 496-seat Bundestag. In the 1972 elections 91.2 per cent voted.

The real differences between the parties have been in the styles of the chancellor candidates and their election slogans — Schmidt is "the better man" and Kohl "the man you can trust."

Although the chancellor will be elected by the Bundestag on Dec. 14, the popularity of the candidates affects the outcome of the parliamentary voting.

VICTIM OF HURRICANE

A small child weeps outside the wreckage of her home in the town of La Paz in Baja California where hurricane Liza killed over 600 people. Mud has filled the house up to the first floor window level. Many victims are still believed to be buried in the mud which swept through the southern part of the town when a dam burst.

Gallup poll on campaign . . .

Gallup said the difference, if any, in the final results would be only a point or two from the results reported Friday — Carter 50, Ford 42, and 8 no opinion or other candidates.

He also said the Gallup poll results as originally released in late August and early September understated Carter's strength against Ford.

Those polls originally showed Carter 15 points ahead of Ford. Revised figures, based on larger samples, were released Friday and showed Carter was 18 points ahead of Ford in both polls, Gallup said.

In a telephone interview from his home in Princeton, N.J., Gallup said the figures released Friday for the latest poll were the result of interviews conducted last weekend with about 1,500 people.

Only registered voters are considered in the "trial heat" surveys conducted during the presidential campaign, he said, and that means the preferences of 1,000 to 1,050 voters are usually reported in the poll results.

The results released Friday showing Carter 8 points ahead of Ford were based on interviews with 887 registered voters, Gallup said. This resulted from a cut off in tabulation early last week that was necessary to get the poll results out on a timely basis, he said.

"Eight is correct," he said when asked if the poll results were accurate in saying Carter was 8 points ahead of Ford. "It is 50, 42, 8."

"Yes, it is possible the figures might change slightly," he responded when asked if the final results based on a fuller sample might reflect different figures.

"We had to draw a cut off point at some point," Gallup said. "Actually, more votes will be coming in. It might make a difference of a point or two when the final vote comes in."

He added that any difference would be within the 3 per cent margin of error established for the survey. That is, the differences would have no statistical significance.

Gallup was asked if the latest poll results reported Friday were complete. "It depends on what you call complete," he replied. "We would not have released it if we did not think it was complete."

Meanwhile, Carter's wife, Rosalynn, campaigning Saturday in Lovejoy, Ga., said a recalculation of the latest Gallup poll showed Carter with an 11 points lead over Ford instead of 8 points.

But George Gallup Sr., chairman of the Gallup organization, said Mrs. Carter was mistaken and probabaly was given misinformation by "some partisan."

"Last night we got a call that said the Gallup people made a mistake and that instead of being eight points ahead, we're 11 points ahead," Mrs. Carter said. "... Gallup had miscalculated. Instead of 50-42, we are ahead by 11 points. They didn't give us the new figures."

When robber got there the wallet was bare

Times are tough these days, even for robbers.

A lone gunman walked into a Pomona laundromat Friday night, displayed a .22 caliber revolver and forced Thomas Pareida, 29, of Pomona, to hand over his wallet.

Trouble is, the robber discovered later, there was no money in the wallet.

Pareida told police the last thing he heard was the sound of a car's engine being gunned outside the laundromat at 700 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Officers were searching for a black male in his mid-20's, about 5-foot-7, 145 pounds, who was wearing a white bandana and a GI sweat shirt.

Prosecutor dropping probe of Ford funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor has found no basis for criminal charges against President Ford and will drop his investigation of campaign financing in Ford's home county, sources familiar with the probe say.

A Justice Department source said Friday night that Watergate prosecutor Charles Ruff will clear the President in a report to be made public within several days.

A source within the FBI added that the FBI has completed its investigation for Ruff and found no basis for a prosecution.

The FBI source said the original allegation made by an FBI informant was found to be without substance. "I don't think anybody missed anything" in the investigation, this source said.

The informant's allegations were referred by top Justice Department officials to the special prosecutor. The FBI source said the informant's tip prompted a full investigation for Ruff and found no basis for a prosecution.

The FBI source said the original allegation made by an FBI informant was found to be without substance. "I don't think anybody missed anything" in the investigation, this source said.

The informant's allegations were referred by top Justice Department officials to the special prosecutor. The FBI source said the informant's tip prompted a full investigation for Ruff and found no basis for a prosecution.

Ruff has remained silent about the investigation, declining even to aknowledge its existence.

However, he has subpoenaed documents from the Republican committee in Kent County, Mich., the President's home county, and from the Marine Engineers Benevolent Association, a maritime union that has been a big contributor to Ford's campaigns for Congress.

Sources have said Ruff is seeking to determine if any money was converted illegally to Ford's personal use.

The special prosecutor's investigation has cast a cloud over the Ford campaign since the first report of the subpoenas on Sept. 21. Democrat Jimmy Carter and his running mate Walter Mondale have taken public notice of the probe, and Carter challenged Ford to answer reporters' questions about it this week.

Ford told a news conference a day later that he was confident that he would be cleared of any wrongdoing.

FBI chief marries former nun

MAGGIE VALLEY, N.C. (AP) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley slipped quietly away from Washington on Saturday and married Shirley Ann Dyckes, a former nun and elementary school teacher.

Only members of the immediate families attended the ceremony at St. Margaret's Roman Catholic Church. The best man was Kelley's son, Kent Kelley, and the matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. John R. Slavsky Jr. of Birmingham, Mich.

Kelley, 64, is a widower whose first wife died last November of cancer. Miss Dyckes now lives in Washington. She spent 15 years as a Sister of the Holy Cross before leaving the Roman Catholic order 6 years ago. Her parents live near this mountain resort.

News of the wedding came from an FBI agent who handdelivered a terse news release to The Asheville Citizen shortly before the early afternooon ceremony. The release said the newlyweds would return immediately to Washington and take up residence in the District of Columbia.

The FBI in Washington confirmed that Kelley and Miss Dyckes had been married.

Kelley announced his intention to marry Miss Dyckes early last month at a dinner in his honor in Kansas City. He said he had known Miss Dyckes for five or six months.

Miss Dyckes declined to give her age to reporters at the dinner.

Miss Dyckes was born in Miami Beach and raised in the Miami area. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Dyckes of Waynesville, N.C. She attended St. Mary's College in South Bend, Ind., and has a master's degree from Catholic University in Washington, according to the FBI news release.

Kelley was formerly chief of police in Kansas City and prior to that served 20 years with the FBI as a special agent and in various executive positions. He was born in Kansas City, graduated from the University of Kansas, and obtained a law degree at the University of Kansas City.

Cambodian premier steps down

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Cambodian Premier Pol Pot has stepped down temporarily to undergo medical treatment and was replaced by Nuon Chea, Radio Phnom Penh reported.

Little is known about either man. They came to power 18 months ago when the Communist-led Khmer Rouge defeated the U.S.-backed Phnom Penh regime.

Pol Pot had been ill for "a few months," the broadcast monitored in Bangkok said, but it gave no details of his illness.

The announcement said Nuon Chea will keep his position as president of the Permanent Committee of the Cambodian People's Congress.

With Cambodia virtually sealed off from most of the world, it was impossible to determine if the change in the government was actually the result of illness or a power shift within the Khmer Rouge.

Pol Pot and Nuon Chea are believed to be among the small group referred to as "the organization" that wields the power in Cambodia.

Pol Pot was elected to the 250-member People's Congress as a worker's representative, and some reports said he had at one time been a rubber plantation laborer. There also have been reports that Pol Pot may be an alias for Saloth Sar, a veteran revolutionary thought to be the secretary-general of the Cambodian Communist party.

Total equality for women—Carter

CHEVY CHASE, Md. (AP) — Jimmy Carter said Saturday the federal government should guarantee total equality to women.

Carter also acknowledged staying in the lodges of two lumber companies three times as their guest when he was governor of Georgia. He said "it would have been better not to" have done so and promised not to do it again.

Later in the day, Carter flew home to Plains, Ga., for a million-dollar potluck supper, country-cooked by 98 Georgia women for 200 persons who have given $5,000 or more this year to the Democratic National Committee.

Enroute, Carter press secretary Jody Powell announced that former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger will spend four hours with Carter at his home on Sunday. Other aides said Schlesinger will help prepare Carter for his second debate with President Ford.

The debate, Wednesday in San Francisco, will be on foreign policy and defense issues. Schlesinger, a critic of detente with the Soviet Union, was fired by Ford last fall.

Ford has since disavowed the term detente and adopted the motto "peace through strength." Schlesinger has said he considers "peace through strength" very close to the cold war of the past.

In a speech to representatives of national women's groups at 4-H headquarters in this suburb of Washington, D.C., the Democratic presidential candidate outlined a multipoint program to improve opportunity for women.

As president, he said he would:

—Seek a comprehensive child-care program.

—Enforce antidiscrimination regulations.

—Insist on government hiring that would bring more women into the highest levels of Civil Service.

—Act to curb discrimination against women in obtaining credit and insurance.

Carter said one trip to Cabin Bluff was part of his official effort as governor to have the state forestry department included in a state natural resources department. "It was initiated by me, and it proved unsuccessful," he said.

He said the other two trips were for hunting and fishing.

Asked whether he thinks it good practice for officials to accept such paid vacations from companies, Carter said, "No, I don't think it's a good practice."

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Hecklers and pickets demanding the firing of Earl Butz greeted Republican vice presidential candidate Bob Dole when he arrived at the airport here Saturday.

Earlier, in Burlington, Vt., a young man hurled an object — reported variously to have been a crumpled paper cup or an apple — in Dole's direction. Secret Service agents wrestled him to the ground, handcuffed him and turned him over to local police.

"I didn't think," the youth said to his mother, who was standing at his side. "I just threw a paper cup up at the crowd, and all of a sudden I'm on the ground." The Secret Service in Washington said he was arrested for disorderly conduct.

The object did not strike Dole. Burlington police said they turned the matter over to state police, who declined to discuss it. The young man was not identified.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Democratic vice presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale said Saturday an inaccurate estimate by the Ford administration of government spending misled Congress into approving a smaller tax cut than it did last month.

Mondale said the administration estimated its spending at $13 billion more than it actually was in fiscal 1976, slowing the economy and leading to an increase in unemployment by 200,000 jobs. The Minnesota senator used the figure in speeches to the New Hampshire AFL-CIO and the state Democratic convention.

Mondale's staff said the Office of Management and Budget estimated in January 1976, in the middle of the fiscal year, that expenditures would be $373.5 billion. Actual outlays turned out to be only $365.6 billion, nearly $8 billion less, the staff said.

In addition, it said, expenditures for the government's transitional budgeting quarter were overestimated by $5 billion to $6 billion. The overall difference of about $13 billion matched the figure given by Dale R. McOmber, an assistant director for the OMB, in an interview in late September.

"If we'd known that, we'd have done what the economy really needs," said Mondale, "and that is (providing) a much deeper tax cut." He added: "Because we were not given the facts, because they can't even add, some 200,000 more Americans are unemployed."

Mondale's staff said the Senate Budget Committee, of which he is a member, has estimated that the shortfall in the government spending estimate, along with a lack of "significantly larger tax relief" caused a reduction in the Gross National Product of about $13 billion.

And that, according to the staff and the committee, was responsible for the loss in jobs.

Pomona councilman asks for city gov. probe

Pomona City Councilman Charles Bader will ask the council Monday to form a special committee to study the "friction and dissatisfaction that exists within our city government."

In a letter to the council, dated Thursday, Bader told the council that "there seems to be a spirit of confrontation existing rather than the spirit of cooperation that once existed."

Bader will propose that the special ad hoc committee include two members of the City Council, two members of the city's Merit System Commission and one member of the city's Community Life Commission.

The committee should meet with all departments and employe groups, suggests Bader.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting will include council consideration of the preliminary boundaries for the proposed Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Project Area. Generally the proposed boundaries include the undeveloped portion of the Ganesha Hills north of the San Bernardino Freeway and east of Ganesha Boulevard.

Man in wreckage for 16 days had leg removed

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — John Vihtelic, pinned for 16 days in the wreckage of a car in a rugged section of Washington state, has had his left leg amputated below the knee.

Doctors at Emanuel Hospital said Saturday that Vihtelic, 27, was in satisfactory condition following the 2½-hour operation Friday.

Vihtelic, a former Green Beret medic from Michigan, used his ingenuity to survive a car wreck on a U.S. Forest Service road Sept. 12 in Skamania County.

On a return trip from Mt. Rainier, his car went into a steep ravine and rolled several times, pinning Vihtelic's leg between the car's dashboard and a tree.

Finally, using a rock to sharpen a tire iron, he freed himself and crawled to the road, where he was found Monday by a log truck driver.

He was in Oregon for a two-week training course held by a manufacturer of kidney dialysis machines.

Agree to train minorities to meet defense contract skill standards

By PHYLLIS CANNON

Pomona school and community representatives have told four Defense Department people they will cooperate in formulating a plan to train minorities and women to meet defense contractor's job skill needs.

Purpose of the proposed training will be to assist the contractors in complying with federal Affirmative Action requirements.

Col. Lothar Fox, commander of The Defense Contract Administration Services Management Area, Pasadena, along with three department equal opportunity specialists, met with the Pomona group for more than two hours Friday afternoon at the Pomona library.

The specialists were John Rolle, Cindy Kunda and David Kalish.

Rolle conducted the discussion. He explained he had met Thursday with a group of defense contractors and they had expressed a willingness to cooperate in such a plan.

Rolle, disappointed with the turnout Friday, said a meeting to bring together the community, school and industry people would be held in Pomona probably the first week in November.

Those in attendance Friday were Mrs. Dorothy Peters of the Pomona NAAP Center; Al Varela and Clyde Hampton Jr. of the county probation department; Ken Stewart from the South Hills Neighborhood Service Center; Clarence Webb, community relations coordinator; and Supt. Charles Carpenter and intergroup coordinators Melvin Banks and John Avila of the school district.

Rolle explained that government contractors are required to support Affirmative Action programs in the hiring and promoting of minorities and women to insure continued funding.

"This is clearly missing in some recruitment efforts," he said.

Some contractors had resented being labeled "the enemy" and had been frustrated by having to interview unqualified job applicants sent to them, he added.

Banks asked what the contractor's were doing to "reach out" to the minorities and women. "I don't see any reaching out," said Rolle. "There seems to be a feeling of waiting for someone else to move.

"I hope at our November meeting we can come up with something to really move on."

Fox said that in the Pasadena-Pomona area he commands there are 400 to 450 defense contractors with contracts in excess of $1 billion. He declined to name major valley contractors, or estimate the number of people employed in the defense industry.

Mrs. Peters told the defense people she resented the fact that individuals who had served time in prison could not claim experience for work done in prison when making out an application for a job in a defense plant.

"They will omit that training, out of fear, and just put nothing down for that period of time," she said.

Varela said men and women on parole are not required to "reveal their status" on an employment application, "but if they don't and are hired, later they may be fired for falsification of records."

Stewart voiced "disappointment over the scope" of what was proposed and said major job needs in Pomona were among adults, not teen-agers.

Carpenter suggested that the Baldy View Regional Occupational Program (ROP) and Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut also be involved in the planning meeting in November.

"This is the first time we have had federal representatives in this district," said Banks. "This is a good first step towards bringing our diverse groups together, to assist youth and the people of the community."

Fox said his staff annually monitors the defense contractors in his area. "Each one is required to provide an equal opportunity program, an Affirmative Action plan. We may accept it, reject it or modify it. We watch very carefully their recruitment, hiring and promotion patterns.

"They must comply or we can and do bring sanctions against them, going as far as barring them from receiving additional government contracts."

"We don't sanction just one plant, we sanction the corporate headquarters," said Rolle. "This gives us clout."

S.B. citizens committee opposes salary increase

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A San Bernardino County citizens' committee will recommend Monday that the Board of Supervisors receive no salary increase this year other than a five per cent hike already scheduled.

The 11-member committee will oppose a nearly 40 per cent pay hike that supervisors voted themselves in August. The board later rescinded the increase and threw the issue to the citizens' committee.

The committee, chosen by the San Bernardino County Taxpayers' Association, is scheduled to present its report opposing the salary boost to the board at 2 p.m.

A study of the pay hike from $21,612 to $30,178 a year began a month ago after supervisors bowed to citizens' protest.

Committee members have based their opposition to the large pay hike on a comparison with other county supervisors' wage scales.

"We are number seven in population among 58 counties and in the state and number five in salary range," noted Elaine Woodson of Chino, who served on the committee.

"In my opinion, we're on a par with others. Salaries aren't out of line."

Supervisors, with the five per cent boost they will receive in December, would be paid $22,692 annually, only $874 less than average pay for supervisors in five counties — San Diego, Orange, Riverside, Kern and Ventura.

Committee members also will suggest Monday that a similar citizens' panel be formed every other year to review the question of compensation to board members — and the five-county average should be a factor considered.

Mrs. Woodson said the panel unanimously agreed this week that the proposed 40 per cent hike was unreasonable.

"My opinion is they merit a five per cent increase. I feel supervisors are worth their weight in gold, but how do you transfer that into what can be borne by taxpayers?"

She noted that with property reassessments this year, averaging 18 per cent in Chino for example, "where do we stop? I'd like to see cutbacks in government all down the line."

Mrs. Woodson, president of Glenridge Hills Homeowners Association, said the proposed raise by supervisors was "bad timing politically."

Supervisors' Chairman Dennis Hansberger has said it is likely the board will agree to the committee's finding, but he wondered if the panel's study was thorough enough.

Mrs. Woodson indicated she felt supervisors will accede to wishes of the county committee. However, she figures Monday's meeting to be a "hot one."

Public jobs bill passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a compromise public works jobs bill Friday which Democratic sponsors said would generate more than 350,000 jobs.

D Street Mini School begins fall schedule

The fall schedule of activities at the D Street Mini-Community Center in Ontario begins Monday. The activities under the auspices of the Ontario Recreation Department continue through Dec. 17.

The non-fee adult classes include beginning macrame on Mondays from 9 to 11 a.m. with Chris Castro as the instructor. Kay Schnur will teach knitting and crocheting on Wednesdays from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Students are asked to provide their own materials. These classes are offered on a first come, first served basis.

Youth activities include a tiny tot program, arts and crafts and rhythmic activities on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m. There will also be an after-school program Monday through Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. and Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. Arts and crafts, cartoons and leisure drop-in activities are planned.

The youth boxing program, under the direction of Fred Guzman, will continue on Mondays from 6 to 8 p.m.

Those wanting additional information may call Chris Castro, 984-6363, or the recreation department, 986-1151, extension 242.

Jaycees to host dinner

The Pomona Jaycees will host their annual "Old Timer Night" Tuesday at the Pomona Elks Club. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m., preceeded by a cocktail hour at 6:30.

Assisting the Jaycees in the meeting will be past President Fred Freeling and President Tom Dreyer.

FIVE TONS OF POT

Humboldt County sheriff's deputies are pictured with some of more than 10,000 pounds of marijuana confiscated earlier this week on several small farms in the hills of southern Humboldt County. Sheriff Gene Cox said about 15 farms were raided and that primary objective of the raids was to seize the plants, although five persons were arrested.

No beer in Venus

VENUS, Tex. (AP) — There might be water on Mars, but there is no beer in Venus.

There hasn't been a beer sold legally in this town in its 83-year history. Sales of other alcoholic beverages also are illegal.

And, on Tuesday, all but 10 of the registered voters in this 414-member community 35 miles south of Dallas came out to vote to keep it that way.

The drys had it 129 to 86 in what residents say was the town's biggest voter turnout — bigger than any city council or school board election.

Election Judge D.F. Burgess said of the turnout, "The elderly and the crippled turned out to vote and maybe some of the wets didn't care enough to vote."

Conti Russell, a 79-year-old, life-long Venus resident, who was on hand outside of City Hall to boost support for the dry side, told why he was against the idea of beer sales:

"There's no harm in a man drinking a can of beer if he takes it home. But you know one things leads to another. A man will go from beer to some hard stuff and later will end up on dope."

Dry proponents, who formed an organization called Citizens Against Beer, warned local residents that Venus would become the only wet spot in Johnson County. They said everybody in the county would flock to Venus for beer, and they claimed police would have to be hired because the town would no longer be safe for children.

But City Councilman James Flatt, who supported the sale of beer, saw it as a way to raise tax money for a new park and road repairs.

"People here just don't realize how this defeat will hurt the town financially," Flatt bemoaned.

Coffee Co. raises prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nestle Co. has announced that it is raising the wholesale price of three brands of instant coffee by 7 to 14 per cent, but it says consumers will not feel the increase until the end of the year.

A spokesman for the company, the nation's second biggest producer of instant coffee, said Wednesday it will be up to individual stores to decide whether to pass the price hikes on to the public.

Nescafe instant will go up by 4½ cents an ounce, or 12 per cent; Nescafe decaffeinated will rise by 6 cents an ounce, or 14 per cent; and Nestle Decaf will increase 3 cents an ounce, or 7 per cent, according to the company announcement. The freeze-dried coffees are unaffected.

The increase follows hikes announced earlier in the summer by General Foods Corp., the industry leader.

The International Coffee Organization, an industry association, reported that the price of green coffee beans has risen 50 per cent since the beginning of the year and 164 per cent since July 1975.

Among factors cited as contributing to the increase were frosts that damaged the Brazilian coffee crop and the war in the African coffee producing nation of Angola.

Wiener, of San Bernardino, spoke during the Friday ceremony. Completion of the center will meet requirements for creditation.

Judge gives slow ruling

MIAMI (AP) — Earl Petinsky can keep driving his gasoline-powered three-wheeler through Miami at its top speed of 12 miles per hour, a county judge says.

Petinsky, paralyzed by polio from the waist down since he was 2, was charged with driving his hand-controlled vehicle too slowly on a four-lane road last July.

County Judge Ruth L. Sutton found him innocent Wednesday. "I don't feel he was creating a traffic hazard at that time of day," she said.

A policeman stopped Petinsky at noon on a street with a 30 m.p.h. speed limit. There was no minimum speed posted.

Petinsky, 28, uses the golfcart type vehicle to drive 2½ miles to his job selling telephone answering machines. He is unable to drive a car because of slow reaction time.

He has a driver's license which restricts him to a speed of 12 m.p.h.

"I'm glad it's over," Petinsky said. "I hope it ends my problem."

Book blasts myths about growing old

By MURRAY PROJECTOR

THE ULYSSEAN ADULT — Creativity in the Middle and Later Years by John A. B. McLeish, McGraw-Hill Ryerson, $12.50.

In a throwaway society, writes Mr. McLeish, "Old age is the ultimate stigma."

The stigma goes with the role that society assigns to senior citizens. There are "powerful social, cultural, and economic pressures that lead the aged to disengage from active, dynamic involvement in society, and into a depressed, deprived and unproductive existence."

(Murray Projector is a consulting actuary in the Pomona Valley.)

The Ulyssean Adult, as the author sees it, refuses his assigned role as a senior citizen and writes his own script. Such an adult has a "sense of quest," an "openness to experience," and "looks upon misfortune as a learning experience."

The Ulyssean knows that age itself does not lead to a decline and fall of the cognitive or intellectual powers. For successful learning, the essentials are not youth but capacity, interest, energy and time. With good health, the older citizen could continue as the protagonist in a significant drama.

For the Ulyssean, the older citizen in good health, "the later years can be lived actively and creatively, rather than reactively and listlessly."

The goal is to restore a sense of excitement, to achieve one's creative potential despite opposing social attitudes, to live in the future and not in the past.

The author's message is unassailable. Creativity does not decline with age, and society is at fault in the negative image of aging that it seeks to impose on those in their middle and later years. This reviewer, nevertheless, finished the book dissatisfied.

Mr. McLeish is too casual about the difference between creativity and productivity. He himself is a consultant on higher education and adult learning, with a distinguished academic career of over 25 years. In his profession, creativity IS productivity. But for the overwhelming majority, their careers are built on productivity without creativity.

Aging in such creers means retirement, usually without choice, from employment as employees. And productivity without employment is a contradiction.

In addition, many careers have physical demands. Since physical capacity does decline with age, even if good health is maintained, it is of no solace to prove that creativity does not decline with age.

The minority of us, those with employment dependent on creativity, are fortunate in that aging can be coped with in ways that are congruent with current life styles. For us McLeish's Odyssey does apply.

One hour is worth a hundred books, if that hour is spent listening and looking in the waiting room of the Pomona Social Security Office. For many in that room there is really nothing to look forward to, despite good health and adequate income. Involuntary retirement from productive but non-creative employment makes society's stigma indelible.

"The Ulyssean Adult" is of value for those to whom it is addressed. That makes it successful, even if it is addressed to few of us.

Retiring Ali writes autobiography

By N. C. POLOS

'MY OWN STORY, THE GREATEST. Muhammed Ali with Richard Durham. Ballantine paperback, $1.95.

(Nicholas C. Polos is professor of history at La Verne College.)

Most of heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali's accomplishments are gleefully covered by the press with the champ's outspoken assistance aided and abetted by Howard Cosell, "a legend in his own mind."

This book is part of the literature that is dedicated to perpetuating the myth. Institutionalizing the myth is a difficult undertaking yet Ali has not been totally unsuccessful in achieving some acceptance of his concept of "The Greatest."

At the beginning of this paperback there is a chart of Ali's "Professional Fight Record;" and this alone should convince us that if Ali's record is not the greatest he is close to this golden claim. His total lifetime earnings are $31,251,115.

Ali's ghostwriter or spooksman is Richard Durham, a prizewinning journalist and TV playwright, who has traveled extensively with him the past five years. He has a readable style which gives the reader the "You Were There," feeling about the world of one professional athlete. The book has an honest tone and it attempts to capture the nature of the man with the thousand faces. Whether you like Ali or hate him or are even just apathetic about him you will come away with the feeling that here is indeed a man who has a flair for the championship.

Durham and Ali have collaborated on presenting to the public (in 22 short chapters) Ali's personal chronicle — the struggles, the setbacks and the triumphs; from the time when Ali was barred from boxing to the present. This is, in essence, really the basic flaw in the book, a kind of sin of omission, in that the book concentrates on Ali's recent adventures in life. Although there are incidents of historical retreats into the past, much, indeed most, of the book dwells on Ali's recent fights, and his recent adventures as a fighter in the public eye.

Even the private life of Ali is described in rather skimpy fashion, and the private man is relegated to flamboyant statements which seem to have been written for only one purpose — to add to the institutionalization of the myth — that Muhammad Ali is the greatest.

This taste of superficiality spoils the book, but over and against this the authors introduce the reader to the boxing world, and for the ardent fight fans the book has a familiar ring to it all.

This book is not a routine athlete's biography, and the candor, intimacy of its style does make for enjoyable reading. For a small price you will get a glimpse of an intelligent and independent man who happens to be a prizefighter.

Books

Soap opera joins thriller

THE BARBOZA CREDENTIALS. By Peter Driscoll. Lippincott. $8.95.

Well, it seems the soap opera has merged with the thriller. At least that's the best way to describe "The Barboza Credentials," a book that bogs down in plot, subplot, and subsubplot, and becomes subpar.

A shame, because it is written by a man who apparently possesses a lot of the necessary qualities that make up writing skill. Unfortunately, one of those qualities — imagination — gets too much usage and the result is a book that makes it tedious for the reader to keep up with who did what, when, how and where.

The novel is set in Africa and concerns conflicts that grew out of a revolutionary movement, particularly the destruction of a group of villagers.

The main character around which the plots revolve, or stumble, is a former policeman who had a clandestine international business getting things in and out of South Africa. And a major flaw in this book is that the reader is asked to attach believability to a lot of the decisions and action taken by the old cop. It's asking a lot of the reader.

By the time the reader discovers what he or she has been asked to swallow, it is too late to back out. Curiosity alone forces one to keep reading to find out how the plots get untangled. Instead of a joy, the reader gets an obligation, which not only is unnecessary, it's uninteresting.

Novel may haunt deceased author

By JOY STILLEY
AP Book Critic

DOLORES. By Jacqueline Susann. Morrow, 201 Pages. $6.95.

It's hard to find much good to say about Jacqueline Susann's final novel. Unless it's the fact that it's easy on the eyes, printed with lots of white space and wide margins — apparently so the book wouldn't appear as slim as the plot.

It's easy on the intellect, too, being couched in short "see Jane run"-type sentences. The dialogue runs to stilted speeches such as: "Tomorrow you must sleep and catch up with the jet lag. The parties start the following day. And a good round of them we have, too, finalizing with a ball of our own in your honor at the country estate."

The story begins with Dolores, who is always called Dolo and hates it, returning to Washington on Air Force One as the widow of James T. Ryan, "affectionately called Jimmy by everyone." The country's most charismatic president, he has just been assassinated — in New Orleans.

It ends with Dolores' marriage to the wealthy and powerful 60ish Baron Erick de Savonne, with whom her beautiful and younger sister Nita is in love.

In between there are not too many surprises for anyone who's been reading the newspapers the past dozen or so years.

Dolores becomes the darling of the press, is escorted by her handsome brother-in-law, is chummy with her dowager mother-in-law and keeps a motherly eye on her daughter and younger twin sons.

She has her financial problems, having been left an annual allowance of only $30,000. And she has her romantic problems, being in love with a man who married for money and must remarry for the same reason when his wife conveniently dies.

While Miss Susann's previous best sellers, "Valley of the Dolls," "The Love Machine" and "Once Is Not Enough," were hardly great literature, they did have plot and action and characters that showed some motivation.

This book was completed shortly before the author died and perhaps it would have been better to leave her reputation as a story teller intact. But there will undoubtedly be enough of her fans eager to read one last Susann novel to make this a best seller too, despite its shortcomings.

Education

AUGUSTA, Ark. (AP) — When James William Duffy received his diploma from the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff recently, it brought to a close a 22-year effort of Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Duffy to educate all their 12 children.

Duffy, 72, a retired farmer who now works as caretaker of a cemetery, and Mrs. Duffy, 65, who works in the home of a family, have sent all their offspring through the university at Pine Bluff, and have seen seven of them go on to earn master's degrees from Louisiana State University, Harvard University, the University of Pennsylvania and the University of California.

GROUNDBREAKING — Looking over plans for the first in a series of medical facilities planned by the Family Health Medical Group are Larry Walker, representing Assemblyman Bill McVittie; Dr. A.H. Garry Gibson, president of the Pomona General Medical Centers; Jackie Lloyd, wife of Rep. Jim Lloyd; Mayor Ray Lepire of Pomona; and Charles A. Amis from the office of State Senator Ruben Ayala. The new facility will be located on Garey Avenue in Pomona. There are 27,000 patients served by the medical group.

Police sargeant discusses home security at meeting

Pomona Police Sgt. Art Traber will explain how to secure homes against vandalism at a Pomona Base, California Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP) meeting Wednesday.

The meeting will be held in the Education Center auditorium, 800 S. Garey Ave., at 7:30 p.m. and will be open to the public.

Base Cmdr. Jack Botkin said C-CAP "is not a law enforcement organization.

"We are merely the eyes and ears of our friends, our neighbors, the police and the fire departments. C-CAP is free to all citizens. We have no fees, fines or dues.

"We are willing to assist you or your organization set up a block to block watch program, with or without becoming a C-CAP member. Our services are free. We fund our organization strictly by donations and all contributions are tax deductible," he explained.

As Botkin explained, C-CAP is set up in four categories:

—It has a radio patrol group of 30 volunteers who patrol the residential and business areas of Pomona at designated times.

—It has a block-to-block watch program designed to involve all persons of all areas of the city in an attempt to curb crime. "We have found in the areas in which this program has been organized, crime has been reduced to a minimum," said Botkin.

—It has qualified speakers willing to meet with any clubs, organizations or citizens groups to assist them in setting up C-CAP programs in their areas.

—It has an office staff on duty five days a week Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. willing to give information on C-CAP programs. Telephone numbers are 623-2554 and 623-2555. The emergency or hotline number, open 24 hours a day seven days a week, is 622-3233.

The C-CAP office is in room 316 of the Progress Bulletin building. Membership applications may be picked up there.

Zinc skin

BETHELEHM, Pa. (AP) — Zinc oxide, which many an Earthling uses to prevent a sunburned nose, is protecting the "skin" of the Viking lander from the harsh Martian environment.

A super-purity oxide was developed by New Jersey Zinc Co. of Gulf & Western Natural Resources Group to withstand temperatures of minus 200 degrees Fahrenheit, Martian dust storms with winds up to 60 m.p.h.

George Wythe, the "faithful and beloved Mentor" of Jefferson at William and Mary, joined his law pupil in submitting the bill for religious freedom to the Virginia House of Delegates in 1779. Wythe was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, helped draft the Constitution and established the first professorship in law in the United States. The World Almanac recalls Wythe, along with James Madison and George Mason supporting Jefferson in transforming the royal colony of Virginia into a democratic commonwealth.

Construction on new medical center begins

Construction has begun on a new medical facility at 805 S. Garey Ave., Pomona. This is the first in a series of such offices planned by General Medical Centers, Inc.

The center will serve the health care needs of members of the Family Health Medical Group and the General Centers Health Plan. It will also treat a number of patients on a fee-for-service basis.

More than 27,000 persons in the Pomona, San Bernardino and San Gabriel areas are served by the two health organizations.

When completed, the center will be staffed by four doctors. It will include consultation and examination rooms, x-ray and physiotherapy equipment and a pharmacy.

Center officials emphasize that by providing early and effective treatment at such facilities, it is possible to reduce the incidents of serious illnesses and the need for extensive hospitalization.

Banner policy left hanging in Claremont

The policy controlling hanging of banners over Indian Hill Boulevard continues to plague the Claremont City Council.

Council members Tuesday night asked the Claremont Civic Association to make some concrete recommendations as to allowing such banners for civic events or for private organizations.

Some time ago, the council hoping to still the parade of requests from various organizations wishing to advertise their events said the only events which could be publicized on a banner over Indian Hill Boulevard at Memorial Park would be community-sponsored affairs such as Fourth Of July celebration, Halloween, and the Easter egg hunt.

But the council relented a little last fall when the Los Angeles County Fair Association, rebuffed the previous fall, asked permission to advertise the annual fair at Pomona.

The council approved the banner last year and again this year for the fair.

The Chamber of Commerce asked permission recently to publicize its Village Venture III in October, but was told the banner spot would be occupied by one publicizing Halloween.

Permission was given to the chamber, though, to hang a banner in the Village business district.

Because of the no-banner policy, the council a couple weeks ago said no for a banner publicizing the Second Annual Senior Citizens Information and Health Fair Oct. 27 at Taylor Hall.

Tuesday night members of the Claremont Junior Womans Club asked for further discussion of their request for a banner.

Fair chairman Mrs. Carl Henny told the council: "We have a lot of support for our fair. The Pomona senior citizens fair doesn't provide the service our does. There is no comparison between publicized leisuretime activities and what we are putting on. We must have a way of reaching our senior citizens."

Mrs. Liz Allen of the Civic Association called upon the city to re-evaluate its policy on banners.

She suggested the city designate alternate sites along Indian Hill Boulevard.

Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen supported the fair as "beyond a leisuretime activity."

Councilman Richard Newton called the whole banner policy a tough one, and said there are 100 good causes to publicize.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald suggested that maybe four places in the city could be designated for banners.

She said that Indian Hill Boulevard at Memorial Park is "one of the worst places to hang a banner. It detracts from the beauty of the trees."

The council agreed to allow the womans club to put up a banner in the Village to publicize the senior citizens fair.

The 'whys' of the problem

Teen suicide rate nearly doubled during '70's

The teen suicide rate almost doubled during the seventies, according to the U.S. Public Health Service.

With suicide the third highest killer of young people — after accidents and homicides — Seventeen magazine delves into the "whys" of the problem, explodes some potentially dangerous myths and offers advice on how to prevent teen suicides.

Most suicidal teens suffer, as do older people, from deep and devastating depressions.

They are so overwhelmed by feelings of helplessness and hopelessness that even the slightest setback — a broken date or an unkept promise — becomes too much to handle.

While everyone gets depressed at times, severely depressed people feel that way all the time. Dejection, anger, frustration and a sense of worthlessness grow until they fill the person's entire life. Lonely and isolated in their despair, may begin to see death as the only way out.

At the root of the despondency are deep feelings of being unloved and unwanted.

It's not true that people who talk about suicide don't do it, that someone who tries and survives won't try again, that all people who kill themselves are insane, that most suicides take place late at night, or that people who commit suicide usually leave notes.

It's also not true that nothing can stop a person who has decided to commit suicide, or that talking about suicide to a troubled person may give the person suicidal ideas.

Deep dejection beyond the everyday moods of life, withdrawal from others, feelings of being worthless and an air of hopelessness are classic signs of a depression that may lead to a suicide attempt.

Also, wild, angry behavior, sudden heavy drinking or drug-taking, a sharp drop in grades, extreme boredom and restlessness, or preoccupation with thoughts of death.

WHAT TO DO?

If you suspect someone you know may be in danger of committing suicide, don't be afraid to talk to your friend about your suspicions. You can defuse hidden feelings by bringing them out into the open.

As quickly as possible, tell other people about your concern. Involve adults, parents, a favorite teacher, a minister or a rabbi.

A teen-ager or group of teen-agers should never try to handle a suicide situation alone.

Even if you have been sworn to secrecy about suicide plans, break the confidence and reveal the plans. Saving a life is more important.

If you find yourself alone with someone who you believe is in immediate danger of committing suicide, stay with the person until you can get help.

Your presence and attention may carry the person through the height of the crisis.

Urge friends or relatives who feel deeply depressed to get professional help.

Suicide prevention centers throughout the area take calls seven days a week, 24 hours a day. Many are listed in the telephone directory under suicide or crisis. There also are community health centers, psychiatric hospitals and student health services at schools.

Registration for dogs now accepted

Registration is being accepted for dogs of all breeds, six months of age and older, for dog obedience classes offered by the San Dimas recreation department.

The 11-week course will cover all novice obedience exercises, including the proper heel, sit, down, stay, stand, and come commands. Classes will meet on Thursdays from 8 to 9 p.m. beginning Thursday. Also included will be offleash work and help with correcting problems such as chewing and hole-digging. The first meeting will be an orientation, held without dogs, in the recreation crafts room in City Hall. All other classes will meet in the City Hall parking lot.

The fee is $12 for children, 14 years and younger, and $20 for adults. Trophies and certificates will be awarded at graduation.

For information regarding times and dates of registration, call the recreation office 599-6713. Late registration is possible up to the third class meeting only if space is available.

'You and the Law' meetings planned

The Chaffey Adult School will conduct a series on "You and the Law" at four meetings during October.

The series is presented by the Western San Bernardino County Bar Association. It begins Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and continues for four Thursdays. It will be held in room 117 of the new math-science building. Admission is free. Tickets may be obtained at the classroom the night of the lecture or in the adult school office located in a mobile trailer on the Chaffey High School campus. The telephone number is 983-2010.

The series will feature presentations by attorneys who specialize in the topic they present and will be followed by a question and answer period.

All programs are open to the public. The topics and dates are:

Thursday — "Family Law," covering the areas of dissolution laws, reconciliation, custody, support and property division.

Oct. 14th — "Contract Law and Consumer Probation Laws," which are practical to the average citizen who enters into day to day contracts when buying vacuums, freezers, and other appliances.

Oct. 21 — "personal Injury and Compensation Law," an introduction to the procedures for filing properly for benefits.

Oct. 28 — "Wills and Estates, Probate Law," how to save taxes and provide for your family in the event of your death.

On the highways, slower speeds save lives, save energy. For example, traffic deaths were down by 9400 in 1975, as compared to 1973, when speed limits were higher than 55.

And we could save eight and a half million gallons of gasoline a day if everybody slowed down.

The point is, the 55 mph speed limit isn't something to take or leave lightly. It's vitally important. To all of us.

55 MPH.

Freeway funding vote split

The Claremont City Council has split 3-2 on supporting a proposed resolution from the City of Pasadena that the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) and the state Legislature be urged to increase funding for freeway construction projects.

Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen said she was concerned about the definition of "missing links" in the resolution which asked for funds to expedite completion of such links in the state's freeway system.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald didn't agree with the whereases in the resolution and moved not to support the resolution. Only Mrs. Cohen supported the McDonald motion.

Councilman Richard Newton's motion to support the resolution passed, 3-2.

The council unanimously passed a resolution urging that all appropriate steps be taken to construct sound barriers on freeways.

Vietnamese community finds niche in Pomona

By ED PRATHER

Confusion, turmoil and possible fraud swirled around the arrival of Pomona's Vietnamese population one year ago.

Today those qualities have given way to hard work — producing a stable and growing community of these new Americans in Pomona.

Their problems have not disappeared, of course. There is still a very difficult language barrier separating them from much of their new society. And there is still a general lack of technical skills and formal education.

And there is still poverty.

But the Vietnamese are proving to be more than a match for all those difficulties.

It was late September last year

First days were marked with confusion that two large groups of Vietnamese arrived in Pomona carrying all that they owned in their arms.

Their first days here were marked by total confusion, as city representatives, Red Cross workers and others scrambled to find food, clothing, blankets and other necessities.

Within weeks the Vietnamese became the center of attention in a legal controversy involving their sponsor, Gerald Martin, who was seeking to bring even more Vietnamese than the 200 already sponsored here.

In the wake of disclosures that Martin was using federal funds intended for the refugees to finance and operate a gardening firm in Orange County, in which he hoped to use the Vietnamese as laborers, his sponsorships broke down.

The Vietnamese were offered a chance to leave Pomona since it would be impossible to find enough local sponsors to replace Martin.

With their children in school and others already employed, the Vietnamese turned down the offer and remained here.

Today their progress is not only seen in material gains — many have purchased automobiles — but in their attitude toward this town.

They like it here. So much so that Vietnamese families from other cities and other states have moved to Pomona to join those already here.

Chip Blount, of the Tolstoy Foundation, the non-profit volunteer organization that took over upon Martin's departure, said that Vietnamese families from as far away as Kansas City and Washington, D.C. have moved here upon the suggestion of refugees in Pomona.

In addition to general monitoring of the Vietnamese families in Pomona, the Tolstoy Foundation has been attempting to help the refugees with language instruction.

Pomona refugees as a group posed a particular problem in learning English because many of them were

Invisible minority group of Chinese ancestry and did not speak Vietnamese.

To get around that difficulty, said Blount, a Chinese minister, Wai Chou Leong, was hired to supervise teaching the Chinese-speaking refugees the language. Classes were begun about six months ago and are still continuing several nights a week.

"They're progressing about as well as can be expected considering that many of them were not literate in any language at all," said Reed Nelson of the Tolstoy Foundation in Los Angeles.

The Pomona School District's Adult Education program is expected to take over the teaching chore within the next few weeks, but Tolstoy will continue to fund a portion of the program, said Nelson.

At this point, however, Tolstoy has little financial help to offer. It is simply running out of the federal money passed out last year to get the Vietnamese sponsorship program going.

In any event, the Vietnamese, even with only basic language skills, are discovering niches for themselves in the southland economic system.

As intended by Martin some have become gardeners. Others have worked in odd jobs of one kind and another. And others have gone to work in factories.

Nelson said he is aware of five or six Vietnamese that make as much as $60 a day doing piece work at a mobile home assembly plant.

Proof that the Vietnamese are finding self-support can be found in the records kept by the Department of Public Social Services in Pomona.

Bill Hutchinson, director of the Pomona office, said that about one-third of the original group receiving welfare benefits are no longer receiving assistance and that many others are receiving only partial benefits. A total of about 90 individuals are currently on the welfare roles.

Hutchinson said that out of 200 Vietnamese originally receiving food stamps, only about 70 are still in need of that type of assistance.

Progressing as well as can be expected

"One of the problems we saw was the lack of money management know-how. But they haven't really had any more difficulty than others," said Hutchinson.

To handle the Vietnamese caseload, the office hired both Vietnamese and Chinese language interpreters.

For most in the community the Vietnamese are a rather invisible minority group. They tend to keep to themselves, they have certainly not been a police problem or caused any other kind of difficulty to the community.

Not that they are not friendly. But it is still a strange and somewhat bewildering society they now live in.

For example, consider life during the last two years for Tuen Tran, 29.

Two years ago Tran was a Vietnamese naval officer with a young wife in Saigon.

As the fall of the Saigon regime drew Tran found it near impossible to leave his post and return to the Vietnamese capital to evacuate his wife.

His ship landed in the Phillipines. Two months passed. He arrived at Camp Pendleton and discovered his wife had escaped the country and was there also.

Since then he and his wife, Nga, have been routed through the immigration redtape, found a new home in Pomona and, five months ago Saturday, got a new addition to the family — a baby born at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Tran is busy building his family's future by studying television and radio repair at the Puente Adult School.

No doubt every one of Pomona's new residents has a similar story to tell, and Tran may also be a typical story when he says simply, "Yes, I like it here."

CREATING WITH CLAY

ADDING AND TAKING AWAY

150 Viets attend Pomona schools

This fall 150 Vietnamese boys and girls are enrolled in Pomona's public schools.

"This is more than we had when school let out in June," said William E. Pitts, director of elementary education in the district.

"We have new families from Fontana and Rialto and several other communities."

Pitts said that generally, the children attend schools in southeast and northeast sections of the community, near apartment complexes where the families live.

"The Vietnamese children are learning English extremely rapidly," said Pitts. "They are blending into the schools very well.

"Some of the youngsters who live in areas where the families are grouped together are retaining their own languages longer and not learning English as quickly as the ones living in private homes.

"Children coming from homes sponsored by individuals are learning more rapidly because of their total immersion."

Praise of the Vietnamese boys and girls are being orderly, disciplined and quick learners, was voiced by Pomona educators from the classroom up to the top level of district administrators.

"They are learning the ways of our culture extremely quickly," said Pitts, "and they seem to thoroughly enjoy the school experience."

Last fall when the refugee children first began to arrive into the public schools here, the district began hiring what were called facilitators — translators who could speak the various languages spoken by the children.

The facilitators accompanied the children as they learned the daily routine of school, talked with parents to assure them of what was happening to their children, and cooperated with classroom teachers by explaining teachers; instructions to the students.

These facilitators are back on the job this fall.

Educators said many of the boys and girls need very little help now, they are so proficient in English. But some of the boys and girls still need this assistance.

Since the Vietnamese children arrived in the community, milk, breakfasts and lunches served at school have been made available to them.

Pomona's Food Service Department participates fully in federal and state subsieized programs in providing hot breakfasts and hot lunches and milk to public school students from pre-school up to 12th grade.

In addition to the instruction the Vietnamese boys and girls receive in the classroom of the public schools, many of them have received additional English language lessons going to night classes with their parents.

These classes are taught — three nights a week at the Pomona Junior Academy by certificated teachers and supervised by a Chinese Seventh-day Adventist Church pastor from West Covina named Wai Chow Leong.

The classes have been financed by the Tolstoy Foundation, the organization which administered federal resettlement funds paid refugee sponsors.

Foundation staff members say now their funding is depleted and they will ask the Pomona Adult School to take over this language school operation.

"We have had 85 to 90 of the Vietnamese people, along with their children attending these classes regularly," said Chip Blount, a Tolstoy spokesman.

"We began in rented space at the Alcott Elementary School and later switched over to Pomona Junior Academy when attendance grew so large.

"Mr. Leong has donated his time. He felt the children would not be able to do their homework if they did not receive additional language instruction. He has spent hundreds of hours in Pomona working with the Vietnamese adults and children."

Blount said that a Pomona family, a father and his young daughter, had come to the academy week after week to sit the babies while the parents and older children were taught to speak, read and write English.

Ill effects of real growth

Officially, the U.S. population stood at 215.7 million at the middle of 1976. Actually, nobody knows for sure how many of us there really are.

The official figure does not include an undercount of 5.3 million announced by the Bureau of the Census several years ago, says Robert Cook, population consultant to The Environmental Fund and formerly president of the Population Reference Bureau. Nor does it allow for the entry into this country of illegal aliens since the undercount was determined.

Of the 11 million visitors to the United States in the past year, a million may have stayed on illegally. There is no record of their departure. The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) estimates that a minimum of 400,000 are still illegally in this country.

In addition, two or three million aliens entered the country illegally in the same period, and fewer than one million were apprehended and deported. Again, the INS estimates that at least 800,000 stayed on.

Even using the conservative figures of the INS, and combining them with the census undercount, this means that the actual population of the United States is more than 220 million.

The natural increase of Americans (the excess of births over deaths) increased our population by .59 per cent in the past year. But when immigration — legal and illegal — is added, population growth was more than 1.2 per cent.

The first figure would double the U.S. population in 117 years; the second figure would double it in 57 years. And while our population doubles, the world's present population of four billion will quadruple, if current growth rates continue.

If that happens, says Justin Blackwelder, president of The Environmental Fund, "the conservationists and ecologists can close up shop. It will be impossible to conserve anything."

Booming communication

Citizens Band radio has been getting all the attention, but the whole two-way radio industry has been experiencing a boom for the past 10 years.

Federal Communications Commission figures show that the total number of authorized transmitters in all categories of use increased from 5.2 million in 1965 to more than 14 million in 1975.

The classifications include Citizens Band, amateur (ham), aviation, industrial, public safety and transportation.

In sheer numbers, the growth of CB radio has been the most spectacular, jumping from 2.3 million in 1965 to nearly 6 million in 1975. The number of transmitters in the public safety field, however, went up six fold — from 544,000 to 3.3 million.

Only amateur radio registered a decline for the period, dropping from 286,000 to 276,000.

Revealing repressions

Reviewing a biography of Mao Tse-tung shortly before the Chinese leader joined his illustrious ancestors, the Soviet news agency Tass revealed that 28 million Chinese perished as a result of "repressions by the Maoist regime."

According to the book, written by one Fedor Burlatski, 25 million Chinese were liquidated during the Cultural Revolution of the late 1960s, two million during the establishment of communes and one million in a campaign against national minorities.

Why, this is two or three times the number of Russians who perished during the establishment of communism in the Soviet Union.

Think on these things

Think for a moment of beautiful things . . . a bouquet of zinnias, red and yellow and lavendar . . . think of clusters of red berries weighing heavily on the bush . . . and think of laughing brown eyes, a vapor trail in the evening sky, two dachshund puppies playing on the grass like children . . . see in your mind's eye the brilliant skyline of the city at night . . . of good books, excellent music, a friendly, warm smile and a hot apple cobbler.

Think of so many beautiful things you've forgotten about . . . cool breezes and warm fires, cheerful voices, happy prayers of thanksgiving . . . how it feels to sense that all is well . . . that God indwell us lovingly . . . and then remember not to complain.

A money-making game

Dear Editor:

Proposition No. 13 to legalize Greyhound racing should be defeated. This initiative would legalize a business in which the slow and aged are killed for economy, where live animals are killed to train potentially profitable ones, and where nature and anatomy are channeled into a pattern most likely to succeed in a money-making game.

Last year thousands of innocent kittens and rabbits were killed by greyhounds because dog racers are convinced that the best training methods include giving their dogs a taste of fresh blood. This year the public is being asked to approve this savage practice.

Nearly 50 per cent of the greyhounds are killed before ever seeing the race track, mostly because they are not fast enough to win.

Although the proponents of the gambling measure urge that the initiative will protect against these cruelties, the protections apply only to registered greyhounds. Because the time requirement for registration has been left unclear, it is very possible for dogs to be killed during training.

Last but not least, if Proposition 13 were to pass, the promoters of the measure have promised that thousands of dog betting taxes will go to something called the Greyhound Racing Fund. In all probability the actual income will be too little to benefit any area except promoters' high salaries, administrative costs and bureaucratic red tape.

IRS flooded by tax forms

WASHINGTON — The federal establishment is so inundated with government forms that the bureaucrats simply can't keep up with all the paperwork. The loss in paper alone is staggering. But additional billions are swept out with the waste paper.

It costs the taxpayers at least $2 billion a year, for example, because the Internal Revenue Service is too swamped with paperwork to cross-check tax returns with income reporting forms.

Like most government agencies, the IRS issues forms right and left. But what happens to all the forms that the harassed citizens are required to fill out? Many of them, according to an unreleased congressional report, are "routinely destroyed by IRS without examination."

Every year, half a billion income reporting forms flood into IRS offices. Most are those familiar W-2 forms that list the wages earned by employes. But the annual deluge also includes forms 1087 and 1099, which are used to report income from dividends, interest, rents and royalties.

By comparing these forms with income tax returns, the IRS can identify tax cheaters. Every tax chiseler who is caught saves the money of the honest taxpayers.

Yet the House Monetary Affairs subcommittee, headed by Rep. Ben Rosenthal, D.-N.Y., has found that the IRS routinely ignores the income-reporting forms. "Half of the total forms submitted were destroyed upon receipt," alleges a committee report being prepared for release.

The tax agents have found that they catch more chiselers and enrich the U.S. treasury when they take the time to match the reporting forms against the tax returns. In 1972, for example, regular audits returned $83 in additional taxes for every hour of staff work, but investigators using the matching program recovered $215 per staff hour.

If all income forms were matched with tax returns, according to the congressional study, the federal government could recover at least $2 billion and perhaps as much as $10 billion annually.

Footnote: An IRS spokesman said it is difficult to assess the amount of extra revenue that would be generated by a matching program. It is "a hard thing to define exactly to the dollar," he said. The IRS hopes to have a complete matching program in operation within two years, he added.

SOUTH AFRICAN INCIDENT: American corporations have invested $1.6 billion in South Africa, and they are quick to justify the huge outlay with the claim that they have provided jobs and raised the living standard for the country's black majority.

Sen. Dick Clark, D.-Iowa, who chairs the Senate subcommittee on Africa, doesn't fully believe the line the corporations are handing out. He is investigating allegations that American firms are making big bucks by taking advantage of South Africa's apartheid policies.

For example, one giant multinational company, Lummus Corporation, planned to capitalize on South African apartheid if it were awarded a major construction contract.

Internal documents, intended for corporate officials' eyes only, spell out how Lummus expected to reduce labor costs by hiring large numbers of South African blacks. The firm also planned to construct separate and unequal housing, dining and recreation facilities for blacks and whites who worked on the project. Here are the details:

In 1974, Lummus submitted a bid to South Africa's white regime for a $1 billion contract to build a plant for converting coal to gas by an innovative process known as Sasol II. Lummus, it turned out, never got the job.

But the company drew up an intricate proposal designed to take advantage of South Africa's cheap black labor. "The objectives of this plan," states one draft document, "are to maximize the economic participation of South African labor . . . and to construct the new facilities with quality workmanship at the lowest practical cost."

A "key element" of the proposal was a "training program for black workers, which are in adequate supply in the Republic of South Africa." The use of blacks, it was anticipated, would "result in substantial reduction in the average rand-hr. paid for skilled labor."

Another confidential document outlines Lummus' plans for building separate "townships" for blacks and whites. The proposed township for 1,140 European whites, the plan states, should encompass an area of approximately 10 square miles and consist exclusively of three-and-four-bedroom homes.

The black township, on the other hand, would be planned to accommodate seven times more blacks in an area half the size of the white township. It would initially consist, in part, of apartment dwellings, "in barracks form to accommodate nine blacks per room."

Dining and recreation facilities for whites and blacks also would have differed markedly.

Footnote: A Lummus spokesman said the proposals were drawn up specifically to conform with "requirements of local law" in South Africa.

LITTLE GUYS: In full-page ads, the companies who plan to mine and drill the ocean bottoms are complaining about a congressional amendment that would slow the pace of exploration.

They claim that "because we're the little guys," the amendment may go through. Whatever the merits of their views, the dishonesty of their ad makes their case suspect.

Among the self-styled "little guys" signing the ad in tiny type at the bottom are subsidiaries of Alcoa, Bethlehem Steel, ITT, Lockheed, TRW and such independent giants as Brown and Root, Hughes Tool, Magnavox, Raytheon, Summa and Teledyne.

In fact, the National Ocean Industries Association, which sponsored the ad, has Exxon, Gulf, Mobil, Shell and other oil megacompanies among its members and backers.

Renegade redmen

Conscientious custodians of the Fourth Estate are trying to remember that it's our job to "report" the news, not to "make" the news.

By focusing attention on an upcoming event, we can rightly be accused of "promoting" participation or attendance in that event.

Similarly, by limelighting some organized group, however unworthy it may be, we tend to solicit support for that group.

From time to time we have had to refer to the AIM, the "American Indian Movement."

If our frequent mention of that high-sounding designation has tended to dignify it — we should apologize.

It was in 1972 that the so-called "American Indian Movement" first commanded attention with its violent raid on the Bureau of Indian Affairs building in Washington. They did $2 million damage and removed file cabinets of records.

The following year the same organization organized the occupation of Wounded Knee, South Dakota, for 11 weeks, resulting in major damage to the town and the deaths of two Indians and the wounding of two federal agents.

Extensive media publicity left the public impression that this AIM spoke for the masses of Indian people. It never did and does not.

An exhaustive investigation by the Senate Judiciary Committee has established that:

The AIM is a revolutionary organization committed to violence: arming Indians, stockpiling guns and explosives, planning kidnapings and eliminating opposition in the manner of the Mafia.

Some of the AIM leaders consider themselves Marxists, have visited Castro Cuba and have ties with the outlaw IRA in Ireland and with the PLO in the Middle East.

In the United States the AIM has received support from the infamous Weather Underground, the Communist Party, the Black Panther Party and the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Yet our media coverage of AIM activities has generally been sympathetic — assuming this outfit to represent the best interests of American Indians.

The Eastland committee came out of this tedious investigation convinced that news coverage of the AIM had convinced not only the general public but government leaders as well that the organization was legitimate.

Even some churches were suckered into supporting these renegade redmen — and some offices of the federal government allocated money to support them. Most such money was used to stage confrontations and to keep AIM leaders "comfortable."

For the record, the only proper spokespersons for the American Indians are the elected tribal councils — and the councils have expressed shame over the overt and covert subversive activities of this unworthy handful calling themselves the "American Indian Movement."

Just in jest

If you are a male, 70 years of age or older, and you get caught patronizing an X-rated movie, you are a nasty old man. On the other hand, if you are a female in that same age group — Well, here's how the Garden and Talk Society matrons of Dallas rationalized their recent appearance at one of that city's Porno Movie Palaces.

"It was just a 'study project' " they explained. And why not? Who ever heard of a nasty old woman?

So what else is new on the pornographic front? Well, there's good news, too, I assure you. But you'll have to go all the way to Manchester, Tenn., to find it. There the County Board of Supervisors has risen in righteous wrath and banned the book, "Drums Along the Mohawk", from the assigned reading list in public schools. The reason for this edict was that the novel contains the words "hell" and "damn" — and as the Supervisors quite logically pointed out, "blasphemy is only a step removed from pornography."

Finally, here in California Governor Brown has indirectly made it a bit more difficult for pornographic film producers to continue in business. Only recently he signed a bill making it illegal to inject silicone into women's breasts.

Veteran squabble

By EARL G. WATERS

Is there a deliberate move by Governor Jerry Brown to phase out the state's veteran programs or are the surfacing quarrels between the California Veterans Board and the Department of Veteran Affairs honest differences? Or are the conflicts, as charged by a former veteran board official, a case of the appointive department heads "playing with a new toy — power"?

That charge was levelled by Doug Pringle, former executive officer of the board, before the Senate Committee on Governmental Organization. The committee, chaired by Senator Ralph Dills, endured a day long hearing attempting to fathom the disputes between the board and the department.

The animosities, which have been brewing for months, erupted with the deletion by the governor of funds for the board's exempt position. It had become vacant with the resignation of Pringle who left in harmony for another job. Board members have accused department director Virginia Mae Days of thereafter attempting to influence its appointment of a female non-veteran to the job and of forcing board acquiescence to a policy whereby the new appointee would work under the direction of the department rather than the board. When the board rejected those proposals the funds for the job were bluepencilled.

Days appeared before the committee to deny the allegations but admitted having recommended the funds be eliminated. She said it was her view that the duties didn't justify a full time position.

But Senator Dills pointed out the provision of law which states "the board shall appoint an executive secretary" and offered the opinion that should the board fill the position the salary will have to be paid regardless of the governor's bluepencil.

The board position was just one of the issues to come before the committee. The question of why Tino Zamora, appointed to the board only last July, was summarily removed also came up. Zamora testified that he was "threatened" with removal if he didn't bow to the department's wishes. He said he was warned that he was "either with the department or against it" and declared he was fired at Days urging because he wouldn't rubber stamp department policies.

Under the law the board is empowered to determine policy for the department. Days denied the conversation stating she had merely warned Zamora that there was some opposition to his appointment. Senator Dills drew from her the admission that the indicated opposition had been withdrawn prior to the action dismissing Zamora from the board.

The board's plight of being under fire for disagreeing with the department's management of the veteran programs is an irony. Only a couple of years ago it was criticized by a legislative committee for not exercising its authority to set policy. Now, attempting to do so, it finds the department not only refusing direction but attempting to rule the board.

Also brought to the committee's attention by Senator Nick Petris was the fact the department has been accumulating excessive profits on home loans and is holding in reserve unnecessarily $80 million which could be loaned to veterans. The profits, Petris charged, stand at $140 million and will reach $756 million by the year 2006.

Commenting on the hearings Joseph Farber, legislative representative for both the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion said: "The veterans are indebted to Senator Dills for bringing these problems into the open. The whole mess points up the vital need for the Legislature to reestablish veteran committees in each house to watchdog the department and safeguard the veterans' interests."

Dr. Miller

If turtle likes lettuce, it's OK

DEAR DR. MILLER: Twenty years ago, I purchased two little turtles at the pet shop. One died in three months. The other is still living and has grown quite large. I've tried him on many different foods, but all he has ever eaten is lettuce, and lots of it. I recently read somewhere (maybe your column?) that lettuce was not a complete food for turtles, that they would die from malnutrition if they didn't get a more balanced diet. What about Sinker? Should he be getting something else? I haven't worried up to now because he looks so good. He spends his time in a big laundry tub swimming about, perched on a rock, or sitting on the bottom. He seems happy as a clam, happier in fact. What do you think he needs that he's not getting? — C.G.

DEAR C.G.: As long as Sinker doesn't read the same article you did, he probably won't need anything. It's probably true that his diet is inadequate, scientifically speaking. On the other hand, any nutritional deficiency that takes more than 20 years to develop can't be too severe, certainly not as far as Sinker is concerned. If Sinker were under considerably more stress, whether in the form of less favorable environmental conditions, or if you were attempting to raise little Sinkers, then the inadequacy of his present diet would show up. Under the present circumstances, however, Sinker's obviously been able to live it up on lettuce alone, and very satisfactorily, so I wouldn't advise rocking the boat. In fact at this point, if you tried adding calcium, other minerals or vitamins, you might simply upset the delicate nutritional balance he's been able to maintain and actually cause more harm than good.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Dorky's had a running right eye for years now, off and on. It would look like she was crying on that side. No big deal. It never has bothered her. Now it's running a little more, so the doctor wants to make a big deal surgery out of it. I don't care if it runs a little. Dorky Dog doesn't care, so why not just leave it alone? — M.A.

DEAR M.A.: Dorky's doctor can give you the specific answer to your question. Most likely, surgery's indicated now where it wasn't needed before because changes are beginning to occur now which actually jeopardize (or will, if uncorrected) not merely Dorky's appearance, but her vision and the eye itself.

Thoughts

Do you not know that you are God's temple and that God's Spirit dwells in you? If any one destroys Gold's temple, God will destroy him. For God's temple is holy, and that temple you are. — I Cor. 3:16, 17.

"We find God twice — once within, once-without us: within us as an eye, without us as a light." Jean Paul Richter, German author.

For Monday, Oct. 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be generous today, but avoid going overboard. Don't give until it hurts your own budget or prevents your having things you want.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A busy day is in store for you, but limit the number of irons in the fire. Overlapping of activities could cause vexing problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Getting your priorities in order is a must for you today. Shelve the unnecessary tasks. Focus on major projects.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're rather clever today, but don't be the one to boast. It's wiser to let others sing your praises.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions appear rather profitable for you today where joint ventures are concerned. Keep out those who don't belong. They'll muddy the waters.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You can't be all things to all people today. Follow the course of action you know in your heart to be the right one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're very industrious today, provided you're doing something you like to do. However, you'll try to palm-off a few ringers on others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Enjoy yourself today, but not at the expense of your waistline or health. Moderation in all things is the thing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The best salesman knows when to stop selling. Once you've wrapped up the deal today, button your lip. Move on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you want others to heed your views today, take time to listen to theirs. Everyone gains from an exchange of ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is one of those days when you'll accumulate with one hand, squander with the other. Luckily, you'll retain more than you fritter away.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today, opportunities abound if you'll put your splendid imagination to work and figure them out.

Your Birthday, Oct. 4

Exploit promptly any unusual or unexpected situations that present themselves this coming year. Rewards lie ahead for you in these areas.

Mothers have problems, too

Dear Ann Landers: I don't think my mother meant for me to see this but I did and I'm glad. Please print it, Ann. Maybe it will help other teenagers get a closer look at what their mothers are really like. Sign me — Glad I Found Out

"All the adolescent, mixed-up kids have diaries now, do they? Well, I think it's time for mothers to have diaries, too. We ought to keep a daily chronicle reporting the heartaches of parents who did the best they could with their mixed-up sons and daughters. Only the kids suffer, do they? Only their feelings are hurt? Well, move over, children, your parents are right behind you being ignored, laughed at and rejected. It's time the mothers of unhappy kids united. How is it that WE don't become drug addicts, psychos and alcoholics? How is it that we go on raising our other children hoping they will turn out better? We manage to appease our husbands, clean the house, do the marketing and cooking and some of us even get part-time jobs to help out. Yet we smile and behave normally although our hearts are breaking. Is it because we are older and wiser or because we had to work for everything we ever got in our lives? And now the psychiatrists tell our kids it's all our fault that they are mixed-up. Beautiful isn't it? I don't pretend to know all the answers but let me tell you, Dear Diary, beging a parent these days is far from easy."

Dear Glad: Your Mom's "diary" sounds like mail. Thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: Your "sermon" on pot stank. It also handed me a laugh. You — a person who has never smoked an ordinary cigarette — setting yourself up as an authority on pot. Ha ha.

Granted, a kid who smokes ten or twelve joints of the heavy stuff might act a little spacy and forget a few phone numbers. He may even fall asleep at the wheel of a car, but be fair and mention the really GREAT thing about pot.

It makes people passive instead of aggressive the way booze does. The pleasantly stoned cat never gets into fights. He just sits around and listens to music. Or he does nothing. Keep an open mind, kiddo. — Been There

Dear B.T.: Thanks for the assist. You put your finger on the most damaging aspect of pot. It makes people passive.

Those bright kids who might have been achievers became dreamers. Their brains lie fallow. Contemplation of the navel becomes the day's occupation. If pot didn't do one other thing, isn't this bad enough?

The youth of our nation are this country's most valuable natural resource. We can't afford to waste it. Russia and China are not wasting THEIRS. So get with it, will you?

Dear Ann: I'm a career woman, age 40, recently married to a man 45.

I want to have a child but my family and friends claim it's dangerous. They keep saying older women risk having mongoloid babies. How true is this? I'd like the facts, ma'am. — Unfulfilled

Dear Un: A woman, 35, has a one-in-200 chance of producing a child with Down's Syndrome. If she's 37, it's one in 100. At 40, it's one in 50. At 44, it's one in 20.

Doctors are now able to determine early in pregnancy whether the baby is mongoloid. A woman can then be free of anxiety if the news is good. If the news is bad, she can decide if she wants an abortion or use the remaining monts to prepare herself.

Motherhood never stops

Women are always lamenting, "When does motherhood stop? When can you sit back and relax and know that your job is finished?"

I don't think it ever does. When our children have needs, it is our responsibility to help them meet whatever challenge confronts them. Take the other day, for example. Our son came to me and said, "Mom, how do you ask for a raise?"

I ghathered him to my knee and said, "Thank you for seeking my advice. It so happens I do have some expertise on the subject. First, you make an appointment with your employer. Then you go to him and say very respectfully, 'Sir, I think I deserve a raise in salary.'"

"And he says yes and I thank him and leave."

"Wrong. He will plead poverty and say no way can an increase by granted."

"Then I thank him and leave."

"No. You look blank and pretend to miss his point entirely. Pulling up a chair you sit down and say, 'If I'm to understand you there must be something wrong with the way I do my job.'"

"What does he say?" asks my son suspiciously.

"Patience my child. Here comes the zinger. You stand up and thank him for letting you share the downfall of the company. Tell him you never realized it was in such bad financial slump and that there is only one thing left for you to do and that is seek employment elsewhere."

"And?" asked my son breathlessly.

"He will back down and assure you that things are not all that bad and in view of the fact he has just praised your work, will relent and voila . . . you get the raise."

"That is beautiful," said my son. "I would never have thought of that strategy."

"What are mothers for?" I smiled.

Yesterday, my son came home and said, "I saw my boss today."

"Yes?" I said, my eyes glistening with excitement.

"He was with me all the way to the line about seeking employment elsewhere. Then he said, 'Goodbye, boy, and good luck . . . incidentally, if you run across any openings for a personnel manager, let me know.'"

Dr. Lamb

Pernicious anemia treatment

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 80 years old, 5 feet 4 and weigh 118 pounds. My blood pressure is 150. I do not smoke and only drink one cup of coffee a day.

I do have pernicious anemia and am being given B-12 shots once a month. Is there anything that will cure this or do I have to continue with the shots the rest of my life?

My yearly tests were all right otherwise and I feel as well as can be expected at my age. I walk a mile or more every day.

DEAR READER — A shot a month is a small inconvenience for protection against what was once a fatal disease. Did you know that Madame Curie, the famed discoverer of radium died of pernicious anemia in 1934? It was with the discovery of the use of liver extracts and later the ability to manufacture B-12 that this once dreaded disease became just a minor inconvenience.

Now people like you can live a normal lifespan and enjoy life without fear of pernicious anemia, provided they follow their doctor's instructions and continue to take their medicine. No, there is no other cure and I am sorry you have to take the shots but I am glad they are available for you.

To give you more information on your illness I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-5, Vitamin B-12, Folic Acid, Pernicious Anemia. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has a slow heart. It varies from 47 to 59. His doctor advises having a pacemaker installed. For some reason he hesitates to do this.

He is 76 years old and up to about six months ago was quite active and took long walks each day. He still walks some but not far.

A few weeks ago he passed out while sitting on a bench in a shopping mall. This spell lasted for a few minutes. I am so afraid he will pass out while driving the car or fall and injure-himself.

The doctor advised him not to drive and he hasn't since his last episode. Please send information as soon as possible as I am worried.

DEAR READER — Your husband should follow his doctor's advice at once. A slow heart rate is expected in a healthy young vigorous athlete but in a man of his age who is not an athlete it is usually because of complete heart block.

The danger is that the heart will beat too slow to provide adquate circulation to the brain and he will faint or have a convulsion. Also his heart could stop entirely. This is a real danger to his life.

Pacemakers have saved or prolonged many lives. I often cite former Associate Justice William O. Douglas as a well known example. He had a pacemaker installed years ago and remained active because of it for many years afterward, long before he had a stroke. It could add a great deal of enjoyment to your husband's life as well as help protect him from the danger of a serious heart irregularity.

What people say

"Some years ago, there were six or eight significant leaders in Congress, and if the President had their support, he would be assured of the support of the Congress in certain policies. There is now a risk of the effectiveness of U.S. foreign policy being reduced severely because of the difference between Congress and the executive."

Find a problem and solve it

I am totally convinced that God does not believe in failure.

I believe in success and I don't believe that success is always measured in terms of dollars. But I am sure God takes no joy in seeing His people in squalid poverty. God takes no pride and pleasure in seeing His children suffer failure and defeat. I know that God loves you and He loves every creature born on this planet. He wants to see them enjoy health, happiness and prosperity.

I believe God wants you to be a greater success than you are today. And the secret of success is simple: find a problem and solve it. I would challenge you to go out and find a problem. Dreams are always discovered in the heart of a problem.

All you have to do is look for some person who is hurting; some need that cries for help or some problem that begs solution; and then move in! Do something about it. And before you know it you'll turn the problem into a project. And the project will turn into a purpose and you'll turn your life on with meaning.

Be on guard against impossibility thinking! The question is not, "What do I think I can do?" The right question is, "What can God do through me?" If you look at your limitations instead of God's unlimited power, you will never in your lifetime begin to discover and develop the hidden potential within yourself. When you see a job that needs to be done, decide to do it!

Make your decisions on God's availability, not your ability.

Success starts when you seek God's guidance in decision-making and God's power in problem-solving.

Colors affect animal action

Those scholars, who are convinced that colors greatly influence the behavior of animals, cite these facts: 1. Sight of pink throats of baby robins is what triggers the momma and poppa birds to feed those young. 2. It isn't until the little swans begin to turn from gray to white that the parent swans start getting hostile. 3. That small fish called the stickleback suddenly grows mightily romantic when it sees the color red.

Men tend to behave a little more graciously when in the presence of goodlooking women. Or so contend the scholars who make a study of such. In light of this, the thought jumps up that several attractive ladies should be included in every international treaty conference. All in favor of shipping Cher, Jane Fonda and Mary Tyler Moore to Panmunjom, signify by saying aye.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "How long have politicians been passing out political campaign buttons?"

A. Can only report that Alexander the Great, who pushed his program from 356 to 326 B.C., handed out silver buttons inscribed with various promises.

Q. "What did the old boy mean when he told me he underwent a 'semi-facelift'?"

A. Probably he had a plastic surgeon tighten up some wrinkled skin and remove a little tissue from under his eyes. Lot of men are doing that, I'm told.

Q. "Who was our first golfing president?"

A. William Howard Taft. The exercise didn't trim him down much, though. He weighed 332 pounds and more.

Q. "How big is the biggest barracuda?"

A. Biggest on record taped 5½ feet long and weighed 103 pounds.

SLANG

Our Language man notes that far more men than women have coined slang words. Maybe it was a girl who originated "itsy-bitsy," says he, but men without doubt were responsible for such terms as "goofoff," "jalopy" and "dingbat." Clearly, this penchant for dreaming up such lippy lingo is primarily a masculine talent.

Frequently reported is the claim that you don't need to die of thirst in a desert, if you can find a barrel cactus to cut open for water. Maybe so. But getting the liquid out of that plant is not so easy. You have to mash the pulpy interior at great length before it makes moist mush, and the stuff tastes awful.

If you're convicted of shoplifting in Nevada, you pay all legal fees, civil fines and retribution costs to the merchant from whom you stole. If your minor children are so convicted, you likewise pay. Elsewhere, a lot of shop owners decline to prosecute, because it costs them too much in time to go to court. That's no longer the situation in Nevada, and latest report is the law there works in a dandy manner to deter the thieves.

To Mrs. J. Murdock, Indianapolis: The Ford acceptance speech at Kansas City, which narrowed the gap between his and Carter's popularity in the polls, was "perfected" by taping several dry runs before he presented the oration we actually saw and heard. It was this highly improved speech that inspired the President to challenge his opponent to the series of debates.

"Advice" to Queen Elizabeth of England: Don't fret over the front-paged lovers' quarrel between Princess Anne and her groom, Captain Mark Phillips aired during their visit to Hamburg. Today we're living in an age where nothing is sacred, including private lives of members of royalty.

To Candy Leigh, Long Beach, Cal.: You're right. Dennis Weaver is the newest singing cowboy to ride the recording range. After warbling on a segment of "McCloud," he waxed an album of country songs, several of which he wrote himself. "This is not just a sideline to my acting," he said, "I'm not just playing around. This is really important to me."

To Carole Newton, Blacksbury, Va.: We agree that Mae West paid her dues to movies and should get a special Oscar award. Now if you can convince a majority of the members of the Academy to vote the veteran into this hallowed hall of film fame, you might succeed in your mission.

To Mrs. Ernestine Stiglitz, Brooklyn: Why wasn't Walter Matthau's name listed in the credits at the end of "Earthquake" instead of his own? The answer is that Walter Matuschanskayasky is his real name. "My father's name was Melas Matuschansky" he grinned. "I threw in the extra 'skaya,' which, in Russian is the feminine of anybody's name. 'Sky' is the masculine. I wanted them both to keep up with the women's lib trend. Also I was trying to have a long, disguised name — knowing people would say, 'Hey, who is that? Walter Matthau?'"

To T. MacRae, Minneapolis: Yes. Harvey Korman, Carol Burnett's favorite funnyman is just as much a scream off as on the screen. The other night he attended a cocktail party for a well known psychiatrist. "It's nice to meet you," the head doctor said. "What do you do for a living?" "That was one question," Korman concedes, "that instantly cured me of psychiatry."

Cheerleading is turning into big business

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

It was a muggy September night in Honey Grove, Tex., and Warrior Stadium's gaudy orange bleachers were brimming.

On the field the Warriors were trading blows with the Fannindel Falcons in a bitter District 16 Class A football match.

Meanwhile, two sets of six bubbly teen-age girls romped on opposite sides, tirelessly cheering, dancing and tumbling through complicated routines that would have made a circus acrobat envious.

Like more than 10,000 other Texas teen-agers, the cheerleaders in Warrior Stadium that night were alumni of a summer cheerleading clinic.

The Dallas-based National Cheerleaders Association (NCA) conducted nearly 250 such clinics in 46 states and two continents this past summer, training more than 100,000 schoolgirls in the intricacies of cheering, chanting and charming.

NCA officials estimated their company's annual revenue at $7 million, proving that cheerleading is indeed big business.

"No matter what the parents' economic level, they'll sacrifice other things to buy their daughters uniforms and pompons and send them to a cheerleading clinic," said NCA founder and owner Lawrence Herkimer.

The cheerleaders put up $50-$70 each to bounce and squeal through five days of Marinelike training in tumbling, poster making, fund-raising, smiling, pompon shaking and other skills of the trade.

NCA vice president Gene Cason said the NCA now employs eight fulltime office personnel and about 350 instructors — a far cry from its abbreviated beginnings.

Fresh from college, Herkimer, a former Southern Methodist University cheerleader, started his company 27 summers ago with clinics at SMU, Sam Houston State University and Illinois State.

He ran the operation from his Dallas home.

This summer, the NCA trained 3,400 cheerleaders from about 400 Texas schools in three sessions at SMU alone.

Cason estimated that 18 NCA clinics in Texas this summer graduated about 10,000 pupils, representing approximately 1,000 high schools, junior highs and private academies.

The company has branched out into cheerleader supplies and clinics for drill teams, majorettes and gymnasts. clinics have been regularly held in Europe and Canada. An expansion to Japan is also in the works.

"The rapid growth reflects the rising interest today in athletic events," Cason said. "More people are involved."

Among rival companies, the World Cheerleader Council projected about 30,000 pupils this year, while the International Cheerleading Foundation figured it trained about 15,000 cheerleaders.

Pedestrian deaths rise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pedestrian deaths in Los Angeles nearly doubled during the year ending Aug. 31.

A National Safety Council report says there were 79 pedestrian deaths during the period, compared to 43 during the same period a year ago.

Between Jan. 1 and Aug. 31, there were 194 traffic deaths on surface streets compared to 176 during the same period in 1975. No reasons for the increase were given.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, October 3, the 277th day of 1976. There are 89 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, the British exploded their first atomic bomb in a test off the coast of Australia.

On this date —

In 1866, war between Austria and Italy was ended by the Treaty of Vienna.

In 1932, Iraq joined the League of Nations as a British mandate ended.

In 1935, Italian forces invaded Ethiopia.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. troops cracked the Siegfried Line north of Aachen, Germany.

In 1964, Hurricana Hilda left more than 30 people dead as it whipped across a nearly deserted coastal area west of New Orleans.

In 1974, Frank Robinson became the first black manager in major league baseball as he took over the Cleveland Indians.

Ten years ago: The British colony of Basutoland became the new independent African nation of Lesotho.

Five years ago: An unmanned Soviet spacecraft, Luna 19, went into orbit around the moon.

One year ago: The U.S. Senate approved a bill to partly lift an embargo against arms shipments to Turkey.

Today's birthdays: Writer Gore Vidal is 51. Orchestra conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski is 53.

Thought for today: To change one's mind is rather a sign of prudence than ignorance. — A Spanish proverb.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, a Continental Congress committee that had investigated George Washington's army in the New York area reported that some officers had permitted their men to plunder and commit other offenses.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Late in November, 1775, one of two British ordnance brigantines, the Nancy, was captured by Americans. The first important prize taken by the patriots yielded a fabulous amount of much-needed materiel: 2,000 muskets, 100,000 flints, 30,000 round shot, 30 tons of musket shot, and a 13-inch brass mortar weighing over 2,700 pounds. The World Almanac notes that it would have taken the Americans 18 months to manufacture the military stores procured from the Nancy's hold.

Water ills

NEW YORK (AP) — According to the British Medical Journal, hard water may cause hands to become dry and sore. It is the mineral content of the water, particularly calcium hardness compounds, that acts as irritant. Because more soap must be used with hard water to obtain a lather, this can be a further source of irritation.

To counteract these effects, the Journal recommends installing a domestic water softening system which removes the troublesome calcium. A similar improvement can be achieved by the use of some packaged water softeners.

Old steam locomotive rumbles through timber land

FT. BRAGG, Calif. (AP) — Like a haunted cry from the past, the Skunk Train's mournful steam whistle hoots in a plume of white as the locomotive pulls from the depot for a run through lush timber land.

Snug inside, passengers riding the tortuous 40 miles through the coastal redwoods of Northern California are treated to a style of transportation now little more than a museum piece — the steam train.

Run by California Western Railroad, the line began operation as a logging railroad back in 1885. Passenger service came in 1904 and was extended to the current end of the line — Willits — in 1911.

The picturesque trains were named for the aroma of gasoline and other fuels which once powered the single railcars still plying the route. "You can smell 'em before you can see 'em," the locals used to say.

The smell is only a memory as the chuffing train winds at 15 miles per hour around 381 bends carved in a dense green forest. Fluttering steam trails past an ancient weed-choked cemetery, by ambling Pudding Creek, along the trickling Noyo River and through a timberlined tunnel hewn by Chinese laborers in a bygone era.

Rumbling along through the lent countryside, the Skunk pulls a golden shower of drought-dry leaves from trees overhanging the tracks.

Halfway, the train halts to take on 8,000 gallons of water for its thirsty boiler. The passengers, mostly city folks here on vacation, marvel at the cool damp frost and the stillness of growing things.

The train twists and turns back on itself as it follows the terrain, at one point needing 8½ miles of track to advance 1½ miles. On a hairpin turn the engine appears far ahead, big black wheels spun by flashing red drive shafts.

Deer peek from sun-freckled hillsides, and an otter cavorts in a clear pool as the train climbs 1,700 feet past long-abandoned camps like Ranch Station, where cattle were raised to feed hungry loggers.

There are cabins built on huge stumps; some 100 people live in backcountry isolation here, and the train performs such duties as delivering mail, dropping off bread to a boys' camp and even leaving flowers for an elderly couple along the route.

In the winter, when storms wash out rural roads, the Skunk Train is the only contact residents have with civilization. The train takes them groceries and hauls them to town in emergencies.

At one point on the return run, the train stops briefly to pick up Henry, an ancient resident. Henry, the conductor says, has lived along the path of the Skunk since 1914 and used to raise apples. He still has an orchard, but now he takes it easy, growing them for his own enjoyment and watching as the Skunk steams by.

Sailor wants a wife in every port

ABOARD THE HERMES IN THE MEDITERRANEAN (AP) — Abdel Hamid Mabrouk is a swarthy sea captain who says he has two religions, two passports, five wives and fluency in six languages.

But the blue-eyed, bushy-haired, 36-year-old sailor is not content. He wants two more wives and claims he "can afford this, both physically and financially."

Mabrouk, whose name in Arabic means "congratulations," holds a Lebanese passport listing him as a Moslem, and a Cypriot passport that classifies him as a Catholic.

"I was born in Lebanon and grew up in Cyprus. My heart beats for Lebanon, but my allegiance rests with Cyprus," Mabrouk said while sipping ouzou aboard this 500-ton freighter. "Above all, I believe in the oneness of the human race. In my eye, all men are equal and brothers," he said.

Mabrouk first married when he was 14, but "because I travel a lot I had to set up homes in various ports." He says he has one wife in Hamburg, one in Lebanon's port of Tripoli, one in the Greek port of Piraeus, and two in Cyprus — one Turkish and the other Greek Cypriot.

"Each of my wives operates under the impression that she's my only wife. Fine with me, if that makes them happy. Women are egocentric and possessive by nature, aren't they?" said Mabrouk.

He claims he exercises fair play in dealing with all five women and "taking into consideration the different standards of living in the Middle East and Europe, I give them equal sums and equally expensive gifts."

He has 11 children and hopes for more.

"I'm my parents' only son. And I want my family to grow bigger. Otherwise, the family would be gradually wiped out of existence in one generation."

He has never been to school, "but as a self-educated man, I believe I can excel in my business."

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Kings Bridge, N.Y., was the point at which the Post Road crossed Spuyten Duyvil Creek, which separates Manhattan from the Bronx, and therefore, was strategically important in the New York campaign and the British defense of New York City. The World Almanac recalls that Kings Bridge was an objective of the American forces under Maj. Gen. Lincoln at the start of the Yorktown campaign in July, 1781.

Stone toll

The tombs of chiefs of the Afar Tribe in Dankali, Africa, were once constructed by piling branches in the form of a hut. The number of stones lining the path leading to its entrance revealed the number of enemies the chief had killed.

Backpackers invade the country's wilderness

TAKING TO WILDERNESS — Two backpackers tramp along a trail in Point Reyes National Seashore, Calif. — and it looks as if they have miles of open country to themselves. But they're almost sure to meet more of their kind enroute. Backpackers are an increasingly prominent feature of the wilderness scene and many trails now have strict quotas placed on their use. Here at Point Reyes, for example, there's a two-month waiting list for reservations in one controlled camp site.

OUTDOORS IS IN — A new breed of backpackers is giving the wilderness a workout. Here, Cheryl Ellsworth and Joe Malecki of Pittsburgh hump their backpacks on Point Reyes National Seashore, Calif. Packs are lighter now, new highways give better access, people have more time: for these and other reasons, there's a charge of the multitudes to the outdoors that has created a $200-million-a-year business — but that poses a threat to the very countryside that attracts it.

POINT REYES NATIONAL SEASHORE, Calif. (AP) — Moss-covered Douglas firs, leafy ferns and California buckeye grass form a gantlet of green, dening the trail of rich brown dirt.

Turkey vultures, warblers and woodpeckers soar overhead. The gurgling Santa Maria creek is heard but not seen.

It's a wet and dreary weekday in this bastion of nature on the coast north of San Francisco. But the dismal weather has failed to dampen an increasingly prominent future of the wilderness scenery — backpackers.

In the space of two hours, 11 backpackers troop by a hiker who had hoped for something like solitude — shining examples of a leisure-time pursuit that has attracted thousands, spawned a million-dollar industry and posed a threat to the very countryside that lured it.

"Not only the terrain, but the wilderness experience is being eroded," the National Park Service states in a leaflet distributed to hikers at Wyoming's Grand Teton National Park. "Some conditions may be quite different from those we wanted to leave behind at the roadhead."

From the Pemigewasset Wilderness in New Hampshire to Point Reyes here, a new breed of backpackers is giving the wilderness a workout:

—In 1966, Point Reyes was visited by only 1,505 backpackers, park records show. By 1973, the number had risen to 32 thousand.

—Use of the John Muir Wilderness in California more than doubled between 1965 and 1975, according to U.S. Forest Service figures.

—The number of backpackers using Utah's Wasatch mountain range increases five to six per cent each year, a Forest Service recreation planner estimates.

—A single trail in the Pemigewasset Wilderness was hiked by more than 40,000 persons in one year, forcing the Forest Service to place restrictions on camping and campfire use.

—At some points on the Appalachian Trail, a 2,000-mile scenic corridor which cuts through Eastern mountains from Georgia to Maine, hikers pass every 20 seconds.

"People are loving the trail to death," laments one official.

Backpacking, sport of the hardy and curse of the tenderfoot, has blossomed into a $200-million-a-year business. As a result, purists now complain about the cascade of footfalls and the loss of the days when the challenge of backpacking, as one veteran hiker put it, was to "leave the wilderness just as you popped your last raisin into your mouth."

"People have more time," says Tommy Winnett, author of "Backpacking for Fun," one of 33 works published by his Wilderness Press. "New highways have made wilderness areas much nearer in driving time. Lightweight, durable backpacking equipment is widely available, and dehydrated and freeze-dried foods have been developed.

"But the main reason is that city life has begun to drive us crazy ...," concludes the 55-year-old Winnett, who started backpacking as a Boy Scout. "The worst thing about a backpacking trip for me is the car noise I have to endure to get to the mountains."

Gene Rose, a veteran backpacker from Fresno, Calif., attributes a large measure of the sport's popularity to the environmental movement.

"But there are as many reasons why people have taken to backpacking as there are backpackers," he adds. "I like to take photographs. Others are into fishing, or like the challenge, or are botany buffs."

George Rudolph, majority stockholder in Donner Mountain Corp., says the trails get busier as equipment get lighter.

Rudolph, 68, has been in the business since 1935, when the majority of "backpacking" was done by skiers who toured the slopes with crude equipment sold by a handful of retail shops.

"Where it used to take a 60-pound pack for a two-week trip," he says, "it's now down to 30-32 pounds. It makes it more fun and easier to do. The packs are lighter and carry more comfort items."

According to one retailer, the cost of completely outfitting a backpacker from scratch has risen from $200 to $350 in just a few years.

"It's terrible — there are too many people," laments Theodore Dierks, who operates a backpacking outlet in Berkeley. "They've pushed out what I call the 'circle of disaster.' You now have to travel three days to get away from people once you get into the mountains.

"They've used up all the wood; fished out the streams and lakes; and pounded the crap out of the place."

As a result, forest managers are becoming increasingly concerned about preserving the delicate ecology of the trails.

"We're having some fairly serious impacts," says Ned Therrien, information officer for the White Mountain National Forest in New Hampshire. "There's some serious trail erosion, loss of vegetation and problems with the disposal of human waste."

Many trails have strict quotas placed on their use. Here at Point Reyes, for example, there's a two-month waiting list of people who want to make weekend reservations for one of the park's tightly controlled backpacking campsites.

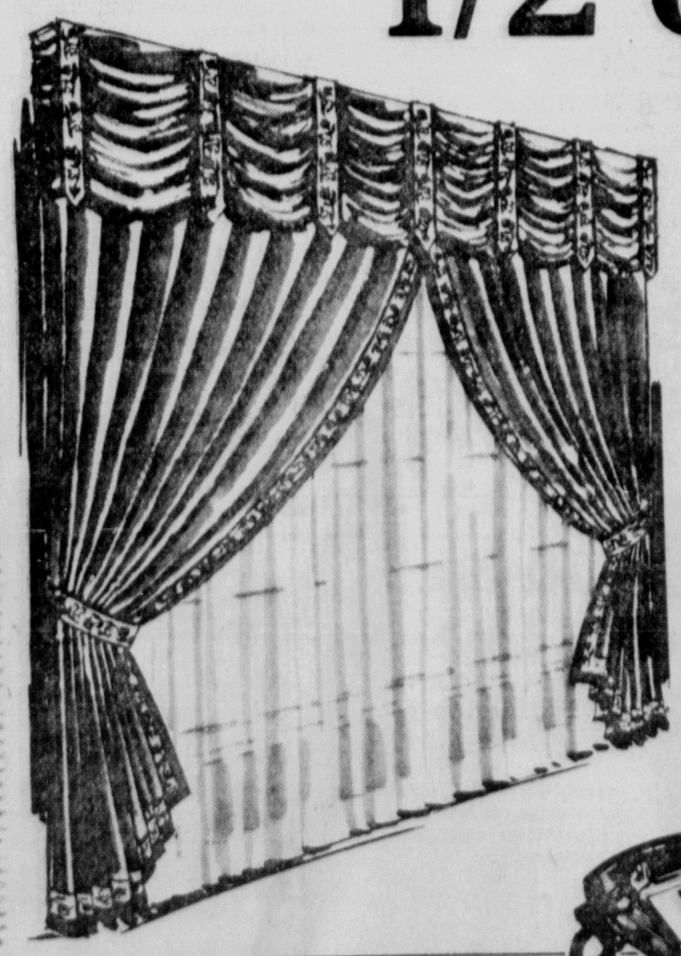

At Yosemite National Park in California, backcountry use has tripled in the past 10 years while total park use has increased by just 15 per cent, according to a report by Dr. Jan van Wagtendonk, National Park Service researcher.

Wagtendonk notes that park managers, "faced with the problem of a deteriorating wilderness resource and experience," decided in 1972 to initiate a

Submarine surfaced during Revolution

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There were many Yankees in the American Revolution, but there was not too much ingenuity. The war was fought with weapons tried and true. But one night in the waters of New York harbor, there was a most remarkable technological breakthrough.

David Bushnell was one of that happy breed for whom gunpowder was invented. He loved to make things go bang. He was also a constant tinkerer and read anything he could lay his eyes on, which interest led him to enroll at Yale even though he was 31.

While his younger classmates were passionately arguing the cause of liberty, Bushnell was thinking: British fleet, gunpowder; gunpowder, British fleet. His curiosity aroused' he went to a pond near New Haven and submerged two ounces of gunpowder in a cannister to see if he could ignite it under water. Bubble-bang! British fleet, British fleet, gunpowder, gunpowder ...

Whe the news of Lebington and Concord reached New Haven, Bushnell went back home to Saybrook on the Connecticut River. He was going to build the world's first suboarine.

To put any Tories off his trail, he told the world he was going fishing and retired into a shed on the river where he kept his nets. Instead he began shaping what looked like a giant egg coated with tar with two pipes out the top, a rudder, a 700-pound lead keel and two fin-like paddles.

"It was of a capacity to contain one engineer" who would climb in, close the hatch, look where he was going through one of six tiny windows and begin paddling through watertight joints.

He had two pumps, one to expel water and one to let it in to submerge. Part of the keel could be jettisoned "if the pumps should get deranged" so the craft would bob to the surface.

Bushnell figured the "engineer" could make three knots in short bursts cranking the paddles with one hand and steering the rudder with the other and pumping water in or out with one foot.

Its armament was also egg-shaped, a keg containing 150 pounds of powder fired by a clock work and a flint gunlock. Arriving at his target, the engineer screwed the charge into the bottom of the hull with an auger and then cranked himself to safety. Bushnell christened his invention American Turtle and let it be known he was ready.

One John Osgood wrote John Adams from Boston, October 23, 1775: "he famous water Machine from Connerticutt (sic) is every Day expected in Camp; it must unavoidably be a clumsy Business, as weight is about a Tun (sic). I wish it might succeed (and) the Ships be blown up beyond the Attraction of the Earth."

Howe left town, however, so Bushnell took Turtle to New York. He thought he was too frail to man Turtle in combat and nominated his brother Ezra to be engineer.

Ezra conveniently came down with a fever. Sergeant Ezra Lee, a 27-year-old from Connecticut, who had volunteered to man a fire ship, agreed to become history's first submariner. He made some trial runs on Long Island Soand, then on Saturday night, Seltember 7, Turtle was launched into the Hudson near South Ferrz.

REVOLUTIONARY DEVICE — The world's first submarine surfaces — in New York harbor in September 1775. Named "American Turtle," it had been designed and built in Connecticut by David Bushnell as a machine for carrying gunpowder underwater to blow up enemy ships. Here, on its first mission it is manned by Sargeant Ezra Lee, shown opening the hatch after an unsuccessful attack. The auger visible was used to drill charges into ships' wooden hulls.

Swiss now circulates new money

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The land of chocolates, clocks and the world's strongest currency is putting into circulation new paper money that is supposed to be a bane to counterfeiters and a boon to the blind.

A 100-franc note — worth about $40 and printed in four languages — will come out next week as the first bill in a series of Swiss paper money that will replace bills in circulation for the past 20 years.

Special printing processes are intended to make the new currency one of the hardest in the world to forge, though national bank officials say counterfeiting of existing Swiss money has been "rather seldom." The new printing processes are also supposed to make it easy for nonexperts to spot counterfeit money.

An embossed code of lines and points will enable blind persons to determine the amount of the note.

The new bill will be the world's most multilingual money. The name of the Swiss National Bank is printed in all four national languages — German, French, Italian and Romansh, a near-extinct idiom related to Latin. Existing bills are printed only in German, French and Italian.

Unlike Britain, which is struggling to save its once-mighty pound currency from total disgrace, this bankerdominated nation has a currency whose value rises slowly but steadily against virtually all other currencies.

Eighteen months ago, for example, the American dollar was worth slightly more than three Swiss francs. Wednesday, the dollar brought just under 2.46 Swiss francs.

In physical size, Swiss money is going to shrink a bit and will finally fit into non-Swiss billfolds. The existing 100-franc note is about twice the size of a dollar bill, but the new one will be only slightly larger. The sizes of Swiss notes vary by denomination.

The new Swiss bills feature historical personalities of Swiss science and art, and the choice for the 100-franc note is Francesco Borromini, a 17th century architect born in what is now the canton of Ticino.

On the back of the note is a drawing of the Sant'Ivo della Sapienza church in Rome, considered one of Borromini's baroque masterpieces.

Sometimes principles of dummy play seem to conflict. Thus, in general, declarer should defer a problem as long as possible in the hope that he will acquire information or that the problem will go away.

Acting on this principle, declarer will take dummy's ace of diamonds, play out four rounds of trumps, cash the clubs and then discard two hearts from dummy on the high diamonds before leading a heart to try to guess how to play the suit.

By this time West, with a smidgeon of bridge ability, will know enough to play a low heart. South will have nothing better than a 50 per cent chance to guess right.

An expert South will study the dummy before playing to trick one and see that the time to play hearts is early and not late. He can learn nothing from the opponents. Why let them learn anything from him.

So expert South leads a spade to his ace and puts the eight of hearts on the table. West is caught asleep at the switch. He hesitates and then produces the ace of hearts to give declarer his slam on a silver platter.

Ask the Jacobys

North oepns one spade and rebids two hearts over South's two-club response. Is that two-heart bid forcing?

It is not forcing in basic standard American, but it is in all expert circles. It is now taught as forcing in modern standard American. Remember that South has shown at least 10 points by his two-club call.

Melting boots

In 1768 a French scientist presented Frederick the Great with a rare pair of rubber riding boots. Unfortunately, vulcanization — the process of heating rubber with sulphur to make it permanently firm and uniformly elastic — had not yet been discovered by Charles Goodyear, and Frederick's boots stuck to his feet in hot weather and cracked in cold.

Gee guest speaker for Chinese group

Paul Gee, a Los Angeles engineer, will serve as guest speaker at the installation dinner of the San Gabriel Valley Chinese Cultural Association at Monterey Park next Saturday.

He will discuss the history of Chinese culture in the Southland. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Luminarias Restaurant.

A highlight of the evening will be the installation of Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Wong as new presidents of the organization which draws its membership from Monterey park to Upland. They succeed Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wang.

Other new officers include Shirley Wong, secretary; and Harry and Lillie Wong, treasurers.

Backpackers . . .

program of backcountry management that included use limits.

The efforts to control the flow of humans into the forests is taking several forms. Since 1971, for example, the U.S. Forest Service has required permits for visitors to designated wilderness areas.

Fires no longer are permitted in most wilderness regions because the scars they leave heal slowly and cause erosion damage.

Pets, too, are banned, and shortcutting from trails is frowned on by rangers because of the erosion would-be trailblazers leave behind.

But despite the rules and the wave of backpackers, veteran mountaineers agree it is still possible to find solitude in the forest.

"There's a rule among those who write about the mountains, not to write about the already popular trails but to write about unknown trails instead," says Gene Rose, a Fresno journalist. "That way maybe the crowds will be more evenly dispersed."

Charlie Schwartz, a backpacking devotee from Salt Lake City, won't share his secrets.

"If I told you, they wouldn't be uncrowded any more," he said.

6 per cent of world's traffic toll

Turkey's high death rate is still rising

By EMEL ANIL

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — An average of 6,000 persons die on Turkish roads every year. Traffic accident and death rates here are among the highest in the world and are on the rise.

Turkey, with its population of 40 million, claims 6 per cent of the world's traffic fatalities. Authorities estimate that traffic deaths will reach an unprecedented 10,000 in 1976.

In the first seven months of this year, 4,526 persons were killed in traffic accidents and thousands injured. On the first three days of August, 50 lives were lost — two of them traffic policemen on motorcycles.

Many causes are cited for the mess which is Turkish traffic. According to Premier Suleyman Demirel, the inadequacy of roads is an important factor. He has pointed out that the main thoroughfare connecting Turkey's largest cities, Ankara and Istanbul, was built to accommodate daily traffic of 10,000 vehicles, but it now carries 40,000.

Highway improvement has not caught up with a significant boost in auto registration. The number of cars has risen from 153,000 to 393,000 in the last four years and the number of other motor vehicles has nearly doubled.

Interior Ministry statistics list driver negligence as the cause of 70 per cent of all accidents.

Most Turks are daredevil drivers with little respect for traffic regulations. Red lights are not necessarily considered stop signals. If the other side seems clear, few Turkish drivers can resist the temptation to speed through a red light. At night, many vehicles do not bother to dim their bright lights and blind approaching cars. Trucks park on highways without any warning lights.

Bus and truck drivers are overworked and have been known to fall asleep at the wheel. In the cities, jay-walking is virtually a national sport.

Writings painted on to the back windows of taxis and buses say more about the Turkish philosophy of driving than the official book of traffic rules. Mostly in rhyme, they read: "This is fate, my friend," or "Do not come near you will be smashed, do not attempt to pass you shall regret, or "If you are a lover, play the guitar; if you are a driver step on the gas pedal."

Turkish traffic acquired a semblance of order when the military took over for a few months in 1971, during a period of martial law. Thousands of speeding drivers and jay-walkers were fined. But troops are back in their barracks now, having left the roads to civilian traffic police who stand and watch as every rule in the book is flouted.

A new traffic bill increasing fines and bringing prison terms for traffic violations has been introduced in the Parliament. But the legislature has recessed without tackling it this year.

Inflation has rendered fines — $2 for passing through a red light — meaningless. According to the new bill, fines are to be upped as much as $60 or $70.

Interior Minister Oguzhan Asilturk has promised to double the 5,000-man traffic police force. But it is estimated that it will take at least a year before the passage of the new bill and its enforcement can be realized.

In the meantime, Turkish roads are likely to remain a free-for-all, with towing trucks busy and first aid stations overcrowded.

Desolation leaves High Sierras

DESOLATION WILDERNESS, Calif. (AP) — Hikers get a good taste of high Sierra grandeur in this rugged, glacier-carved region. But if it's desolation you want, better look elsewhere.

This 63,469-acre area just west of Lake Tahoe is so popular with hikers that it now ranks the third most heavily trafficked wilderness area in the country. It's also one of the smallest areas maintained by the U.S. Forest Service.

The farther you hike into this granite-strewn country, the fewer backpackers you'll see. But even at its most remote reaches, you're likely to find company during summer months.

Up to 4,000 persons can be found tramping along trails or camping at one of the many lakes dotting the region on any midsummer day.

Because there's so much granite, the area is not as much the worse for wear as other wilderness regions where there's more vegetation.

But the Forest Service is developing new restrictions now because signs of man are becoming increasingly evident: well-worn trails, old fire pits, fewer fish in lakes and streams, and some debris left by campers.

"This is supposed to be a wilderness area where the signs of man aren't seen," says Forest Service information officer Dick Pine. "But it's getting to the point where we must manage it differently because there are just too many signs that people have been here."

Forest Service recreation officer Phil Corson agrees. He says "Solitude is supposed to be one of the major elements of a wilderness area."

Corson says that instead of a wilderness "experience" here, backpackers are finding "a Central Park experience."

The Forest Service is now considering a lower limit on the size of camping groups. The current limit is 25 and it's not uncommon to run across maximum-limit parties such as scout troops, church club members or several families camped together.

Some limits already exist. Permits are required to enter the area. Camps are supposed to be 100 feet away from streams or lakes. Guns are discouraged, and off-road vehicles are barred.

Hikers are encouraged to seek out other wilderness areas which get a fraction of the use Desolation Wilderness does and offer scenery just as beautiful.

Pine says the area's biggest handicap is its easy access by residents of northern California and northwest Nevada. Other less-traversed areas can be reached just as easily "but they're not known like Desolation is," says Corson.

"This area is used much more than it should be. There are so many other areas where you can still go and see hardly anyone," he says.

Farewell

George Washington's farewell address was made Sept. 17, 1796.

For sale: gold to aid the poor

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — Top figures in international finance begin meeting here Monday to decide the best way to sell 25 million ounces of gold to help poor countries falling deeper into debt to the rich.

Gold and debt are the priority items listed for a joint meeting of the directors of the Washington-based World Bank and the International Monetary Fund — IMF.

Gold was selling on the free market in Western Europe at around $117 an ounce this week, but the IMF auctioned 780,000 ounces of gold at $109 an ounce Sept. 15 in the latest of its series of gold auctions.

Among the 3,000 invited participants in the meetings here will be heads of the world's richest private banks and governors of the most powerful central banking systems. But the sessions are not strictly for capitalists. Communist nations will be represented.

With Vietnam confirmed as an IMF and World Bank member, Hanoi will attend along with its Indochinese neighbor, Laos, and Romania and Yugoslavia. Cambodia, the third Indochinese nation to fall under Communist rule since the last bank-fund meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, in 1974, is not expected to attend.

The European Common Market countries have urged the reopening of discussions on IMF auctions of 25 million ounces of gold, designed to provide a special fund to help poor countries with their deepening balance of payments problems.

But some financiers contend the auctions may further depress the price of gold, which on Dec. 31, 1974, sold for almost $200 an ounce. This is an issue vital to such countries as Italy, which has put up gold as collateral for loans from West Germany.

Gold-producing countries, such as the Philippines, also have shown reservations about the auction method.

The IMF's gold auctions are thought to have little, if any, impact on the American consumer, unless he wishes to buy gold. Most of the buyers at previous auctions have been banks and large dealers.

Improving economic conditions in the developed world do not mean solutions to the problems of the poorer countries, according to conference officials.

Although industrialized countries have shown surpluses in their payments balances, those of poor lands have dropped to deficits expected to total about $32 billion this year. conomic improvements also have made small impact among the ranks of the unemployed, a problem for both the rich and poor countries.

Pressure has built on both the World Bank and the IMF to assist the poorer countries. Under former U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, the World Bank has tried to attack problems of the poor rural worker and urban blight. But the funds it can lend to poor countries at cheap interest rates are running low.

And the IMF is insisting its main job is to police the world's money system.

"The task of the fund is not the transfer of real resources for development," said J. J. Polak, the fund's economic counselor. "It is to supervise the international monetary system and to give members temporary assistance to deal with their balance of payments problems."

Religious group for refund

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The International Society of Krishna Consciousness Inc. has filed a civil suit in Superior Court seeking refund of $59,501.49 in property taxes, claiming it is a religious group free from all taxes.

The suit was filed Thursday against Los Angeles County, the City of Los Angeles and Culver City, which have collected taxes on the group's properties.

An attorney for the group said the organization is exempt from all federal taxes because of its religious activities and claimed that the local properties are used for religious and welfare purposes and cannot be taxed by local entities.

Residente del valle dirige reunion de consejeros etnicos

El residente de Pomona Sr. Alfredo Ramirez dirigio un mitin para los consejeros educacinales de las escuelas del Condado de Los Angeles de como impartir una educacion multi-cultural a traves de un medio etno-musicologo.

El mitin tuvo lugar en la direccion escolar del condado en Downey el miercoles de 9:30 a 11:30 a.m.

El Sr. Ramirez, anteriormente un maestro en ejercicio y actualmente estudiando para obtener su "master degree" en educacion bilingue, en La Verne College, dijo que sus teorias para ensenar a traves de la musica estan basadas en cinco conclusiones:

Que son:

—La mayoria de la musica americana esta basada en la historia cultural de cuatro grupos, Europeos del Norte, Latino-Americanos, Afro-americanos y Judios, con una interaccion de cerca de 4,000 años.

—El sistema de educacion musical esta basado casi exclusivamente en la influencia norteuropea que abarca unos 300 años.

—Mas de 3,500 años de historia multicultural ha sido ignorada o cuando reconocida, desfigurada, haciendo su uso educacional perjudicial para la sociedad.

—Musica de los cuatro grupos se toca diariamente en toda la nacion.

—Nuevo desarrollo de un curriculo musical "se necesita mucho. Y por eso es que el estudio de la etnomusicologia en una educacion multicultural puede lograrse como un medio de mejorar el entendimiento multicultural."

Esto puede lograrse, dijo el Sr. Ramirez, "si el programa fuere implementado por los administradores escolares."

Servicios al Bon View en Ontario

Keith Calvert es el nuevo sobrestante del centro Bon View. El dice que "hay muchos servicios nuevos para la comunidad y queremos que el publico este informado".

El centro Bon View da la bien venida a Servicios Aztlan, consejeros para la salud mental. Este nuevo programa esta hecho con la intencion de poder aconsejar individualmente o en grupo, en visitas regulares o en casos de emergencia. Si quieren obtener una entrevista llamen al 986-1181. Este servicio es gratis.

El enfasis esta en ayudar a resolver los problemas de los chicanos, mexico-americanos y mexicanos. Todo consejo sera ofrecido de tal modo que el cliente pueda sentirse confortable. Todos los consejeros son bilingues y conocen los problemas de la comunidad. El Centro se encuentra en 1010 Bon View, Ontario.

Otros servicios sociales que se ofrecen son "servicios para la vecindad". La coordinadora es Eddie Mae Taylor. Ella dirige el grupo "Accion de la Comunidad". Este grupo procura servicios para cualquier persona que los necesite, tal como una persona que se halle en dificultal para dar el pago inicial para una casa, o que necesite ayuda para llenar las solicitudes del seguro social u otras que le sean dificultosas, para procurarse un aborto, o que tenga problemas de discriminacion en su empleo o para encontrar habitacion.

La clinica para bebes tambien se encuentra en el Centro Bon View. La clinica esta abierta para tratar cualquier enfermedad infantil el segundo y cuarto martes de cada mes.

Durante esos dias un medico hara examenes fisicos, pondra inyecciones, dara formulas especiales, vitaminas y prescribira recetas medicas para niños. Llamen a Eddie Mae Taylor a los siguientes numeros: 984-2478 y 984-2479. Ella les ayudara y tratara de contestar sus preguntas. La clinica tambien ofrece un programa de control de la natalidad el primero y tercer martes de cada mes, de 8 a.m. a 5 p.m. Durante este tiempo un medico practicara un examen fisico a todas las mujeres asistentes.

Una variedad de metodos para el control de la natalidad estan a la disposicion de toda mujer adulta o con permiso paterno. Toda mujer que desee control de natalidad puede obtenerlo. Si la mujer esta embarazada puede recibir ayuda y decidir que hacer. "Los servicios a la vecindad" estan dedicados a ayudar al publico a resolver problemas de todo tipo. Sientase libre en llamar a Eddie Mae Taylor al 984-2470.

El Centro Bon View Tambien ofrece los servicios de SYRAM. El proposito principal de SYRAM es proporcionar reparaciones menores a casas de propietarios ancianos. Este servicio proporcionara educacion profesional a jovenes y al mismo tiempo facilitara empleo al artesano mayor. Los trabajos que se hacen son: emplomadura menor, problemas electricos menores, pintar cuartos, trabajos de cemento, reparacion de harneros o puertas, reparaciones de techos, control de plagas, emplaste de paredes y otros problemas de las casas. Llamen a Johnnie Williams Jr. al 984-1111 para informarse de las cualificaciones para obtener estos servicios. Las cualificaciones basicas son las siguientes: ser duenos de la casa, vivir en ella y tener mas de 60 anos con entradas economicas pequenas.

En Upland

Centro para ancianos

Las personas mayores de Upland pronto podran usar su nuevo Centro proximo a inaugurarse a primero de año si las obras mantienen su ritmo de construccion.

El municipio de Upland aprobo la compra de un antiguo comercio en la esquina de Tercera Avenida y Calle C por $150,000 para decicarlo como el Centro de la Comunidad para los Ancianos.

El precio de adquisicion exede los $90,000 presupuestados para el Desarrollo de la Comunidad y Edificios de 1974.

En el mitin del lunes el Concejo Municipal aprobo la compra de la propiedad para primero de año, pero no acepto una proposicion del Sr. Fred Taunton, director de recreo, que la ciudad rentara el edificio a un costo mensual de $1,500 desde ahora hasta que las escrituras de traspaso de la propiedad fueran firmadas.

El Sr. Taunton dijo que numerosos grupos de la comunidad habian estado trabajando en varios programas durante el pasado año y que estaban en condiciones de desarrollarlos en el centro tan pronto como este estuviera listo.

Uno de los programas propuestos para el nuevo centro es una comida a medio dia para 150 ancianos residentes.

El programa seria operado por la Steelworkers Old Timers Foundation de Fontana, la cual mantiene varios programas similares en varias comunidades del Oeste.

Es mucho mas placentero discutir la economia en un restaurante lujoso que cuando se analiza con ansiedad desde una ventana.

DMV busca estudiantes para un jurado publico

Estudiantes de las escuelas superiores de Pomona para servir en un jurado publico "Backseat Driver" estan siendo solicitados por la oficina de Pomona del Departamento de Vehiculos a Motor (DMV).

"Para muchos de los estudiantes de las escuelas superiores Garey, Pomona y Ganesha venir a nuestra oficina a obtener su licencia puede ser un viaje desafortunado," dijo el director Jack Souders.

El Jurado publico "Backseat Driver" fue organizado durante el Verano. Esta presidido por Mac Lenhert y compuesto de cinco miembros para revisar la politica de DMV y sus programas para que la ciudadania evalue lo que DMV hace y decida si esta hecho en benefico del publico, explico Souders.

Los miembros del jurado estudiantil pudieran revisar "todo desde la edad minima de los choferes" licenciados hasta si las pruebas a que se les somete son demasiado duras o muy faciles," dijo Souders.

Los estudiantes interesados en tener una voz en su gobierno pueden llamar al 629-3055 y obtener una solicitud para pertenecer al jurado.

El jurado se reunira en las oficinas de DMV de Pomona a las 7:30 p.m. el dia 20 de octubre.

The "Boletin del Progreso" appears each Sunday.

Today's "Boletin" includes articles about new services offered by the Bon View Center in Ontario, an ethnomusicology meeting directed by a Pomona resident for educational consultants in Los Angeles County schools, and a search by the Department of Motor Vehicles for students to be on a "Backseat Driving" panel.

The page is coordinated by Peggy Gonzales. Pedro Sanchez is the translator.

El dia de las carreras

Las reservaciones deberan hacerse antes del sabado. Las donaciones son de $12.50 por persona y las entradas pueden obtenerse llamando a Alice Keegan, (213) 963-5421.

El patio de la casa club ha sido reservado para un bufet-lunch que sera servido a medio dia. Las carreras se iniciaran a la 1 p.m.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — CIG Exploration Inc. announced on Tuesday discovery of a natural gas well in Wheeler County, Tex., that will produce almost six million cubic feet a day.

CIG is the gas-exploration unit of Colorado Interstate Gas Co., a major subsidiary of Coastal States Gas Corp., Houston, Tex. Colorado Interstate supplies natural gas wholesale to retailers in five states.

CIG Exploration said the well, a new field discovery, was drilled under a gas-search program financed by the company and its gas customers. The 2½-year program has sponsored drilling in six states.

The new well, called Willis No. 1, is in the Buffalo Wallow Field approximately 100 miles east of Amarillo. CIG Exploration owns leases on more than 7,600 acres in the area for exploration to supply the Colorado Interstate pipeline system.

NEW YORK (AP) — A special three-judge federal court Thursday authenticated the nine-year-old Multistate Tax Compact and its 22-state Multistate Tax commission, rejecting a four-year challenge by major U.S. corporations.

The commission, with headquarters at Boulder, Colo., includes the tax administrators of 22 states, in a program to enable firms that market in more than one state to settle their state and local tax liabilities and avoid double taxation, in line with the Uniform Division of Income for Tax Purposes Act.

In a 1972 civil lawsuit, United States Steel Corp., Standard Brands Inc., General Mills Inc. and Procter & Gamble Distributing Co.—later joined by other corporations—claimed that the arrangement lacked consent of the Congress and violated constitutional principles.

A number of state lawsuits and three cases in other federal district courts remained pending while the three-judge court here deliberated.

HERKIMER, N.Y. (AP) — A community drive has reached its goal of $1.5 million which means 260 persons will not lose their jobs at the 100-year-old Library Bureau operated by the Sperry Rand Corp.

The corporation had announced plans to close the facility, which manufactures wooden furniture for libraries, next March. Sperry Rand officials said that they were closing the operation since it was out of its general line.

But employes and community leaders initiated a drive to collect enough money so that they could take over the company as the Mohawk Valley Community Corp.

Stocks were purchased by individuals and business firms in the area. The minimum amount that could be purchased was 100 shares at $2 a share.

Recently, Sperry Rand announced plans to close its Sperry Univac plant in Uticahich which manufactures computer equipment.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. is phasing out a blast furnace for early relining and temporarily taking out of service four open-hearth furnaces, a spokesman said.

The spokesman said it's because of softness in orders for seamless tubular steel products. He said that orders, particularly for seamless pipe, "don't justify blowing in another blast furnace to replace the one being reined."

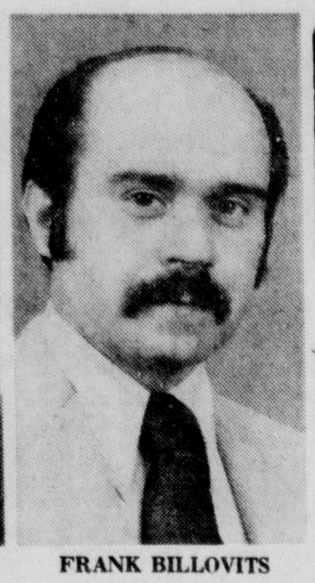

About 500 workers are affected. The company is a unit of Lykes Corp.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Republic Steel Corp. says it is raising prices on various flat rolled products, semifinished products, alloy steel bars and special quality carbon steel bars effective Oct. 1.

In announcing the increases Wednesday, Republic said the changes will boost the over-all average price for its mill products by less than 4 per

Business news in the valley

WILLIAM B. SIMECKA has been appointed a senior staff member of General Dynamics plant in Pomona.

He will concentrate on the division's new business activities. Simecka was formerly vice president and manager for tactical systems at Northrop Corp.'s electro-mechanical division in Anaheim.

Walnut resident FRANK BILLOVITS has been promoted to assistant manager in charge of operations for the Bank of America's Pico-Vermont branch.

Billovits, who joined the bank in 1971, has been operations officer of the Huntington Park office for the past 18 months. Before that, he served in similar capacities at the Watts and Duarte offices.

He and his wife, Carol, have two daughters, 21 months and one month.

GEORGE S. KOSS has joined Kaiser Steel Corp.'s steel manufacturing division at Fontana as assistant general superintendent in charge of the rolling mills division and the cold rolled and coated products division.

He is a veteran of 40 years of steel industry experience, starting as a laborer and mill hand in 1935.

Koss is an authority on steel mill rolling operations. In 1957, the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers (AISE) honored him with a Keylly Award for technical papers dealing with rolling practices.

L. B. STEVENSON has been appointed manager of compensation and benefits at Kaiser Steel Corp.'s steel manufacturing division at Fontana.

He will be responsible for hourly and salary compensation systems, benefits, and group insurance programs, functions which were previously a part of the employee services department.

Stevenson joined Kaiser in 1953 as an insurance examiner and progressed to disability claims examiner. In 1962, he transferred to the labor relations department and became senior labor relations representative in 1970.

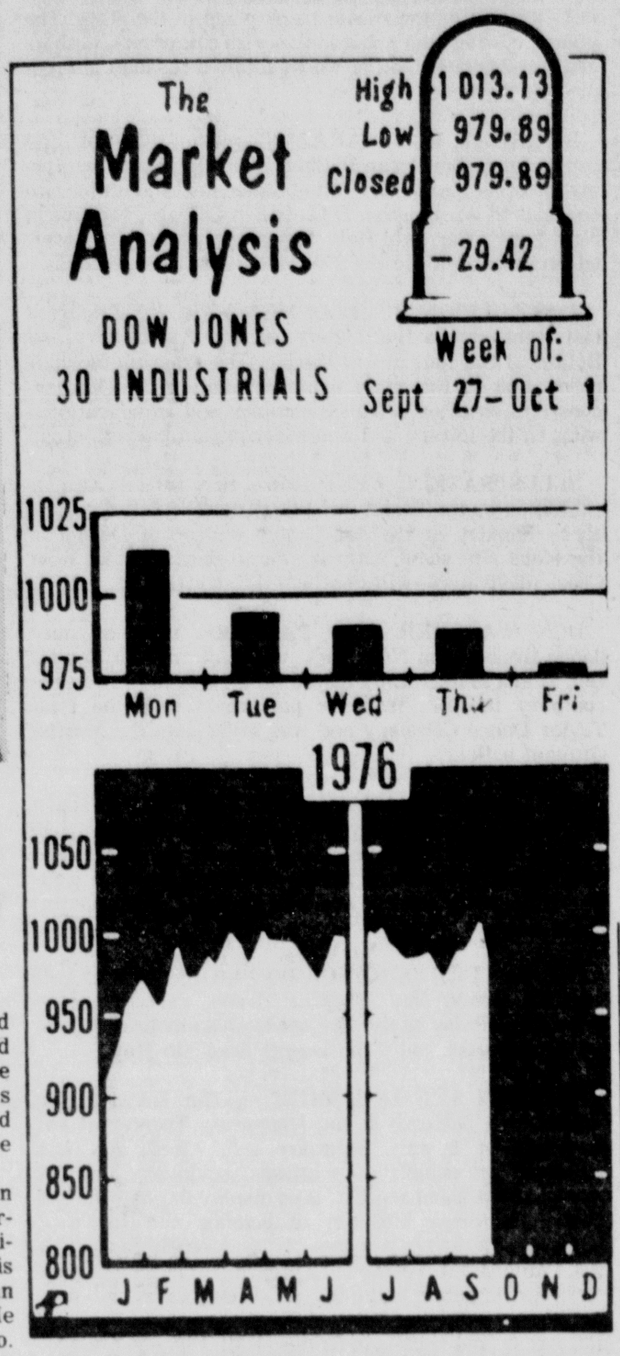

Last year he was named manager of employee benefit programs for Kaiser Steel and Kaiser Industries Corp.'s various companies, the position held to the present.

RICHARD L. CARR SR., chairman of the board of Carr Paper Co., Pomona, has been elected president of the National Paper Trade Association (NPTA).

Carr previously served as vice president of NPTA's industrial paper division. He was elected to office during the association's annual convention in Chicago.

The National Paper Trade Association, founded in 1903, represents 1,700 wholesale distributors of paper and paper-related products in the United States, Canada and more than 40 other countries throughout the world where NPTA affiliate members are located.

Carr, who resides in Claremont, is also chairman of the board of Sentinel Container Corp., and is president of Scheniman Paper Co. of Indio, Inc. He is a partner in Forwa Co. and in Pafor Co., and is a member of the board of directors of Amcord, Inc., Newport Beach.

Weekly Wall Street

Economic outlook reason for decline

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, jolted by a downturn in government statistics on the economic outlook, sustained its sharpest setback of the year this past week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 29.42 points to 979.89, posting losses in all of the last four sessions of the week after a modest gain on Monday.

It was the largest weekly loss for the average since it tumbled 41.87 points Dec. 1-5 of last year.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index skidded 2.63 to 104.17, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index was down 1.32 at 55.70.

Big Board volume averaged 18.26 million shares a day, down from 25.32 million in the previous week.

The selloff began at Tuesday's opening, when the government reported that its index of leading economic indicators fell 1.5 per cent in August for its first decline in a year and a half.

The figure seemed to give new weight to the concern traders have been showing in recent months over the progress of the recovery from the recession.

In Tuesday's trading the Dow fell 18.20 points for its worst daily showing in more than four months. It then lost 3.74 on Wednesday, 1 on Thursday and another 10.30 Friday.

Brokers said some added downward impetus late in the week was provided by a news story that said the inquiry into President Ford's congressional campaign finances had been initiated by top Justice Department officials, including Edward Levi, the attorney general.

Commerce Department figures Friday added to the atmosphere of uneasiness, showing a 0.8 per cent drop in factory orders during August after a downward revision of the data for July.

It all added up to a sharp and unpleasant contrast on Wall Street to the previous week, when the Dow rose 14.21 points and hit a closing high for the year of 1,014.79.

That upsurge had raised hopes that the average had at last punctured the stubborn resistance encountered at the 1,000 level all year.

National Semiconductor was among the week's losers, following a company report of lower quarterly earnings.

Bandag, a producer of tread and equipment for recapping tires, ran inti selling pressure after the company reported its third quarter sales and earnings would fall short of comparable year-ago figures.

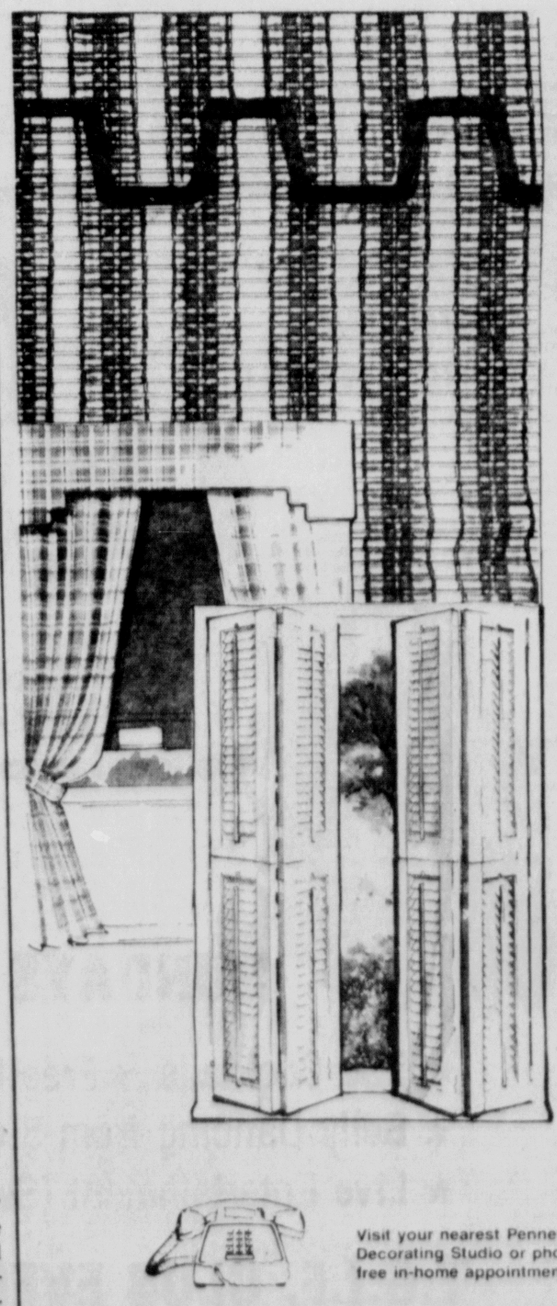

The weekly tally of NYSElisted issues showed 1,302 losers and 541 gainers among the 2,093 traded.

There were 207 new individual highs for the year and 60 new lows.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 2.12 to 101.56.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dropped 8.7 to 313.9.

ARTISTS GOT A BREAK when Gov. Brown signed AB 1391, a bill which gives them a five per cent royalty on the resale of their painting, sculpture or drawing valued at over $1,000. The royalty is payable where the seller lives in California or the resale takes place in the state. The measure brings the artist in line with composers, authors and screenwriters, all of whom retain a residual interest in their work.

Another Disney honored

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For almost 50 years, Roy O. Disney was content to remain in the shadow of his famous brother Walt. Now Roy's contributions to Disney the company have been formally recognized.

A new marketing building at the Burbank studios has been named after the elder Disney. His widow unveiled a plaque which read that the building is a "tribute to the life and works of Roy O. Disney, president, chairman of the board, chief executive officer.

"With his brother Walt he founded Walt Disney Productions in 1923 ... and for a halfcentury there after, his creative financial leadership helped make Walt's dreams come true ..."

Cold air mix

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ice cream is a frozen confection obtained by blending air and ice cream mix at lower than freezing temperatures. Most market grade ice cream deliberately contains as much air as mix, a good product.

Color film slated at Citrus

Photographer and film producer John Roberts will narrate his color film, "A New Norway" in the Citrus College auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 19. This is the first in a series of World Tour Films presented by the Citrus College Community Services.

The movie is a guided tour to an unusual and very attractive country. Roberts spent months traveling throughout Norway to produce a wide-sweeping story of the country, its people and its spectacular scenery. Some of the highlights include a trip to the top of Europe and the land of the midnight sun; a visit with a Laplander family; fjords, and colorful cities including the capital, Oslo.

Roberts' career in motion picture photography has been full and varied. He served as an instructor and film-maker for the U.S. Army Signal Corps during World War II. He then became associated with Lowell Thomas and was his cameraman on expeditions to Alaska, the Middle East and Tibet. He now produces industrial and promotional films in addition to lecturing.

Series tickets for all six World Tour Films are now available at the Citrus College box office at $6 for the general public and $4 for children under 12 and Citrus College students. Senior citizens are admitted free.

TV shows set for Christmas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Christmas television shows are beginning to line up. New entry: "Christmas Fantasy in Disneyland," starring Art Carney and the Walt Disney characters.

Marty Pasetta is producing and directing the special, which will appear on ABC Dec. 8. He has directed five Academy Award shows, as well as specials starring Bing Crosby and Frank Sinatra.

Oscar returns to Pavilion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oscar returns to the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Music Center March 28, 1977, for the 49th annual Academy awards.

Walter Mirish, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, announced that nominations will be announced at the Academy's Beverly Hills headquarters Feb. 14. ABC will telecast the March 28 awards, the ninth time for the Oscar show at the Music Center.

Filming from the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another film project out of recent news events: "How Israel Got Blueprints for France's Hottest Fighter Plane."

Frank P. Rosenberg's Cutlass Productions announced purchase of the New York Magazine article by Paul Erdman. He plans to shoot the film version next summer — with a shorter title.

Klugman in new role as city medical examiner

JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Klugman, the untidy half of "The Odd Couple," now is on NBC's Sunday Mystery Movie. He plays "Quincy," a hardcharging city medical examiner who does autopsies and solves crime.

He has a nifty debut Sunday in an opus that starts with him wooing his sweetie (Lynette Mettey) on his drydocked boat. The woo wanes right at sundown when Dr. Quincy is called to study the strangulation murder of a pretty City Hall secretary at a nearby beach.

The call causes a lively 90 minutes of good humor, two more slayings and a discovery that City Hall is missing $3 million or so.

Now, Quincy, employed by the Los Angeles coroner's office, is no mere body inspector. He can detect murder most foul in the most innocent-looking subdural hematoma or myocardial infarction.

He plays detective to prove his murder theories when cops don't believe him. This playing makes the cops mad, particularly his chief disbeliever, Lt. Frank Monahan (Garry Walberg).

In the case of the late secretary, there is no doubt she was strangled to death. Even Quincy agrees to that.

Monahan has no doubt who did it when a young thug is caught three miles from the murder scene — having been shot resisting arrest — with the handbag of the departed. But Quincy thinks the wounded thug is innocent. Why? Because the thug has small hands.

See, Quincy, while unsuccessfully trying to lift the murderer's fingerprints from the victim's neck with new techniques, has noticed the marks on said neck were made by someone with large hands.

This fails to impress the lieutenant, possible because the show has at least an hour more to go. So Quincy goes into detective mode. He visits City Hall to trace the dead girl's background and then:

—Probes the hanging "suicide" of a weak-willed city finance man.

—Suspects a City Hall conspiracy against him is afoot.

—Flies to Mexico with his lady to check an earlier possible murder of an earlier City Hall secretary (and almost gets himself and his lady killed when a baddie pushes their car over a cliff).

—Comes back to find a harbor commissioner the victim of an "accidental" drowning while scuba diving.

Fans of hard-nosed realism won't find such in this show, only a brisk pace, interesting characters and a nice tongue-in-cheek approach akin to that of "The Rockford Files."

A big plus is the appealing give-and-take between Klugman and Miss Mettey, she cast as a thirtyish airline stewardess starting a no - strings - attached romance with her busy medicine man.

She's quite an actress, quite beautiful, and gives the impression she's having as much fun as Klugman. Which makes "Quincy" all the more fun to watch. So give it a try on Sunday.

If you don't find this coroner's caper enjoyable, well, put your ear to your chest and see if anyone's home.

STARTS OPERATING—Jack Klugman, the untidy half of television's "The Odd Couple," has taken a new role. He's on NBC's Sunday Mystery Movie tonight portraying Quincy, a hardcharging city medical examiner.

ABC lures Korman from CBS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC Television, which lured Redd Foxx away from NBC, now has added CBS's Harvey Korman to its future star roster.

Fred Silverman, president of ABC Entertainment, announced that Korman will develop a half-hour comedy series to begin in the fall of 1977. This apparently signals the end of Korman's 10-year association with "The Carol Burnett Show."

Korman's company will also develop other projects for ABC.

Recital set at Bridges

Donna Curry, lutenist and singer, will present a recital in Bridges Hall, Pomona College at 8:15 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

Miss Curry will accompany herself on four different stringed instruments. She will use the vihuela, an early Spanish guitar, to open the program with a group of songs, composed by the 16th Century Spanish composer Pisador, Mudarra and de Valderrabano. For a group of later songs by John Dowland and French and Italian composers, she will play the Renaissance lute, the instrument with which she has become most associated through her concert tours in America and Europe.

The Baroque lute, of heavier construction than its earlier counterpart, will provide her accompaniment for songs by Bach, Mozart and the 17th Century composer Jacob Kremberg, whose music program will conclude with a group of settings by Miss Curry for voice and classical guitar, including the traditional "Ballynure Ballad," W.B. Yeats' "Down by the Sally Gardens" and Joyce's "The Leprechaun."

Miss Curry is a native of Southern California and a graduate of Whittier College. She was drawn away from her budding career in biomedical research by a meeting with the Japanese virtuoso Toyohiko Satoh, and embarked on the serious study of the lute with him, and with the European master teacher Eugen Dombois.

As a result of her international concert appearances, she has gained critical recognition as one of the world leaders in the revival of the lute, and particularly of the lighter Renaissance lute.

Forty Plus group invites Ford or Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organization that helps finds jobs for executives over age 40 has invited President Ford and Jimmy Carter to join, figuring one of them will be unemployed after Nov. 2.

"Our only requirements are that the applicant be 40 or more years of age and that he or she have worked in a professional or executive capacity," said the letter to the two candidates. "You appear eminently qualified."

The group, called Forty Plus of Washington, said its members fall into two categories, those who are out of work and those "who are presently employed but anticipate a job change and realize that a group effort is better than an individual effort."

The letter was handcarried to Ford's downtown campaign headquarters and mailed to Carter's organization in Atlanta.

Wayne Lewis, vice chairman of the organization's counseling committee, said Thursday that Forty Plus doesn't usually solicit members.

"I guess everything boils down to publicity," he said. "We want exposure, we want employers as well as the unemployed professional to hear of us and to learn about Forty Plus."

Enclosed with the letters was a dues schedule: an initiation fee of $60 and $12 a month for a member who can work one day a week in the group's office or $45 for the one who has a job and can't.

At this stage, Ford has a job that pays him $200,000 a year. Carter reported income of $136,138.92 for 1975. To belong to Forty Plus, a member must have had a job paying at least $15,000 annually.

"As a presidential candidate you have expressed your concern with unemployment, your concern with the need to reduce the federal government's role and your desire to put people to work," the letters said.

"Your party's platform speaks out on the critical need to reduce unemployment in the nation. You can help highlight the efforts of some of the over 150,000 people across the country, the unemployed professional men and women over 40 years of age."

Lewis said "we feel it would be a tremendous coup for either or both the President or Gov. Carter to become a member of Forty Plus, considering the high number of unemployed professionals and executives, many of them Republicans and Democrats probably sitting on the fence wondering which way to vote.

"If Mr. Ford were to join and get publicity that he is supporting the movement, I think he could pick up quite a bit of votes. The same is true of Mr. Carter as well," Lewis said.

The White House was checking to see whether the letter had been received and had no immediate response. The Carter camp probably hadn't received the letter by Thursday.

Rose Bowl replay ends in 10-10 draw

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The opposing coaches, Woody Hayes and Terry Donahue, offered different reasons for going conservative in the closing minutes of the 10-10 college football standoff between UCLA and Ohio State Saturday.

Eighth-ranked Ohio State ran the ball every time in its final drive to the UCLA 47-yard line, drawing a chorus of boos from the Ohio Stadium sellout crowd.

"I didn't like the fans booing. I hope it affected me more than the kids. That's why I answered them back," said Hayes, who would not say how he responded.

Why didn't the Buckeyes gamble on fourth down and four yards to go with 35 seconds left at the Bruins' 47?

"If we had gambled and lost," Hayes replied, "UCLA would have been within one good pass play of a field goal. My defensive coaches advised me of this. I listened to them."

So Tom Skladany, who kicked a tying field goal of 25 yards early in the quarter, punted to the UCLA seven. Donahue's fourth-ranked Bruins then ran out the clock with three straight rushing plays.

"We wanted to run two plays and throw deep," said Donahue. "But there was a mistake on the field and there was confusion on the sidelines. That was my fault."

The deadlock ended the Bruins' seven-game winning streak in the rematch of the 1976 Rose Bowl opponents.

In the closing minutes, both sides apparently played for a tie, running the ball instead of going to the air.

The Buckeyes, now 2-1-1, drew a chorus of boos when they ran seven successive running plays and punted the ball instead of trying a long-range field goal in the last minute.

Skladany punted to the Bruins' seven-yard line and UCLA, 3-0-1, ran out the clock with three rushing plays.

The Buckeyes, beaten by UCLA 23-10 in the Rose Bowl, struck for a 7-0 lead on fullback Pete Johnson's four-yard run midway in the second quarter.

Frank Corral booted a 47-yard field goal to cut the deficit to 7-3 midway through the third quarter and took a 10-7 lead on quarterback Jeff Dankworth's one-yard sneak with more than 13 minutes to go.

The anticipated offensive fireworks fizzled with both defensive units dominating the intersectional showdown.

UCLA, averaging more than 480 yards a game, could muster only 288 against the Buckeyes' veteran defensive platoon. Of that, 205 yards came on the ground by the nation's second-leading rushing team.

Ohio State, averaging 364 yards a contest, settled for 221, all but 41 of it on the ground.

Skladany kicked his tying field goal with 7:21 remaining. The nation's leading punter the last two seasons had missed a 47-yard field goal try just inside the second quarter that would have given Ohio State a 3-0 lead.

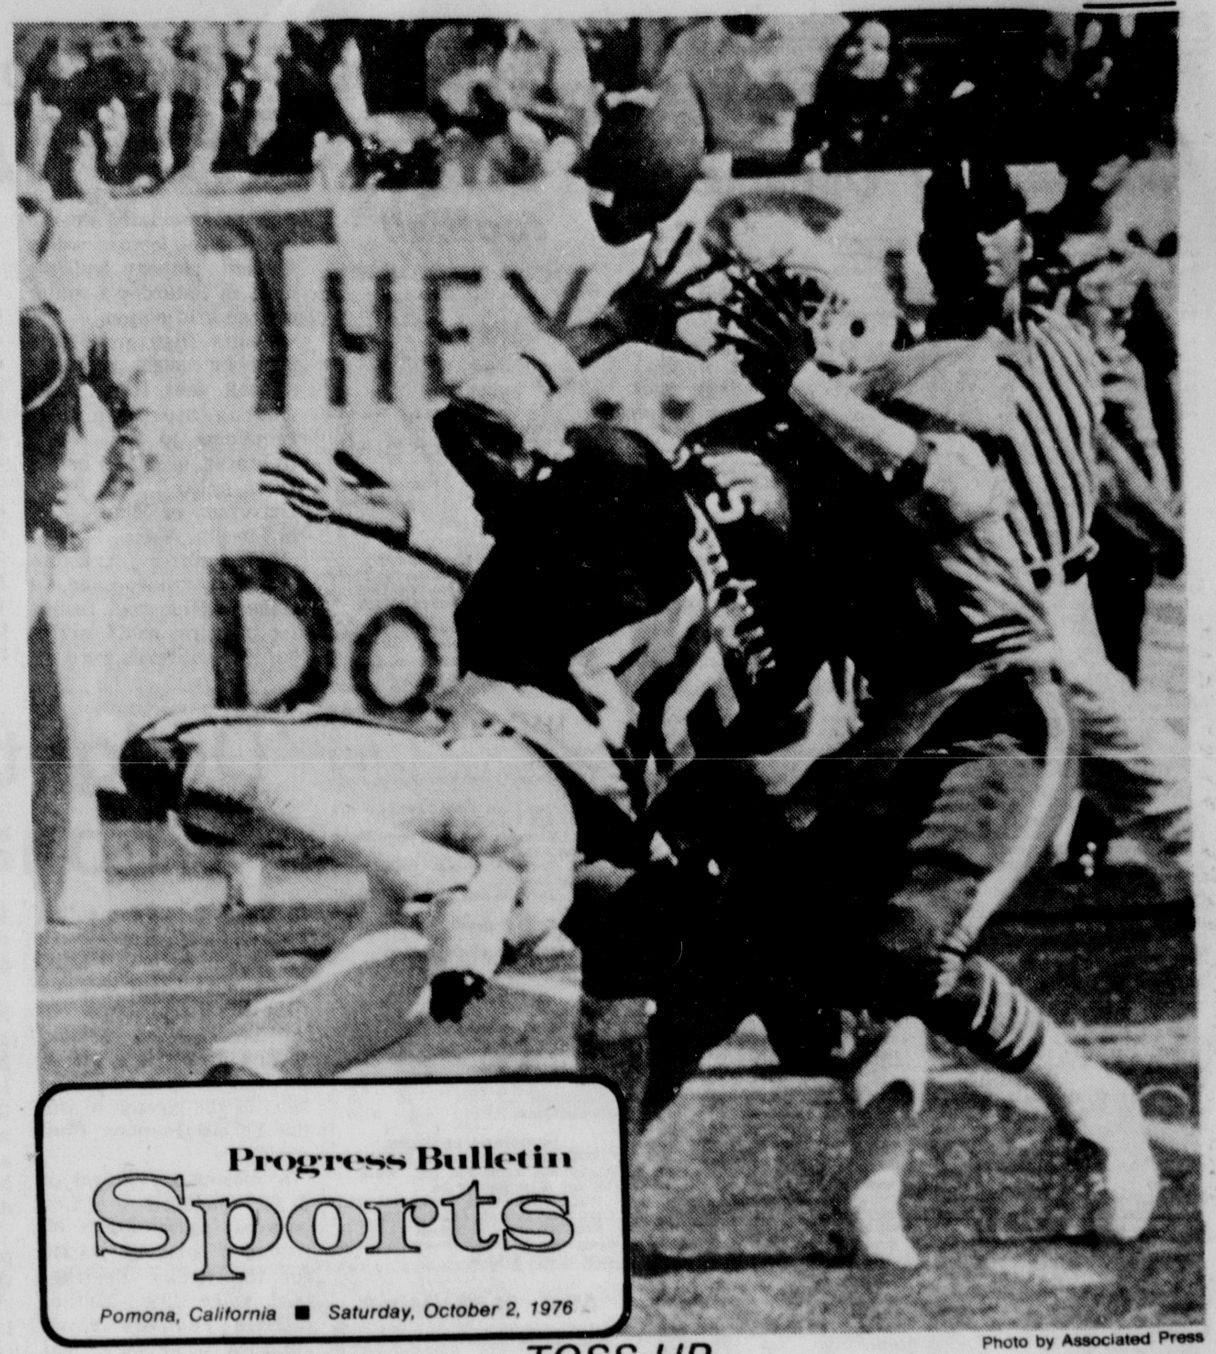

Ohio State was particularly effective defensively in the first half, permitting the Bruins to get no closer to the goal line than 47 yards. UCLA penetrated midfield only twice in the opening half.

Ohio State, playing before its 47th straight home sellout of more than 87,000, drove 46 yards in eight plays for its touchdown. Johnson, despite playing on two weak ankles, bulled the final four yards for his sixth touchdown this season and 45th of his career.

The Bruins marched 41 yards with the second half kickoff to set up Corral's field goal with 9:35 to play in the third quarter.

Cornerback Harold Martin's fumble recovery set up the Bruins' tying touchdown drive. The Bruins used a fake punt to keep the drive alive. Fullback Theotis Brown ran 24 yards on the surprise play, a fourth-and-inches call at the UCLA 26.

Dankworth then led the Bruins to their sole touchdown, driving the final inches himself on a quarterback keeper.

USC bombs Iowa

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Iowa should have stayed home and mailed in its game with USC Saturday night.

On second thought, the Hawkeyes would have been charged with mail fraud.

In an awesome display of power, the Trojans crushed the visitors, 55-0. It was the biggest margin of victory for USC since a Howard Jones-coached team whipped Georgia 60-0 in 1931.

Mentally, the Iowans were somewhere between the euphoria of their [illegible] upset of Pen State last week and the numbing realization that they will be facing an angry Ohio State team in a Big 10 conference game next.

The game was all over after the first half.

USC exploded for four second-quarter touchdowns to lead, 35-0, at the intermission.

The Trojans totaled 243 yards in the air and on the ground to Iowa's minus one in the half! They had 11 first downs to the Hawkeyes' one, and that one came via penalty.

Iowa never advanced beyond its own 41-yard-line in the first half and got beyond midfield just twice in the second half.

The Hawkeyes' deepest penetration came just before the third quarter ended.

After recovering USC's only fumble, Iowa started at Troy's 40. Five plays later the Hawkeyes had a fourth-and-two at the Trojans' nine.

That's a net of 31 yards. But 30 of them came through two face mask penalties on Troy. So the five plays gained one yard.

That threat ended when Dennis Thurman intercepted Butch Caldwell's pass in the end zone.

As one-sided as it was, USC coach John Robinson elected to underplay the victory. Either that, or nothing will make Robinson happy.

"I don't think we ever had much of a drive on the ground," Robinson said. "Iowa gave us the pass. On defense we were pretty good. The kids played a lot harder tonight and we had good practices all week."

Robinson had been unhappy with the defense and scrimmaged his team Wednesday. The result were evident Saturday night as 55,518 looked on.

The Trojans held Iowa to 77 net yards, 88 rushing and that old minus 11 passing for the whole game. Meanwhile, Troy totaled 512 yards, 251 on the ground and 261 in the air.

USC out-first-downed the visitors, 22-6. Two of those came on penalties. USC was penalized 14 times for 169 yards.

"I guess we got all those penalties because I was ragging the kids all week because we didn't have many," Robinson kidded.

Individual heroes included backup tailback Charlie White. The San Fernando Valley freshman netted 120 yards in 15 carries to edge Ricky Bell, who had 119 yards in 28.

White's long gainer came late in the fourth quarter. He streaked around left end and raced down the south sidelines 60 yards to paydirt, breaking two tackles inside the 15.

Even if it was a gift, Troy's passing was sensational. Vince Evans completed eight of 15 for 94 yards and a TD. But that was overshadowed by the performance of Rob Hertel.

The junior from Hacienda Heights, hit on 10 of 13 aerials for 167 yards and four touchdowns to tie a school record shared with Pete Bethard (1963 Rose Bowl), Craig Fertig (1964), Troy Winslow (1965) and Pat Haden (1973 and '74).

Chaffey High's Anthony Munoz saw considerable action the last three quarters. Overeager at first, the freshman offensive lineman tackled the man he was supposed to block the first play he was in.

"I was trying a little too hard," Munoz grinned sheepishly. "But I'm starting to set up my technique. I really didn't think I would play very much this year. I thought I'd just play a little bit and learn a lot this season."

"Anthony is doing fine," said offensive line coach Hudson Houck. "All he lacks is experience, and he got a lot of that tonight."

Unhappiest man in the Coliseum was Iowa coach Bob Commings. "There was not one thing that we did right. If anyone tells us we stink we've got to take it because we do.

Next up for USC is Washington State at Seattle.

"Our defense is playing harder and better, but we have a long way to go," cautioned Robinson.

True, the showdown with UCLA is still six weeks away.

Mississippi State blanks Poly

STARKVILLE, Miss. — Cal Poly found out the facts of football life in the Southeastern Conference the hard way here Saturday afternoon.

Host Mississippi State, playing before a crowd of 31,000 on Homecoming day, enjoyed a 38-0 shutout over the Broncos from California.

If anything, the Bulldogs showed some mercy against their smaller rivals. Mississippi State jumped out to a 17-0 lead in the first quarter and enjoyed a 31-0 halftime advantage. But coach Bob Tyler made good use of his bench in the second half.

Poly, now 0-3-1 for the season, couldn't get any type of running game going against the Bulldogs' tough defense as the Broncos could manage only 19 rushing yards on 43 carries. Three Poly quarterbacks combined to complete 18 of 38 passes for 202 yards to give the Californians a total offense of 221 yards in 81 plays.

Mississippi State had a total offense of 337 yards on 58 carries. The Bulldogs ran for 225 yards on 51 plays with All-America candidate Walter Packer accounting for 58 yards and two touchdowns on only seven carries. MSU also completed four of seven passes for 112 yards.

"Their Wishbone offense was awesome," Poly coach Andy Vinci said about the Bulldogs. "I am going to start running the Wishbone.

"We just couldn't throw the ball today," Vinci added. "Our line couldn't keep their line out. Our players played hard but when you go against a top-notch team like Mississippi State, it takes more than playing hard. They have better people and our players learned a good lesson."

Vinci used all three Poly quarterbacks with Jim Valenzuela taking over for starter Leo Costa in the second quarter and Sammy Ross, a sophomore who red shirted last year getting his chance in the fourth.

Ross, who saw his first game action of the season, was impressive in completing five of nine passes for 55 yards.

"Ross was the highlight of our game," Vinci said. "He will see a lot of playing time for us the rest of this season."

Poly's closest drive for a score ended with eight minutes left in the game when fullback Brent Partridge had the ball jarred from his grasp just as he was ready to cross the goal line. The Bulldogs recovered the fumble to stop that threat.

It didn't take long for Mississippi State, 3-1 for the campaign, to take command. On the fifth play of the game, MSU recovered a Costa fumble on the Poly 22. Quarterback Bruce Threadgill took it to the one on a 21-yard run and Packer scored on the next play.

Kicking specialist Kinney Jordan added a 48-yard field goal and five extra points.

Poly was led defensively by freshman cornerback Beno Lee, who intercepted two Bulldog passes, and senior linebacker Rich Kluck with 10 unassisted tackles and five assists.

Things don't get much easier for Poly next week when the Broncs go back on the road to visit another Division I opponent, North Texas State, at Denton, Tex.

'Bird' gets a bonus

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers announced Saturday their sensational rookie pitcher, Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, has been given a bonus "for his outstanding pitching in 1976."

The young right-hander, who had an 18-9 record going into Saturday's American League game with Milwaukee, also has signed a three-year contract through the 1979 season, it was disclosed.

The bonus and the contract, described as two separate transactions, were announced by Jim Campbell, executive vice-president and general manager.

Campbell did not disclose the size of the bonus or Fidrych's salary for the next three years.

The rookie started the season on the league minimum salary of $16,500 a year. This was increased to $19,000 under a new contract with the Baseball Players Association.

He also received a contract-stipulated $7,500 "progressive bonus," which is given to players advancing from one class to another.

Leos roll over 'Hens

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

La Verne College's win over Pomona-Pitzer Saturday night was so easy it was embarrassing to La Verne coach Roland Ortmayer.

The Leopards, 2-0 on the year, simply manhandled their valley neighbors in rolling up a 56-7 over outmanned Pomona-Pitzer on a chilly night at Pomona's Alumni Field.

Ortmayer, the dean of coaches in the valley, didn't know what to say when asked about the big margin.

"I don't like these kinds of scores," Ortmayer said, "but we came here to play football. I don't know what to do. We played everybody and even used some of our offensive players on defense."

There's no question La Verne has another strong football team despite some key losses from graduation out of last year's SCIAC co-championship club.

"We have a real good squad and things got off to a good start tonight," Ortmayer said. "Our defensive unit was very tough."

On the other side, Pomona-Pitzer coach Walt Ambord has to hope Saturday's game isn't a true indication of this year's potential.

Ambord was in high spirits after his Sagehens opened the season by crushing Christian Heritage, 55-0, last week in the opening game.

"La Verne played exceptionally well tonight and we were exceptionally lousy," Ambord said. "We're a much better team than we looked tonight."

Pomona will get another chance at La Verne later on as Saturday's one-sided rout was the non-league contest of the two scheduled this season. The Nov. 6 rematch at La Verne will count in the SCIAC standings.

The statistics were as one-sided as the score. La Verne rolled up 398 yards on the ground on 57 carries while Pomona had 33 yards on 36 runs.

La Verne used four quarterbacks. They combined for eight completions on 18 attempts for 190 yards while two Pomona QBs hit on 10 of 24 for 117.

At least Pomona made the scoreboard.

With 15 seconds left in the game, freshman QB Mark Klopp, a southpaw, connected on a 15-yard pass to Elliott Peters in the end zone as the wild and funny Sagehen pep band went wild with joy.

The game was never in doubt.

La Verne marched 48 yards on seven carries the first time it had the ball with Brad Frick scoring from the five.

It only took the Leos 25 seconds to score their second TD when Bernie Wendling intercepted a screen pass thrown by Pomona quarterback Lyle Lansdell, who was fighting for his life most of the night, on the Sagehen four and ran it in.

The Leos added 21 points in the second quarter for a comfortable 35-0 lead when Ben Morrow scored on a 52-yard run, Steve Hines caught a 10-yard TD pass from Randy Brown and Dave Serrano was on the receiving end of a 75-yard touchdown toss from Dave Maloof.

Brown ran for a six-yard touchdown in the third quarter for a 42-0 lead. La Verne's final TDs came on a 30-yard pass from Ricky Tedford to Tim Worrell and a four-yard run by Robert Pacho.

Morrow led the La Verne rushers with 99 yards on 10 carries. Other leading LVC runners were Frick (9-64), Robbie Hogan (7-50), Ralph Valadez (11-58), David Nash (4-47) and Brian Jackson (6-29).

MSAC blows lead, settles for 20-20 tie

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Mt. San Antonio College survived a string of a second-half turnovers to salvage a 20-20 tie with Los Angeles Harbor Saturday night at Memorial Stadium in Walnut.

The Mounties, now 3-0-1 on the year, were cruising along with a big 20-0 lead midway through the third quarter when strange things started happening with the pigskin.

In a 10-minute span in the second half, the Mounties committed an incredible six turnovers, one pass interception and five fumbles.

Harbor cashed four of those turnovers in for two touchdowns and two field goals, thus coming out of the contest with a gift 20-20 deadlock.

The Mounties' woes started in the third period when a Brian Bethke pass was picked off by Seahawk linebacker Alvin Jones and returned to the MSAC 48. The interception was the first of the year thrown by Bethke.

From the 48, the 'Hawks drove 28 yards to the Mountie 28, the big "play" in the march being a 15-yard walkoff against the Mounties for a face mask infraction.

When the Mountie defense stopped Harbor, Anthony Galvan kicked a 37-yard field goal for the visitors' first points of the game.

The Mounties had the ball back for exactly one play, as fullback Dan Hutchinson fumbled and Marcellus Potts recovered for Harbor on the Mountie 36.

Aided once again by a personal foul penalty on MSAC, the Seahawks pushed across a touchdown, fullback Ernie Crow barrelling for 15 yards and the score.

Ahead 20-10, the Mounties tried to hang on to the pigskin.

But reserve running back Mike Campa coughed up the ball on the MSAC 38, defensive end Rich Garcia recovering for Harbor.

Aided by the power running of fullback Crow, the 'Hawks marched the 38 yards to score, Crow going the final nine himself. Galvan's PAT kick made it a tight 20-17 game.

However, the Mounties still weren't through playing giveaway, as they fumbled the Seahawk kickoff and Mario Chavez fell on the loose pigskin for the visitors.

That gave Harbor the ball on the MSAC 47. They proceeded to drive all the way to the Mountie two before the Mountie defense stiffened, and on fourth down Galvan connected on a 20-yard FG to tie the score.

Galvan's boot came with 6:34 remaining in the contest, but neither team could mount a scoring threat thereafter and the contest ended in a draw.

Actually, the Mounties had what would have been the winning score called back in the second quarter on a questionable illegal procedure penalty.

The 'Hawks were set up for a Galvan field goal try on the Mountie 29 when Mike Hall broke through and blocked the attempt. Teammate Pierre Hill picked up the loose ball and rambled some 70 yards for an apparent touchdown, but the whole thing was called back by the officials who cited MSAC for the procedure call.

The Mountie defense then held Harbor without a score, but in the end they could have used Hill's TD romp.

MSAC built its 200 lead on two field goals by Art Aragon (of 39 and 38 yards) and two touchdown tosses from QB Bethke to tight end Don Warren.

The Mounties, in what had to be their rockiest outing of 1976, finished the contest with the edge in game statistics but that mattered little in light of the six crucial turnovers.

MSAC outgained Harbor 224-197 and out-first downed the visitors from Los Angeles 18-16.

Bethke, despite the interception, had a good night passing with nine completions in 13 attempts good for 89 yards and two touchdowns.

Mike Hill led the Mountie rushers with 85 yards on 17 carries, while Crow topped the Harbor ground game with 81 yards on 18 totes.

BYU blanks Aztecs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dave Taylor booted two field goals and Brigham Young's defense handed San Diego State its first shutout in 58 games for an 8-0 college football victory Saturday night.

It was the first time the potent Aztecs, previously unbeaten this season, had been held scoreless since Southern Mississippi stopped them 10-0 in the opening game of the 1971 season.

San Diego, 3-1, nearly pulled back into the game with 16 seconds to play but wide receiver Ronnie Smith dropped a pass in the end zone.

Taylor got BYU, 3-1, on the scoreboard with 9:39 left in the second quarter when he made good on a 42-yard kick and added another with a 32-yard effort in the third quarter.

The other two points came in the third quarter on an unusual play when the Aztecs were assessed a safety after linebacker Whip Walton intercepted a pass in the end zone then handed the ball forward to defensive back Herman Edwards.

Because the illegal act occurred in the end zone, officials awarded BYU a safety.

Star Aztec running back David "Deacon" Turner, who had 533 yards going into the game as one of the nation's leading runners, rolled up 108 yards on 24 carries but San Diego State's offense was unable to sustain a scoring drive.

The Aztecs managed to reach the BYU one yard line in the second quarter, but a 15-yard penalty killed the drive.

Chapman leads SLO

SAN LUIS OBISPO (AP) — Tailback Rocky Chapman of Upland High set up one touchdown with a 65-yard kickoff return and scored another on a one-yard plunge to lead Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo to a 19-7 college football victory over previously unbeaten Northridge State Saturday night.

Chapman gained 100 yards on 19 carries and his kickoff run put the Mustangs on the Northridge 33 yard line and led to Bob Trudeau's two-yard touchdown burst in the fourth quarter that put Cal Poly ahead to stay.

College football roundup

Shamblin, Lane have big days

From Associated Press

A pair of former valley football players had big days in Saturday's major college grid action.

Bonita High grad Dave Shamblin caught a 23-yard scoring pass from Vince Ferragamo with 3:21 remaining to help No. 5 Nebraska to a 17-0 come-from-behind win over University of Miami, Fla. in Lincoln, Neb.

Meanwhile, Arizona State's Arthur Lane, a Ganesha High grad, rushed for 159 yards on 33 carries but his Sun Devils were upset by host Wyoming, 13-10.

In a game matching teams in the Top Ten, No. 6 Georgia shut out 10th-ranked Alabama 21-0, just about ending the Southeastern Conference title hopes of the Crimson Tide, who have captured the conference crown for six straight years. Matt Robinson passed for one touchdown and scored another as the Bulldogs won their 10th straight regular season contest and tagged Alabama with its first shutout in 70 games.

Elsewhere among the top ranked teams, No. 1 Michigan had an easy time, ripping Wake Forest 31-0 as fullback Rob Lytle scored two touchdowns and passed Tom Harmon on the school's all-time rushing list. Pitt, ranked No. 2, used five touchdown passes by Matt Cavanaugh to wallop Duke 44-31. Third-ranked Oklahoma used two late TDs to down Iowa State 24-10. Maryland, No. 7, defeated Villanova 20-9 and ninth-ranked Kansas whipped Wisconsin 34-24.

Second string quarterback Bill Pynes ran for one touchdown and passed for another, moving No. 19 Florida to a 28-23 victory over No. 11 Louisiana State. Missouri, No. 12, had an easy time downing No. 14 North Carolina 24-3. No. 15 Boston College defeated Navy 17-13, Auburn kayoed No. 16 Mississippi 10-0, Notre Dame, ranked 18th, used two TD passes by Rick Slager to defeat Michigan State 24-6 and Kentucky clubbed No. 20 Penn State 22-6, the third straight loss for the Nittany Lions.

No. 13 Southern California played Iowa in a night game.

Top-ranked Michigan had an easy time against overmatched Wake Forest, as Lytle rushed for TDs of nine and 25 yards. He gained 110 yards on 14 carries, pushing his career total to 2,187 yards. That gave him fifth place in Michigan history, ahead of Harmon's 2,134.

Duke limited Pitt's Tony Dorsett to a merely mortal 129 yards in 31 carries but couldn't shut off the air attack by the second-ranked Panthers. Two of Cavanaugh's TD pitches, a 27-yarder to Jim Corbett and a 37-yard toss to Gordon Jones, came 16 seconds apart late in the first half.

Horace Ivory raced 62 yards with just over four minutes left to play to break a tie and then Jerry Anderson returned an interception 58 yards for No. 3 Oklahoma's clinching touchdown against Iowa State.

Georgia's shutout of Alabama marked the first time in 11 years that the Bulldogs, ranked sixth, have beaten the No. 10 Crimson Tide.

Maryland, No. 7, overcame some early sloppiness and a 9-6 halftime deficit to defeat Villanova.

Nolan Cromwell rushed for 123 yards and scored three touchdowns to carry No. 9 Kansas past Wisconsin.

In other games it was, North Carolina 24, Indiana 21; Purdue 42, Miami, Ohio 20; Texas A&M 14, Illinois 7; Tennessee 21, Clemson 19; Tulane 24, Vanderbilt 13; William and Mary 27, Virginia Tech 15, and West Virginia 9, Richmond 6.

Also, Harvard 37, Boston University 14; Rutgers 21, Cornell 14; Dartmouth 45, Holy Cross 7; Yale 21, Lehigh 6; Virginia Military 17, Furman 3; Army 21, Stanford 20; and Oklahoma State 16, North Texas State 10.

'Delight wins Pomona 'Cap

Pomona's 1976 meeting came to a close with records tumbling and the sensational four-year-old filly Our First Delight being directed, by leading jockey Francisco Mena, through an opening at the head of the stretch to win the $39,400 Pomona Handicap.

A closing-day crowd of 22,821 boosted the Los Angeles County Fair's attendance total to 173,349 for the 14-day meeting, best since 1968. Mutuel handle records were smashed on Friday, and with the $2,050,041 yesterday, first time the $2-million plateau has been reached in Pomona. The Fair established an all-time standard of $18,379,621 for the season.

Meryl Ann Tanz' Our First Delight, who only last Tuesday won the Las Madrinas Handicap by 10 lengths in track record time of 1.42 2/5 for the mile and one-sixteenth, was just as impressive when beating the boys in Saturday's 'Cap.

She remained in four position most of the trip, ran up behind three horses along the rail at the far turn, then, when the pacesetter, Give'm Time, drifted out coming into the lane, Mena sent the daughter of First Balcony on by to pull away and win by a length and one-half. No track records this time, however, as the Jerry Fanning-trained miss finished the mile and one-eight in 1.49 2/5, three-fifths off the mark set by Buck Price in last year's Pomona 'Cap.

Our first Delight earned $23,650 to increase her Pomona winnings to $33,185 and rank as the meet's leading money earner. She joined Valiant King and Tulsea as a two-time stakes winner.

Mena finished the campaign with 23 victories, most since Don Pierce's 25, eight years ago. He pulled away from two-time bullring champ Bobby Howard with three wins on Saturday's card. Trainer Ted West was Mena's titilist counterpart as he accounted for eight wins, finishing before Jerry Dutton, Doug Oliver and Jerry Fanning.

Our First Delight, who was awarded the Valkyr Trophy in 1975 as California's best three-year-old filly, returned mutuels of $5.80, $3.80 and $2.60.

Rams invade Miami

MIAMI (AP) — The injury-ridden Los Angeles Rams and Miami Dolphins square off today in a nationally televised game at 1 p.m. PDT.

The Dolphins, enter the game looking like the team that has been a league powerhouse throughout the 1970s. Defense saved a 16-0 victory over the hapless New York Jets last week after New England routed Miami 30-14 the previous week.

The Rams, 2-0-1 and leading the National Conference West, will throw two of the league's top runners at a defense severely crippled by injuries and also have James Harris back at quarterback.

Harris, who injured the thumb on his throwing arm in preseason, hit 14 of 23 passes for 179 yards in his regular season debut last week against the New York Giants.

Fullback John Cappelletti ran for 85 yards in the 24-10 victory to boost his NFL-leading total to 315 yards. Running mate Lawrence McCutcheon had 73 yards and now has 298 for the season.

The Dolphins, 2-1 and tied with Baltimore and New England in the American Conference East, enter the game with regular linebacker Bob Matheson trying to play with a bruised calf muscle and linebacker Nick Buoniconti recuperating from a calf pull.

Miami has already lost three linebackers for the year and the search for help extended this week to a tryout for Rudy Kuechenberg, who last played a 1½ years ago in the World Football League.

An ankle bruise to wide receiver Duriel Harris has resulted in Coach Don Shula moving Mike Holmes, signed a week ago as a defensive back, to a backup receiving position.

The Rams also enter the game the worse for wear. Defensive tackle Merlin Olson suffered a hamstring injury against the Gi

Once cut by Dodger manager

Sparky admires Alston

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Sparky Anderson recently recalled the spring of 1958 when he was kid trying to make it into the big leagues with the Dodgers.

It was cut time, and the manager signalled him as he dressed after a workout.

"I'll have to cut you," the manager said.

"That's okay," Anderson recalls saying. "All I was here for was to shag. I know that."

A year later, Anderson was traded to Philadelphia and got his one year chance at the big leagues, batting .218.

It was a better record than the man who cut him, Walter Alston, who batted once in the big time and struck out.

But as a manager, the Los Angeles skipper lasted through 23 one-year contracts and Anderson, now managing the Cincinnati Reds, points out: "He had to be good. The O'Malleys (team owners) are not known for giving out charity."

Anderson idolizes the man who recently announced his retirement. When he thinks of Alston, he thinks of his first winter meetings as an unknown rookie manager.

There was a luncheon for the managers and the press.

"I was scared," Anderson recalled. "I didn't know nothing."

Anderson noticed a group of managers in the middle of the floor headed by Leo Durocher. Off to one side sat Alston, Preston Gomez and Lefty Phillips.

Alston signalled for Anderson to join the group.

"This is where you belong," Alston told him.

"There are guys managing who, if they ever won it, would be unbearable," Anderson said. That wasn't the way it was with Alston. He had class. The Dodgers always were a class organization and a lot of the class came from Alston.

"When we win, the first telegram I get is always from Alston. This year, when we won, he sent a telegram and then called, just to make sure it arrived."

The Reds manager quickly corrected any impression that Alston is a pussycat.

"He was a mean, tough SOB," Anderson said.

Anderson thought back to the early days when Alston had a small room where players could go to "discuss" any problems they had.

"He never had a taker," Anderson said.

"Never once did he ever embarrass the Dodgers," he said. "He had Durocher, Bobby Bragan and Charlie Dressen as coaches and lived through that.

"He had a lot of problems but he always kept them quiet. The thing with Don Sutton this year ... Mike Marshall, Richie Allen, Zoilo Versalles. If I had had Marshall, I would have blown.

"Not Alston. He used them and then he quietly got them out of there. All of a sudden, you looked up and they were gone."

The final year has been a trying one for Alston. There were calls for his resignation and rumors abounded during much of the season.

Now after after 23 years, Alston is gone with a career record which Anderson believes may be beyond his reach.

Homer helped

NEW YORK (AP) — When Don Larsen pitched his perfect World Series game in Yankee Stadium nearly 20 years ago against the Brooklyn Dodgers, a home run by Mickey Mantle was all the Yankees needed to win the 2-0 game. Mantle's blast into the right field seats off Sal Maglie came after the first 23 batters were retired. It was his third homer of that classic and his second off Maglie.

Reds, Phillies don't rely much on defense

By Associated Press

Don't look for much in the way of finesse when the National League playoffs begin. The Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds have a more basic approach to the game—bludgeon the opposition.

With Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski swinging the big bats for the Phils and George Foster and Joe Morgan doing the same for the Reds, the outfielders on both clubs figure to spend at least some of their time with their necks craned, watching baseballs fly over a variety of walls.

Both teams, of course, have more going for them than raw power.

The Phils appear to have an edge—a slim one, anyway—in pitching with a staff headed by Steve Carlton.

But one of Carlton's drawbacks only heightens one of Cincinnati's other assets The tall left-hander never seems to be able to hold a runner on base. With the Reds, that could be fatal. Cincinnati can steal almost any base it wants or take the extra base on the most routine of hits.

But the real keys to this best-of-five series starting next Saturday in Philadelphia could be a couple of factors which will never show up in a box score. And both of them seem to favor the Reds.

For one thing, Sparky Anderson, Cincinnati's placid, whitehaired manager, has the high respect of his players. He is the off-the-field leader the way Pete Rose is considered the on-the-field sparkplug.

Philadelphia's embattled Danny Ozark, conversely, has taken a lot of heat. Even when the Phils have been winning, he's had to shut out the sounds of wolves howling for his hide. He's had to spend a lot of time trying—sometimes unsuccessfully—to command his players' full attention. It has been said by some in Philadelphia, the boo-bird capital of the world, that the Phils have won despite his managing, not because of it.

The other factor is experience.

Not since 1950 have the Phillies had a championship. In 1964 they staged one of the great collapses in baseball history—and they nearly repeated that this year, seeing a massive 16-game lead virtually vanish before pulling themselves together. They barely managed to deal with that pressure. How will they deal with playoff pressure?

Everyone can guess how the Reds will deal with it. They've had to deal with it in four of the past six years, so they're masters in that department. And they dealt with it just fine last year, blitzing Pittsburgh in three straight for the NL flag, then beating Boston in seven games to win their first World Series in 35 years. The Phils have never won one.

But that's all history and no team ever won a title relying on its laurels.

Therefore, going into the final day of regular-season play, here is who the clubs will be relying on.

At first base, the Reds are sure to have Tony Perez. The same can't be said for Dick Allen of the Phils. Perez' hit and run production have fallen off a bit this year but he'll still provide consistency and a good glove. Allen, if he plays, will be a threat—not as much as in the past—to park any pitch into the bleachers ... or to misplay a routine throw.

Second baseman Dave Cash used to be the Phils' "holler guy." But he's stewing inside because he feels the Phils haven't rewarded him for past performance, and this year's has slipped. He's unsigned, soon to be a free agent and, without his on-field leadership, the Phils have no counterpart to Pete Rose or Joe Morgan. Morgan is everything a ballplayer should be. He's hitting over .320 with well over 100 runs batted in, a stolen-base record near the top of the league—perhaps the MVP for the second straight year.

At short, both Larry Bowa of the Phils and Dave Concepcion of the Reds are spray hitters and slick fielders. The Phils also have one of the best-fielding third basemen in the NL in Schmidt, and he's on the verge of winning the major league home run title. Rose, scrappy if not slick with the glove at third, will still beat you any way he can. He'll lead the NL in hits and runs scored again and maybe in doubles, too. That's not done with power. It's with daring.

Reds' outfielders Cesar Geronimo and Ken Griffey have sensational speed and George Foster supplies the power. Geronimo may have the best arm in baseball. Griffey is having his best year, hitting about .340— he'll likely win the batting title—and perhaps an MVP year.

Center fielder Garry Maddox has been the Phils' saviour in the field and sometimes at bat. He covers all the ground slugger Luzinski and spray hitter Jay Johnstone can't. And he's hitting about .330.

Catcher Johnny Bench has had a terribly off-year for Cincinnati, bat he's still better at gunning down runners than anyone the Phils have—Bob Boone, Tim McCarver or rarely-used Johnny Oates.

Carlton and Jim Lonborg are the Phils' big starters and bigger winners than any of the Reds' hurlers, headed by Pat Zachry and Gary Nolan. But Ozark goes to his bullpen crew—principally Tug McGraw and Ron Reed—because he has to. Anderson, the notorious Captain Hook, calls out Rawly Eastwick and Pedro Borbon because he likes to.

Over-all, the Reds have the speed with more than 200 stolen bases, about 80 more than the Phils, the better batting average by about 10 points and the greater power with a few more doubles and triples and better than 30 more homers.

Three CAC swimmers win trophies

Three swimmers from the Chaffey Aquatics Club won high point trophies in leading Chaffey to the championship of the California Novice Championship Meet at El Monte.

Todd Nylander, 8 of Cucamonga won six first place trophies and set pool records in the 50 free (32.1) and 200 free (2:35.0).

Alicia Ahn, 6, took six first place trophies while 12-year-old Tregg Ries of Upland won five first place and one second place trophy.

Other CAC swimmers who took home first place trophies were Kim Kirkpatrick, Meggan Robbins and Karla Ahn.

Chaffey won the league championship meet with 574½ points and complied 3,054 points during the season. Nine swim clubs participated in the league.

Information on the club is available from Coach John Reis at 981-1785.

Big crowd in Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — A record crowd of 68,505—watching the first professional sports event held in the $788 million Olympic Stadium—turned out Sunday as the Montreal Alouettes beat the Ottawa Rough Riders 23-2 in a Canadian Football League game.

Forego catches 'Pleasure

NEW YORK (AP) — Forego charged down the middle of the stretch, caught Honest Pleasure at the wire and won the $283,700 Marlboro Cup with a stakes record performance Saturday.

With a crowd 31,716 roaring, Forego made his usual late closing rush, but with 50 yards left it did not appear that he would catch Honest Pleasure. However, the magnificent gelding did it, under 137 pounds and on a muddy track.

The 21st stakes victory of his career nailed down a third straight Horse of the Year title for the 6-year-old son of Forli.

Forego, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, got home a head in front of Honest Pleasure and was clocked in 2:00 flat for the 1¼ miles, tying the stakes record set by Wajima under 119 pounds last year. He missed by only 1-5 of a second the track record he set under 132 pounds, also in 1975.

Forego, owned by Martha Gerry, paid $4.20, $3.60 and $2.80. Honest Pleasure, owned by Bertram Firestone and carrying 119 pounds, finished a length ahead of Father Hogan, 110, and returned $4.20 and $3.40. Sea Spray Farms' Father Hogan paid $4.60 after finishing 2¾ lengths in front of American History, 111.

ARCHER PITCHING — George Archer, shown here pitching his ball onto the sixth green at the Sahara Invitational Golf Tourney. Archer battled Don January for the lead, but finished a stroke behind with an 11 under par 202 in Saturday's round.

A's beat Angels

OAKLAND (AP) — Gene Tenace's run-scoring single with the bases loaded in the 14th inning gave the Oakland A's a 9-8 victory over the California Angels Saturday.

Tenace's hit came off John Verhoeven, the fourth California pitcher of the day.

Don Baylor walked to open the 14th and moved to second on a sacrifice by Bill North. Ken McMullen drew an intentional walk and Tommy Sant grounded out to put runners on second and third. Ron Fairly was then walked intentionally to load the bases and Tenace ended the game with a linedrive single to left field.

Rollie Fingers was the winning pitcher.

January takes lead

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Don January, the slow-moving Texan who calls himself "Old Folks," made eagle three on his final hole, shot a four-under-par 67 and took a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

The 46-year-old January, who admits to a certain fondness for the 6,800 yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course, had a three-round total of 201, 12 under par in his quest for a second title of the year.

"Oh, I'm just gonna go play my game tomorrow, try to play well," he said. "If I do, fine. If I don't, I'll just pack my bags and go to Dallas."

George Archer, the slump-ridden, 6-foot-5 former Masters champion, managed a 69 in the whipping winds that gusted to 35 miles per hour and was just one shot back at 202. Archer, attempting to fight his way out of a three-year slump, had the lead alone until the steady January ran in an 18-foot eagle putt on the final hole.

Big George Burns, who had the 36-hole lead, made one double bogey and could do no better than a 73 that left him four shots back at 205.

Defending champion Dave Hill rallied from a double bogey, managed a round of par 71 and was five back at 206. He shared that position with Bruce Fleisher, also with a 71, and Mike McCullough, 72.

January, author of one of sports' most outstanding comebacks after three years away from the game, already has won one tournament and $150,285 this year, his best money year ever.

"I've always played this course well," he said, then shifted to the parlance of this country's gambling capital to explain it.

"It's not a hard course, and it's not an easy course. Just the way I like it. It requires a lot of long iron shots, and I'm a good long iron player," he said, paused, and smiled. "You might say it kind of plays right into my strong suit."

Minute Men enjoy romp

American Christian Academy romped to a 48-0 shutout of Victor Valley Christian to win its Christian League opener at Victor Valley Saturday night.

Terry Balliet rushed for 71 yards on nine carries and scored three touchdowns. Don Cameron provided ACA with some big play offense with 122 yards on six carries and two TDs. Cameron scored on runs of 32 and 43 yards.

Interceptions foil Stags

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

A pair of school records by the Claremont-Mudd Stages, including one successful mark and one unfavorable record, highlighted a Saturday afternoon of football at the Stags' home field.

However, the bad outweighed the good as the Cal Lutheran Kingsmen went away with a 38-22 win over C-M

The Kingsmen (2-1) intercepted six errant Stags' aerials and, bedsides being able to gain ball control, Cal Lutheran was able to score four times.

Five of the interceptions were thrown by Stags' starting signalcaller Carl Bostick and the other was tossed by Robert Nailson. That ties the record of interceptions held by Robin Jarvi, who had done it twice previously.

On the positive side, Claremont-Mudd (0-2) finished the scoring — too little and too late — with a 51-yard field goal by Keith Cunningham. He held the old record at 50 yards.

"We just threw too many interceptions today," said C-M head coach John Zinda. "I thought we would be able to score today, but I didn't count on all of those interceptions."

Cunningham got the Stags off on the right foot with a 38-yard field goal in the first quarter, but 11 minutes later Claremont-Mudd found itself trailing, 17-3.

The Kingsmen, who lost 23 seniors, including 17 starters due to graduation off last year's team that went to the NAIA championship game, got their first score on a fourth-and-goal, one-yard plunge by fullback Allen Staie.

Staie was Cal Lutheran's leading ground-gainer with 113 yards on 10 carries. A well-balanced attack picked up a total of 294 net yards via the rush.

After an interception by Cal Lu's Blake Bixby, the Kingsmen scored on the first play of the second quarter. A 15-yard connection between QB John Kindred and wide receiver Butch Eskridge made it 12-3. A two-point conversion was successful when Kindred found Harry Hedrick in the end zone.

Cal Lutheran added a 34-yard field goal by Brad Hoffman, following another intercepted toss by Botick.

A Kingsmen' fumble enabled the Stags to strike back with a 50-yard touchdown pass from Bostick to Don Chester, who was all alone just a few yards from the goal line.

Cal Lutheran wasted little time scoring again in the opening of the third quarter with a nine-yard TD toss from Kindred to Steve Trumbauer. Hoff man added the PAT.

Jeff Hoff picked off a pass and strolled 25 yards for another Kingsmen tally.

Chris Jones ran back an intercepted pass 42 yards to the Stags' four, and after a delay of game penalty, Cal Lu scored on a nine-yard run by Lester Haynes.

A safety for Claremont-Mudd gave the Stags a pair of points, prior to the long field goal.

Jim Reed was C-M's leading rusher with 54 yards on 10 carries. The Stags had 103 yards on the ground and 219 via the air. Bostick did complete 11 of 27 for 146 yards, and Nailson was 6 of 13 for 73 yards.

Kindred had 6 of 17 completions for 113 yards and McLaughlin was three of five for 14 yards.

C-M goes on the road to play USIU next Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

P-P and C-M score wins

Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd both scored soccer wins Saturday.

The Sagehens defeated host Stanford 2-1 at Palo Alto while the host Stags downed La Verne 7-0 in a SCIAC match.

Pomona-Pitzer received goals from Ron Thomas and Fred Weiss to down Stanford. Goalie Kim Linnett sparkled in the nets with 11 saves, including a stop on a Stanford penalty kick.

Avner Glucklich scored three goals to lead C-M past La Verne. Bonita High product Carl Heim and Claremont High product David Goldstein added a goal apiece for the Stags.

Padres beat Sutton, end nine-game string

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Griffin and Butch Metzger combined to pitch a four-hitter and Mike Ivie slugged a three-run homer as the San Diego Padres defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 Saturday.

The loss ended a nine-game winning streak for the Dodgers' Don Sutton, 21-10, who had his string of scoreless innings snapped at 23 when the Padres scored four times in the eighth inning.

Jerry Turner broke a scoreless duel with a run-scoring single with one out. Bobby Valentine then beat out an infield single and Ivie followed with his seventh home run of the season.

The Dodgers got their run in the ninth when Ron Cey led off with a double and Griffin uncorked a pair of wild pitches. Griffin, 9-6, walked three and struck out four before giving way to Metzger, who got the final two outs to post his 16th save.

Oak Tree set to open Friday

ARCADIA — Following in the wake of its most successful season in history, the Oak Tree Racing Association will launch its eighth Thoroughbred racing meeting at Santa Anita Park Friday. The 23-day session will run through Sunday, Nov. 7.

Racing will be conducted Wednesday through Sunday, with first post time 1:30 p.m. during Daylight Savings Time, changing to 12:30 p.m. during Standard Time. Gates open at 11 a.m. on weekends and one-half hour later on weekdays, with a change to 11 a.m. daily during Standard Time.

Highlighting the 1976 Autumn meeting will be the world's richest invitational handicap, The Champions, with a purse of $350,000, to be presented on Saturday, Nov. 6. The mile and one-quarter classic is the centerpiece of the record 15 added-money events to be presented during the season worth more than $1 million.

Included in the potential starting line-up could be two-time Horse-of-the-Year Forego, Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes hero Bold Forbes, millionaire Foolish Pleasure and his 1975 juvenile champion stablemate Honest Pleasure, all of which have qualified for a starting berth by winning at least one of 50 major regional stakes races.

Complementing that main track classic on the lucrative stakes agenda is a trio of hundred-graders — the juvenile compaion feature Oak Leaf and Norfolk Stakes and the weight-for-age Oak Tree Stakes, held over the grass.

The Oak Tree, the West's first weight-for-age event when inaugurated in 1969, is a mile and one-half invitational run on Santa Anita's El Camino Real Turf Course. The eighth running will be presented on Sunday, Oct. 24.

The Oak Leaf on Sunday, Oct. 31, is the richest race on the West Coast for 2-year-old fillies, while its counterpart, the Norfolk (Sunday, Nov. 7), open to all 2-year-olds, is the middle jewel of California's Western Juvenile Triple Crown. Both races are carded at a mile and one-sixteenth.

Having just compiled the second-best overall riding record in the history of Del Mar, where he booted home 86 winners in 38 days, Laffit Pincay, Jr. will return to Oak Tree on a full-time basis for the first time since the 1969 opening season. That year he shared the jockey title with Rudy Rosales.

Also to include Sandy Hawley, who ranks second nationally in number of wins and third in total money earned, the Oak Tree jockey roster will be perhaps the strongest ever assembled during the autumn season. Pincay and Hawley have accounted for all major Southern California riding titles this year.

Battling those equestrian titans will be journeymen riders Fernando Toro, Darrel McHargue, Marco Castaneda, Don Pierce and Oak Tree's all-time leader, Bill Shoemaker.

Five-time national money-winning champion Charles Whittingham will again campaign a star-studded stable at Oak Tree, aiming for the more than $3 million in total purses, as will past training titlists Bobby Frankel and A.T. Doyle, leaders in number of victories and stakes wins, respectively, during the recent Del Mar season.

Hill shoots 33 for openers, wins grid event

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Golf Writer

SIZZLING ON THE FRONT LINE with a 3 under par 33, Dave Hill of Covina coasted in with a 42 for a 75 to win the 2nd annual La Verne-San Dimas Pop Warner tournament at San Dimas Canyon last week.

Hill, 20, finished 5 strokes ahead of last year's medalist, Jack Witham of La Verne, who shot 37-43—80. Bob Camp of Covina was third with an 83.

Art Riley of Los Angeles and Tom Anderson of Upland shot 84s.

JIM PINK of Pomona finished at 56, 6 strokes ahead of the field in the handicap division, posting a fine 90 to go with his 34 handicap. Jim Boyd of Pomona finished at 62 for second place, and Ed Paul of La Verne was in at 68.

DR. GLEN OCKER of Upland won the Calloway section with a 73; Henry Bradford, Pomona, was second, and G.C. Scott, Eagle Rock, and Paul Layman, La Verne, was third.

Chuck Howell, 12, of La Verne fired a neat 99 to win the boys division with Jeff Paul, second, and Mike Bybee third. Wayne Howard, La Verne, was closest to the pin; Ron Duchaneau, Arcadia, won the long driving contest. Ron's wife, Linda, won the woman's division with a 94.

Sixty-four players came from all over the Southland to play in the popular tournament.

THIRTEEN WINNERS in the Pop Warner tournament received beautiful plaques, the work of many of the boys at the Youth Training School in Chino.

The workmanship evident in the plaques is worth noting. It's safe to say that those who won the plaques will cherish these special awards for many, many years.

The plaques were obtained especially for the valley tournament by Sam Kason of La Verne, a supervisor at YTS, and a fine golfer himself.

AND WHEN it comes to running a memorable tournament it's hard to beat the efforts of Pop Warner tournament co-director Ed Paul and assistants Carol Bybee and Bonnie Davis. They were ably aided by Donna Flemming, Mary Paul, Arlene Rosalack, Lorraine Roche and Dolores Weaver.

Joe Taylor and Jack Witham added their talents to make the La Verne-San Dimas event a standout occasion.

LUCILLE MOORE won low gross and Greta Guio won low net in the La Mancha's Women's Club tournament recently. In the 2nd flight, Barbara Kohn was gross winner with Mae Wellborn tops in net. Bev Greenwood was low medalist in the 3rd flight with Madeline Maxwell low net winner.

GERT BAKER is the senior champion for the Glendora Women's Golf Auxiliary. Gert also won the Trophy Day event for the club recently.

First low gross winner on Seniors Day was Rose Drake. The three top finishers in the silver flight section were Isabel Bennett, Glenna Shanley and Lois Paulsen. In the gold flight they were Millie Weaver, Mercedes Sitter and Charlotte Hathaway.

Publicity director is Corky Booth.

Howard Marvin, club president, has announced that the San Dimas Canyon Club championship event will be held Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16-17. It's a 36-hole tourney in all flights.

JACK EWING, who finished fifth in the Kaiser International last week in Napa, has entered the $25,000 Queen Mary Open Thursday through Sunday at El Dorado Municipal in Long Beach.

The 32-year-old Ewing is a nine-year PGA tour veteran with lifetime earnings of $135,000. His best finish of 1976 was in the Kaiser, where he earned $6358. He was nine-under-par with a pair of 68s in the final two rounds.

Ewing, from San Juan Capistrano, will be playing in his second consecutive Queen Mary. He tied for fourth last year, shooting 8 under par.

Ewing is the sixth touring pro who has entered. The others are Bob Risch, Mark Pfeil, John Schamp, Steve Taylor and Don Pooley. Another 10 to 15 are expected to enter after the Sahara Open in Las Vegas this week.

Other leading players in the 150-man field (all previously announced) are defending champion Mike Krantz, Beau Baugh, Jimmy Powell, Arne Dokka, Jerry Barber, Rafe Botts, Jack Renner, Greg Trompas, Jack Spradlin, Ray Carrasco, Bill Feil, Mac Hunter Jr., Ross Randall and Peter Jacobsen.

ART KLIEWER of Chino tells about the fellow who hit his drive into a pumphouse area and saw no way to play it out. His wife came over, surveyed the situation and told him she'd hold up a board and he could play his shot through the opening.

Against his will, the player swung. The ball hit the board, then bounded up and hit his wife, killing her instantly.

The next time out the golfer found himself in the same pump house area. This time a friend yelled that he would hold the board up while the golfer played.

"Oh, no, I'm not going to try that again," the golfer replied. "The last time I did that I got a 9 on this hole."

PUBLIC COURSE golfers in the Los Angeles area are a frustrated lot. There simply aren't enough places to play their sport.

On the other hand, the San Diego area offers several public layouts which are ranked high nationally by Golf Digest. One is the Carlton Oaks Country Club and Lodge in Santee, in metropolitan San Diego, which was the site of the 1974 NCAA championships and is ranked among the nation's 200 best courses.

Carlton Oaks stretches 6990 yards from its championship tees, 6441 from the whites. It's estimated there are 10,000 trees on the course and water comes into play on 12 holes.

The greens fees normally are $5 weekdays and $8 on weekends.

THE FIRST ANNUAL Braille Institute Celebrity Golf Classic — with members of the U.S. Blind Golfer's Association competing, along with pro and amateur "name" golfers and celebrities from the sports and entertainment worlds — has been scheduled for Dec. 6 and 7 in Palm Springs.

Ray Bolger and blind singer-author Tom Sullivan are co-chairmen of the unique sports event which is scheduled at the Arnold Palmer Ironwood Country Club. Tournament headquarters will be the Canyon Hotel Racquet Golf Resort in Palm Springs.

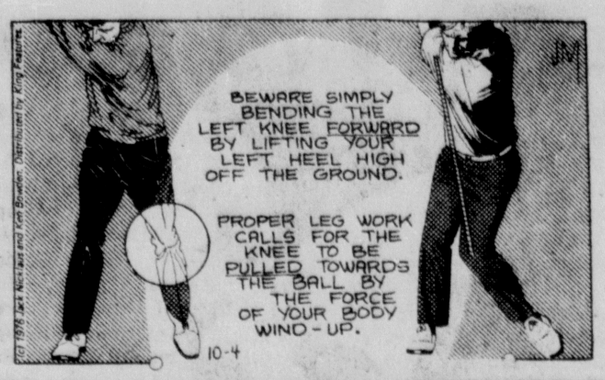

The president of the U.S. Blind Golfers' Association, who has accepted an invitation to play in the Braille Institute Golf Classic, is Charlie Boswell, Revenue Commissioner for the State of Alabama. Boswell, who lost his sight in World War II, is a member of the Advisory Board of the Presidents' Council on Physical Fitness.

Boswell and his fellow blind golfers have coaches who help them set up each shot. Wives and children occasionally provide this assistance.

Other noted blind golfers invited to participate in the Braille Institute Classic include Joe Lazaro, seven-time national champion who shoots in the low 80's or 90's on the nation's toughest golf courses, and Pat W. Browne Jr., partner in a New Orleans law firm and president of a Louisiana savings and loan association.

Make few mistakes

Yanks, K.C. use speed

By Associated Press

Don't look for mistakes when the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees begin their American League playoff. These two teams just don't make them.

Both clubs won their divisional races with similiar formulas—speed and defense. It was especially important to the Royals, who play on the only artificial surface in the American League. And that's where their pennant playoff begins Saturday.

The Royals like to joke about their "non-violent attack," but they can single and double you to death. They've proven that the long ball is not necessarily the only way to win ball games. A walk, a stolen base, an infield out and a sacrifice fly can score a run, too, you know.

So, the Royals run. Even designated hitter Hal McRae, who, like most DHs, occupies that role because of his limited mobility, swiped more than 20 bases. McRae and third baseman George Brett went into the final weekend of the season as the American League's top two hitters at .333 and .328. Between them, however, they had just 14 home runs.

But Brett leads the league in triples and center fielder Amos Otis has more doubles than anyone else. These Royals, you see, believe in stretching their hits and run with abandon.

First baseman John Mayberry is supposed to be the club's power guy and even though he suffered through an off year, he still led the team in runs batted in with 95 going into the final weekend of action.

The defense is strongest up the middle where light-hitting Frank White and speedy Fred Patek patrol second base and shortstop and Otis takes care of center field.

White and Patek both have outstanding range and good arms. Brett does a major league job at third base and Mayberry is adequate at first.

Otis owns one of baseball's best gloves in the outfield. He is flanked by Jim Wohlford or rookie Tom Poquette in left field and Al Cowens in right. The catching is handled by Buck Martinez and Bob Stinson and is considered the club's weakest defensive link.

The Yankees went into 1976 with the same speed and defense recipe that worked for Kansas City. New York traded for center fielder Mickey Rivers and second baseman Willie Randolph during the winter and both deals paid off handsomely.

Rivers became the leadoft man batting over .300 all year long and stealing more than 40 bases. Randolph was a revelation at second base, hitting around .270 and giving the Yankees the first major league glove they've had at the position since Bobby Richardson retired. His speed also paid off with more than 35 steals.

For batting punch, the Yankees depend on third baseman Graig Nettles, the league's leading home run hitter, first baseman Chris Chambliss and catcher Thurman Munson.

Nettles suffered through a horrendous start but came on fast in the final two months to capure the homer crown. His 32 homers going into the final weekend of the season gave him half as many as the entire Royals team.

Munson and Chambliss supplied steady bats all year, both hitting around .300 and driving more than 200 runs between them.

Shortstop was a problem until Fred Stanley became the fulltime man in August and provided a sharp glove and good-enough bat.

Carlos May, acquired from Chicago early in the year, did most of the left-handed designated hitter work and Fran Healy, acquired from the Royals early, shared right-handed DH duty with Piniella and rookie Otto Velez.

The Yankees won their division with a five-man pitching rotation, two more than most teams use in post-season play. The starters were Catfish Hunter, who labored through a so-so year; Ed Figueroa, who accompanied Rivers in the trade from California; Ken Holtzman and Doyle Alexander, both acquired in a 10-player mid-season trade with Baltimore, and Dock Ellis, who came over from Pittsburgh with Randolph. Dick Tidrow, Grant Jackson and Sparky Lyle are the main men in the bullpen.

The Royals' frontline pitching is composed of Dennis Leonard, Al Fitzmorris, Marty Pattin, Doug Bird and Paul Splittorff with Mark Littell and Steve Mingori the bullpen workhorses.

Mel Gray waiting to see Giants' secondary

By Associated Press

Forget liniment and whirlpool treatments. The best cure an ailing National Football League wide receiver can have is the sight of the New York Giants defensive secondary, waiting to be attacked.

Take Mel Gray, for example. With apologies to Henny Youngman, the Giants wish you would.

The St. Louis speedster caught just six passes for 106 yards in the Cardinals' first two games this season. Then he missed last week's game at San Diego because of a sprained ankle. But with the Giants due in town today, Gray feels well enough to be labeled a probable starter.

Elsewhere today, Oakland plays at New England, San Diego visits Denver, Dallas faces Seattle, Washington is at Chicago, Los Angeles plays at Miami, Houston visits New Orleans, Cleveland hosts Cincinnati, Philadelphia plays at Atlanta, the New York Jets travel to San Francisco, Tampa Bay is at Baltimore, Kansas City visits Buffalo, and Green Bay is at home to Detroit.

In Monday night's game, Pittsburgh plays at Minnesota.

During his NFL career, Gray has played in 10 games against the Giants and has burned New York for 26 catches covering 716 yards and including 10 touchdowns.

"Football is like chess," says Gray, explaining his approach to the game. "There's always a move to counter anything the defense does. If I'm doubleteamed, it feels good to split them. If it's one-on-one, it feels good to beat him. It feels good everytime I go downfield and I can get a good block."

Against the Giants, it seems, Gray always produces the checkmate. New York's pass defense is no better than 10th in the National Conference, which is added incentive for the rapid recovery. And with regulars Jim Stienke and Henry Stuckey still nursing leg injuries, the St. Louis swifty could be operating against a depleted Giant secondary.

Did somebody say bombs away?

That could also be the case in New England where the surprising Patriots face unbeaten Oakland, Ken Stabler, who missed last week's one-point victory over Houston because of a knee injury, is due back at quarterback for the Raiders. The Patriots have beaten Miami and Pittsburgh in successive weeks with young quarterback Steve Grogan doing most of the damage.

Grogan has five TD passes in the last two games and the alert New England defense recovered six Pittsburgh fumbles to stun the Steelers. Oakland's rebuilt defense, led by Charles Philyaw and John Matuszak, turned back the Oilers on the one-yard line in two different series.

There could be some scoring excitement at Denver where two of the NFL's best offenses tangle. Unbeaten San Diego features the league's leading passer in Dan Fouts and running backs Rickey Young (233 yards) and Don Woods (195). Denver counters with the highest scoring team in the league—97 points in three games, 90 of them in the last two outings.

Two of the six NFL clubs still unbeaten are NFC East powers Dallas and Washington. The Cowboys have an apparently easier task this week, facing winless Seattle, while the Redskins, who won in overtime last Monday against Philadelphia, take on improved Chicago.

Efren Herrera's third field goal of the game, a 32-yarder with three seconds left, boosted Dallas past Baltimore in a seesaw game. Roger Staubach paced the Cowboy victory with the best day of his career, connecting on 22 of 28 passes for 339 yards.

Washington overcame a 10-0 deficit to give Coach George Allen his 100th NFL victory with the overtime decision over Philadelphia. Mark 'Moseley's 29-yard field goal with just 2:11 left in the extra period beat the improved Eagles, who had tied the score on a 41-yard TD pass by Mike Boryla with just 62 seconds left in regulation time.

Los Angeles and Miami both enjoyed easy victories over the winless New York teams in a tuneup for their inter-conference clash. The Rams, with John Cappelletti increasing his league-leading rushing total to 315 yards beat the Giants 24-10 after trailing 10-0 and the Dolphins shut out the Jets 16-0 with Garo Yepremian kicking three more field goals.

New Orleans unveiled a strong running game with Tony Galbreath grinding out 146 yards and Chuck Muncie adding 125 to beat Kansas City. The Saints hope to keep it up against Houston's stingy defense. The Oilers finally surrended two TDs and dropped their first game last week after allowing just three points in their first two games.

Cincinnati's fired-up defense held Green Bay to a minus 35 yards passing — the third lowest net passing total in NFL history. The Bengals will try to continue that pattern against Cleveland, which has dropped two straight after winning its opener.

Philadelphia and Atlanta both bring 1-2 records into their meeting. The Eagles lost an overtime toughie to Washington Monday while the Falcons shut out Chicago 10-0 as No. 1 draft choice Bubba Bean gained 81 yards, pushing his season's total to 190 for three games.

The winless Jets bring the NFL's poorest defense to San Francisco. New York has allowed a league-high 100 points in three straight losses. The 49ers ripped Seattle last week as Jim Plunkett passed for 239 yards and three touchdowns.

Assistance League plans 'Extravaganza'

Members of the Assistance League of Pomona Valley have completed plans for "Kaleidoscope," a Couturier's Musical Extravaganza to be presented Saturday at Garrison Theater in Claremont.

The event will take the form of a tripartite affair, and the evening will get underway with the serving of complimentary champagne at 7:30 p.m. in the foyer of the theater. Show time, the second phase of the evening, is scheduled for 8:30 p.m., and concluding the festivities will be Apre Theater, with a buffet of hors d'oeuvres and no host cocktails.

A highlight of the show, produced and narrated by Holly Mitchell, will be "Zodiac of Fashion," a lighthearted method of finding out about oneself with audience participation.

A featured attraction during the show will be Falkenstein, an ESP specialist.

Tickets may be obtained by single persons and couples from any League member or by calling Mrs. James R. Laird of Claremont.

An interesting attraction is being arranged by the members of the Lazy Susans Auxiliary under the guidance of Mrs. John Evans, chairman.

Chastain-McNutt vows exchanged

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. David Chastain have established a home in Pomona following their marriage at First Lutheran of Ontario.

The former Miss Nancy McNutt is the daughter of Mrs. Irene McNutt of Ontario. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chastain of Ontario.

Honor attendant was Micki Flager of Chino.

Best man was Tom Chastain of Ontario.

Other attendants were: Roma Lamb, Leslie Todd, Sandy Main, Randy Chastain, Jim Chastain and Perry Chastain.

Sweet Adelines

Present 'Big Top' show

Theme for the 15th annual show to be presented by Sweet Adelines at Garrison Theater in Claremont Saturday evening was "Barbershop Under the Big Top."

The chorus of 65 members was under the direction of Lois Whitney of Glendora and featured Doren Keepers, Glenda Lee and Chris Puerifoy as assistant directors.

The circus show featured exclusive interviews by three members. Also featured were the Norse Winds quartet and the "Sounds of Harmony." Included in the program was Four's Company from the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Chairmen were Dee De Frank and Gretchen Ross. They were assisted by Rosemarie McDonnell, Glenda Lee, Marge Tichy, Mary O'Neil, Betty Pierce, Kit Tournay, Sharon Livings, Evelyn Hayslip and Doren Keepers.

The Pomona Valley chorus won fifth place in the Southwest Regional Competition last March in Phoenix, competing against 22 choruses from Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico and part of Texas.

SECRETARIES HAVE DAY IN COURT

Terry Flores, chairman, left, and Vera Perez, court clerk, discuss Day in Court plans with Judge Philip E. Schaefer for Ontario Legal Secretaries Association event to be held Oct. 12.

Court Observance Week is announced

The week of Oct. 10-16 has been proclaimed National Legal Secretaries Court Observance Week.

The National Association of Legal Secretaries has sponsored Day-in-Court programs since 1956 for the purpose of affording legal secretaries, students, legal assistants and the general public an opportunity to visit local courts, observe trials in progress and gain first hand knowledge of the functions of various departments connected with local judicial systems.

The Ontario Legal Secretaries Association has scheduled its Day-in-Court program for Oct. 12. Chairman Terry Flores of McVittie, Gutierrez & Bidart, urges all legal secretaries, legal assistants, students and the general public to attend.

The program will be held at the Chino Municipal Court, 13721 Central Ave., Chino. The program will commence at 8 a.m. with registration in the Jury Assembly Room. There is no charge for the program. Thereafter tours of the court complex, clerk's office, district attorney, public defender, and city attorney's offices will follow. Those attending will be greeted by Judge Philip E. Schaefer and will also have an opportunity to sit in on a courtroom hearing. The event will end at noon with a champagne party and talk by Judge Schaefer and a question and answer session at the offices of McVittie, Gutierrez & Bidart in Chino.

Report lists sodium content of 200 foods

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — Sodium, a prime ingredient of ordinary table salt, worries some people who think they're getting too much of it in their diet, says a report just published by the Water Quality Association, which offers reassurance on this point.

"Sodium is essential in human nutrition," the report states. "A person in normal health will excrete any excess of it."

For those who must restrict sodium for medical reasons, and those others who are merely concerned, the report lists the sodium content of nearly 200 foods, beverages, and common nonprescription medicinals. A slice of white bread, for example, contains 129 milligrams of sodium, a frankfurter 610, and two antacid tablets 1064.

Though water, even when softened, is a minor source of sodium, the report lists the sodium content of water in the 100 largest U.S. cities. Long Beach, Calif., tops them all with just over 29 milligrams in an eight-ounce glass. Seattle is at the bottom with only a fraction of a milligram. Seventy of the 100 cities surveyed have less than 5 milligrams.

A typical normal adult takes in 4500 milligrams of sodium a day — about one-eighth of an ounce.

Expert sees improvement in housing

Southern California builders who are experiencing one of the biggest real estate booms since World War II must beware, cautions Sanford R. Goodkin, real estate analyst and researcher.

In a speech before the Manufactured Housing Institute he said what's happening in the local marketplaces is profound with lotteries, crowds fighting for a chance to get the next house, buyers not even caring how big the house is or exactly what the view is. "They're buying almost anything available," Goodkin said.

Housing starts will be up over last year, he said. Orange County will be up between 40-50 percent; Los Angeles will be up 23 percent; Riverside, 24 percent; San Francisco, 20 percent and San Diego close to 100 percent.

Nationally the picture, according to Goodkin, is up, but not quite as high as California. Chicago will be up 30 percent; Dallas, 33 percent; Atlanta, up only 30 percent; Boston and Washington, D.C., 60 percent and Houston, 57 percent. Multi-family housing in Houston will be up 100 percent.

Goodkin believes these rates cannot hold steady with builders paying ever-increasing prices for buildable land and housing appreciation in Southern California at 3 percent a month, compared to 1½ percent in 1973-75 and 1 percent in 1971-72.

"All indications are that high end housing is all that can be built because of overall inefficient and foolish land use and land cost," he said. "As a result, there will be an evolving build-up of inventory in the higher price ranges, beginning the last quarter of 1976 and through 1977," Goodkin predicts.

"I do not believe 1976 is anything but an atomic mutation. Speculators are distorting the strength of the higher end market. It is not indicative of what is going to happen in the next two, three, four or five years; not as long as land prices behave as crazily as they have. Government must encourage and comprehend more density per acre to force land and home prices down.

"In just the six-county Southern California region there is a need for approximately 150,000 new housing units each year, and there isn't enough allowable land to build homes within the reach of the people in the middle class who need them most," he said.

Goodkin said latest Realtor statistics show the average price of existing homes sold in the western United States at $51,400, up $6,700 over a 12-month period. As of July, 43 percent of existing homes sold in this region were over $50,000; compared with 11 percent over $50,000 in 1972.

One of the possible solutions rests with factory-built housing, he said. "It is absolutely imperative that lenders and local building jurisdictions, as well as city fathers who are really trying to solve the growing problem of the bulk of the population not being able to afford housing, understand the great opportunities, the flexibility as well as the necessities to be able to use mobil and modular housing without forcing it to become higher than it should be," he said.

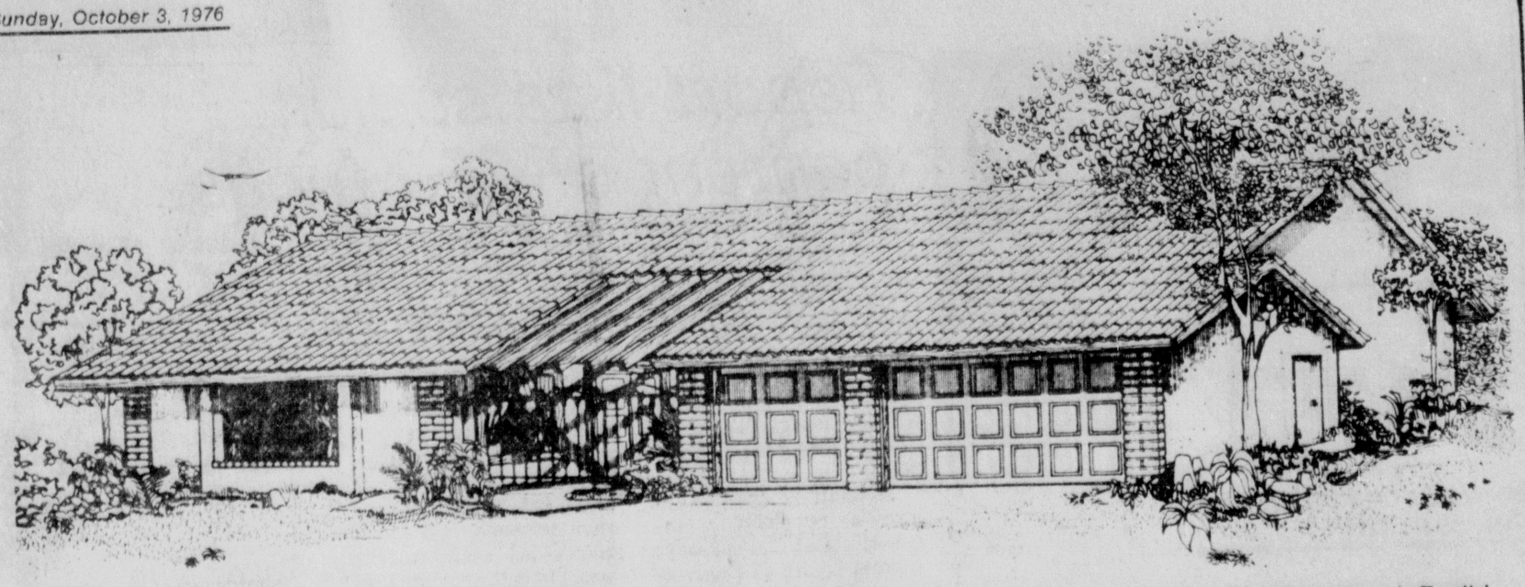

The vast improvement in the quality and design advances of the modern so-called "Mobilhome," which is really quite immobile, are still not appreciated by even the average consumer or local zoning bodies. Dark age thinking penalizes what could be an immediate solution to housing for the priced-out youngsters and oldsters who are wondering where they'll be living next year, said Goodkin.

He predicts a 30 percent increase in mobile home shipments this year, but said there must be more for the coming years to meet the housing needs of the middle- and lower-income family.

Goodkin is chairman of the board of Sanford R. Goodkin Research Corp., with headquarters in Del Mar.

Expensive

Salt once was so precious that 12th-century traders in Africa reportedly exchanged it for twice its weight in gold, National Geographic says.

GRANADA SERIES — Lewis Homes development, its grand opening only two weeks old, already is nearing the sellout stage. The air-conditioned tile-roof homes are priced from $59,550, and are located on 14th Street west of Euclid Avenue in Upland.

Lewis development nearly sold out

"We still have some home models at our Granada Series, but at the rate they're being snapped up we'll soon be posting the sold-out sign," said Randall W. Lewis, vice-president and marketing director for Lewis Homes.

He said the development, located two blocks west of Euclid Avenue on 14th Street in Upland, had recorded sales of more than two-thirds of the homes before the recent grand opening.

"Factors that generated such an avalanche of sales are the Granada Series' attractive setting a choice Upland location, its large floor plans and the numerous built-in refinements that put these single-family homes in the luxury class," Lewis said.

Refrigerated air-conditioning is included in the purchase price. The homes are priced from $59,550. VA and conventional terms apply. Some of the homes are ready for immediate occupancy.

Tile roofs highlight the Spanish architectural motifs. Interiors feature ceramic tile entires, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings and shag wall-to-wall carpeting. Master bedroom suites have mirrored wardrobe doors and the twin sink basins.

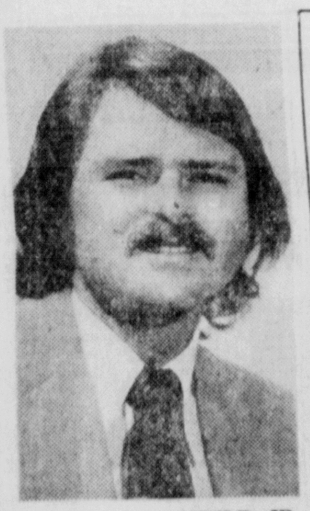

Garden kitchens have luminous ceilings, pantries, microwave ovens, and self-cleaning ovens.

The development may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway by driving north on Euclid Avenue a few blocks beyond Foothill Boulevard to 14th Street, then turn east two blocks to the homes.

Sales award presented to Canfield

Charles Canfield, Jr., Realtor associated with Century 21-Canfield and Cravens, Pomona was presented the sales award by the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors for having had the greatest number of sales during August.

Canfield is a director of the board of Realtors and a California Real Estate Association Director. He was the top salesman for the first six months of this year.

Project finished in San Dimas

A housing project called Palm Homes has opened in San Dimas. The homes are located on large lots, many in excess of one-fourth acre, and all have minimum 12-foot side yard access to the rear yard. This is ideal for recreation vehicle or boat storage. The homes have such standard features as concrete patios, concrete driveways, nylon shag carpeting, fireplaces, ceramic tile kitchen counter tops, and hardwood kitchen cabinets. They are insulated and prepared for air conditioning.

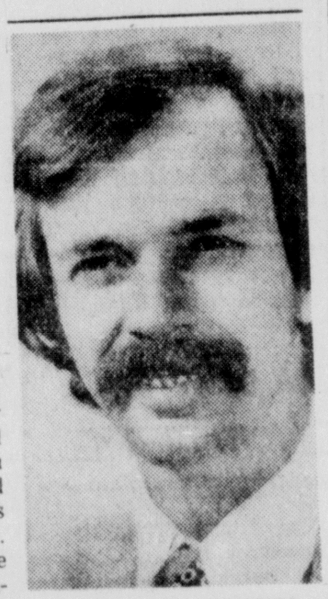

The project was awarded a certificate of commendation for energy conservation because of such features as electronic pilot lights in all stoves, insulated duct work, automatic dampers, and water saving shower heads.

The homes are priced from $43,950. The sales office is located at Gladstone Street and San Dimas Canyon Road, San Dimas.

Realtor wins award for most sales

Sanford D. Waters, Realtor, has received a sales award from the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors for having had the greatest number of listings sold during August.

Waters has been a Pomona resident for four years. He received his real estate brokers license in 1975 and is self employed as the Sanford D. Waters Co., located at 2002 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. He resides with his wife Eleanor and daughter Kim.

METRIC SYSTEM · PART SIX

ALMOST CONVERTED

IF YOU'VE BEEN SAVING THE LESSONS (OF WHICH THIS IS THE SIXTH AND FINAL) ABOUT USING THE METRIC SYSTEM, YOU'RE ALMOST READY. YOU KNOW ABOUT ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW.

SIMPLY FORGET YOUR FORMER LANGUAGE OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES. REMEMBER WHEN SOMEBODY SAYS "MILE," HE MEANS A LITTLE MORE THAN A KILOMETER AND A HALF; "QUART," HE MEANS A LITTLE LESS THAN A LITER; "INCH," ABOUT TWO AND A HALF CENTIMETERS; "YARD," A LITTLE LESS THAN A METER - OR THAT AREA WHERE DANDELIONS GROW.

GREAT TEACHER

WHILE YOU'RE LEARNING TO THINK METRIC, YOU'LL FIND THE SLIDE CONVERTER A CONVENIENT TOOL. IT CONVERTS LENGTH, WEIGHT, VOLUME, AREA, AND TEMPERATURE FROM OUR CUSTOMARY SYSTEM TO THE METRIC SYSTEM AT A GLANCE. OBTAIN IT BY SENDING $1.00 AND A LONG, SELF-ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE WITH YOUR REQUEST TO:

METRIC CONVERTER
BOX 4994
DES MOINES, IA. 50306

BY DEGREES

PART OF THE SWITCH TO METRIC HAS TO DO WITH TEMPERATURE, WHICH WE HAVEN'T SAID MUCH ABOUT.

MR. FAHRENHEIT INVENTED OUR THERMOMETER WITH ZERO AS THE COLDEST HE COULD MAKE ICE BY PUTTING SALT ON IT, AND 212 DEGREES AS THE BOILING POINT. HE HAD REASONS FOR MAKING IT 180 DEGREES FROM FREEZING (32) TO BOILING (212).

MEANWHILE, MR. CELSIUS CREATED AN EASIER SYSTEM BY MAKING FREEZING POINT OF WATER ZERO, AND THE BOILING POINT 100, DIVIDING THE INTERVENING AREA INTO 100 DEGREES.

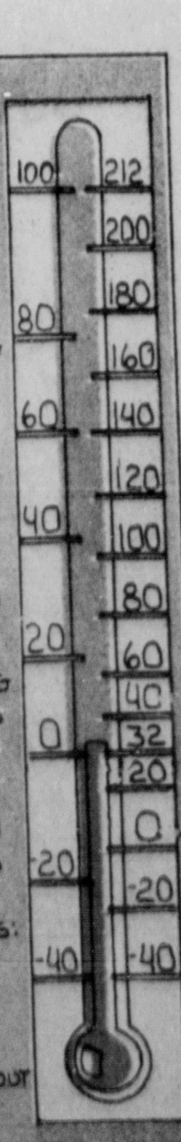

AS THE REPRODUCTION OF THE TWO THERMOMETER SCALES SHOWS, THE ONLY TIME THEY AGREE IS AT 40° BELOW ZERO.

HERE ARE A FEW COMPARISONS:

A COMFORTABLE ROOM IS 72° F. AND 22° C.

YOUR BODY IS 98.6° F. AND 37° C.

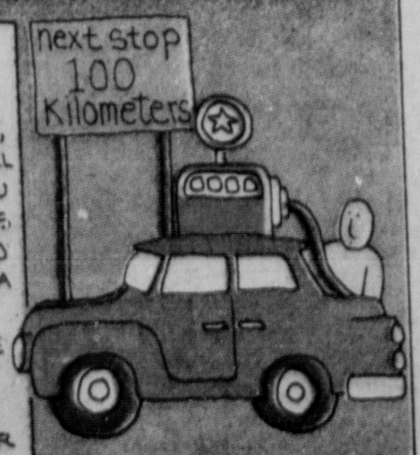

THAT'S ALL YOU KNOW ABOUT FAHRENHEIT WITHOUT LOOKING IT UP.

JUST TRY!

IT WILL TAKE A LITTLE EFFORT - BUT VERY SOON WE'LL BE SAYING KILOMETER, LITER, CENTIMETER, AND METER - AND WE'LL ALL KNOW WHAT WE MEAN. AFTER ALL, YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT A YARD IS NOW UNLESS YOU MEASURE IT - AND YOU'LL NEVER NEED TO KNOW IF YOU'RE MEASURING WITH A METER STICK.

IT'LL BE EASY WHEN HIGHWAYS ARE MARKED IN KILOMETERS AND GAS IS SOLD BY LITERS FOR YOU TO KNOW HOW MANY KILOMETERS PER LITER YOU GET.

Q. IF APPLES SELL FOR 50¢ A KILOGRAM OR 25¢ A POUND, YOUR BEST BARGAIN IS TO BUY ONE _____.

ANSWER: A KILOGRAM. SINCE A KILOGRAM IS A LITTLE MORE THAN 2 lb., IF YOU BUY 50¢ WORTH OF APPLES YOU WILL GET MORE FOR YOUR MONEY.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

RANDI HELLMAN OF YORKTOWN HTS, NY, ASKS: "HOW ARE POTATO CHIPS MADE?"

POTATO CHIPS ARE MADE FROM THIN SLICES OF RAW POTATOES FRIED IN VATS OF BOILING COOKING OIL. AS THE POTATO CHIPS FRY, THEY BECOME CRISP AND CURLY. THE FRIED POTATO CHIPS ARE SALTED AND THEN PACKAGED IN SEALED CELLOPHANE BAGS TO KEEP THEM FRESH AND CRUNCHY.

CAPTAIN EASY

by Crooks & Lawrence

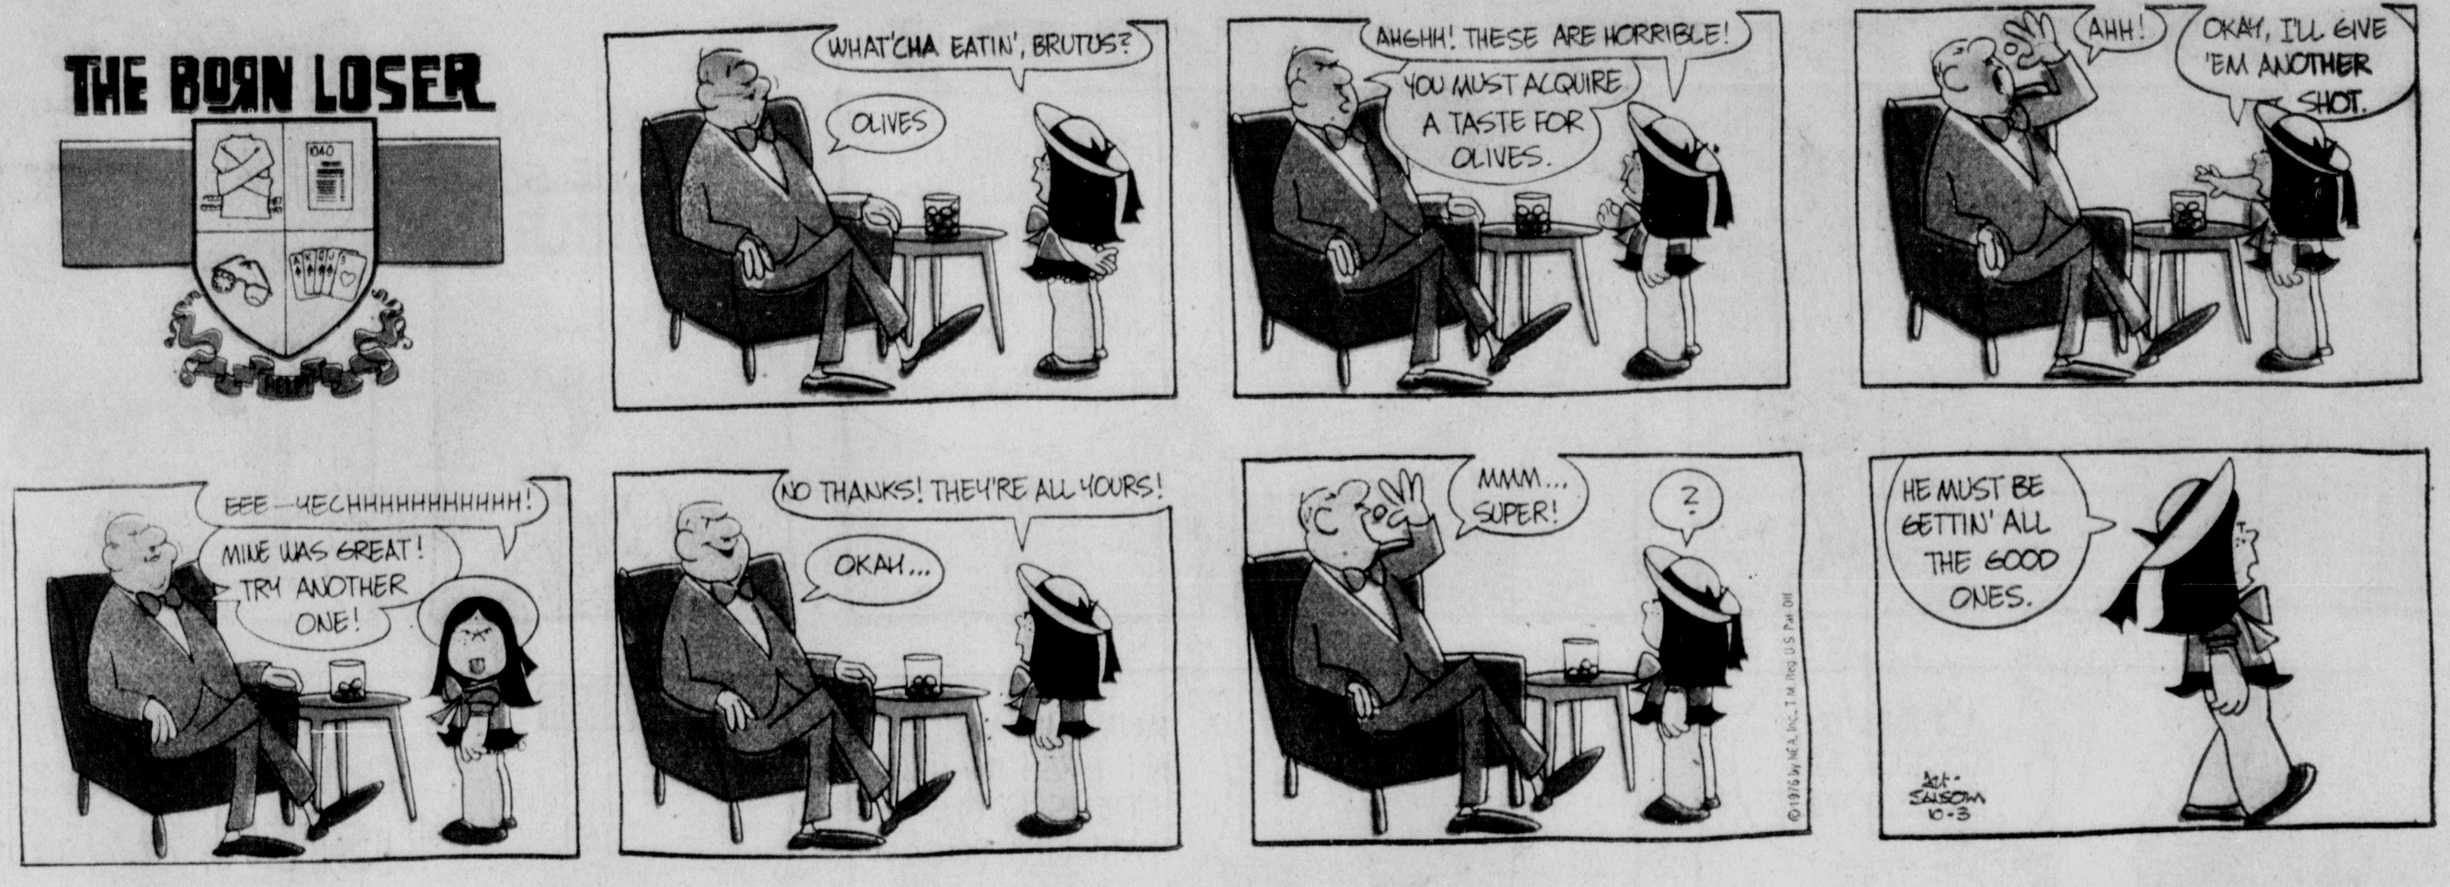

"I Lost Weight-So Fast It Scared Me!"

"Chronic Fattie"—grudgingly, I felt those two UGLY words were going to cling to me for the rest of my life. But, then it happened . . . WHAM! . . .

I thought, my word, from one extreme to the other—'huge fattie to shriveled up nothing' and when I say I couldn't believe it! I MEAN IT! . . . instantly GLOBS of fat melted off of me. Down, down, down came those tons of excess flesh until I reached the weight I longed for, the weight of my earlier youth. I literally felt as if I was going to disappear into thin air . . . every 24 hours, those pounds gave way to a NEW me. It was too good to be true."

Being overweight for so many years, she figured that's the way its going to be for the rest of her life. "I couldn't lose a single pound without gaining back 4 to 6 . . . I tried everything, from FAT FARMS to BLEAK STARVATION FAD DIETS . . . INJECTIONS to FASTING, the results? I was still the same BLIMP only with a smaller pocketbook."

Little did she realize that she finally found what she had been searching for . . . 'HER OWN' SPECIAL DIET' . . . that's right, the one that secretly works for you, instead of you slaving to be thin!

Let's face it! Your body itself wants the very same thing you would like it to have! Trimness, Vitality, Radiance, Beauty and GOOD HEALTH! If this sounds far fetched, its simply because you're not aware of the TREMENDOUS power of your body to recondition itself when you give it the right programing. This amazing diet converts pure organic citrus into FAT EATING ENZYMES that FLUSH out all impurities from your body. What a way to start each day . . . FRESH, HEALTHY and TRIM!

Works every minute of the day!

THE NEW CITRUS DIET REVOLUTION IS HERE! . . . our files are growing constantly with happy testimonials of satisfied individuals who report steady weight loss. Many famous celebrities swear by this diet to be the FASTEST, SAFEST . . . and the best part the EASIEST of all others. That's why we say, if you tried every imaginable diet before and FAILED miserably, FORGET IT! . . . this is the one that works, in fact so fast, "YOU WON'T BELIEVE IT, AS YOUR UNWANTED POUNDS PEEL OFF!"

What is Citrus deficiency?

Many diets fail because they're unnatural and inhuman—they run opposite to your physical and emotional needs.

HOW DO YOU KNOW THAT THIS NEW CITRUS DIET WILL HELP YOU? The truth is, even tho every person on earth is different, we all share one thing in common, we CANNOT store-up any fat eating supplements in our bodies for any amount of time, (example: pure organic citrus) that is why many of the thousands of individuals who are overweight, hard as they try, CANNOT lose weight SUCCESSFULLY. This is when Citric deficiency becomes physically visible . . . millions of microscopic cells turning into pounds of unwanted fat.

When the natural life cycle lacks fat eating enzymes (organic citrus) it WILL NOT fight off cells that turn to fat. Its like wanting a drink of water, when it needs moisture it signals and automatically you refill yourself . . . our fat eating cells do the same thing, they signal for NEW enzymes, but when there is nothing for them to grab from they are overpowered by fat tissues that GROW AND GROW.

Have you made the following dieting errors . . . do they look familiar?

1. Have nothing for breakfast, but a bowl of cereal with skim milk (then cheat, by snacking an hour later?)
2. For lunch, you usually skimped with nothing more than a piece of fruit (then starved till dinner?)
3. On eating out, going berserk with hunger then finally giving in and gorging yourself (by then you blew the whole diet?)

If you answered YES to any of the three (who hasn't?) don't feel bad, because todays a NEW day for a NEW you!!!

Amazing discovery helps 10 out of 10 lose weight successfully

This is the diet—the MOST revolutionary—MOST effective—MOST delicious, THE diet for all diet haters and for all food lovers. You don't have to wait to lose weight, YOU SHED POUNDS THE FIRST DAY! This diet will shrink your 'spare tire' and appetite SO FAST—it'll astound you.

Every person who is overweight does not lose weight with just any diet, because any diet just won't do . . . some need more protein and some need less, maybe you lack this or that. You have to find out what it is then USE IT! In this woman's case (like thousands of others) the right vitamin and the right diet was lacking. . . . that's if you can call this NEW CITRUS REVOLUTION a diet?

Eat all you want to LOSE weight?

Eating is the basic source of satisfaction to all of us. Remember, our appetite is a natural force that really keeps us alive, if we didn't have this desire we'd STARVE to death . . . EAT, EAT, EAT . . . THIS DIET IS FOR PEOPLE WHO LOVE TO PUT IT AWAY! . . . rich lobster, steaks, home-made rolls, thick creamy gravies, cheeses, (many other diets forbid) just think, you don't have to give up any of your favorite foods to be thin!!!

Look what they are saying about the NEW CITRUS DIET REVOLUTION*

"It's one thing to lose weight—but keeping it off is a different task!, however Vickys program is working for me right now!"
Ms. C.L. (#32-1)

"I was just plain tired of being FAT!, and I wanted results NOW not LATER!"
Mrs. A.B. (#200-1)

"After trying many fad diets with no success . I'm now losing fat and ugly bulges in the privacy of my home—"
Ms. W.M. (#150-7)

"Vicky takes you step by step to rid you of ugly fat, her program is new and different and best of all IT WORKS!"
Mrs. P.L. (#50-3)

"The easiest program ever, its always working for you. Those tabs look small but they pack a 'BIG PUNCH' when it comes to eating up fat!"
Mr. B.Y. (#250-3)

Will any Citrus do?

NO! . . . not just any fruit is chosen for this successful diet program. After selection of the healthiest Citrus orchards (organically nurtured) the crop is harvested at the exact time when their pure enzymes are at their peak to combat the daily influx of calories and carbohydrates.

Easy as 1—2—3 . . .

You're not involved with any counting of calories or carbohydrates (just pop 'em in your mouth) they do all the work (chewable candy-like) of separating the ugly fat from you. If you want to count anything, count the pounds that disappear . . . in bewilderment, the scales go BACKWARDS . . . 20 . . . 40 . . . 60 — even 80 pounds or more, until you reach the MAGIC number you've been waiting for.

So don't worry about overeating anymore—YOU CAN'T . . . instantly your 'AUTO-TIMER' is back in full swing by releasing citric enzymes that EAT-UP fatty fluids and solids that become fat!

You can forget about diet clubs, quack fat doctors, hypnosis . . . this one lets you do it all by yourself in the privacy of your home—FAST!

We urge you to start on this diet NOW! . . . don't delay . . . every day that you stay overweight damages your health let alone your appearance . . . GET RID OF THAT EXTRA "TUB-O-LARD" THE EASY WAY . . . this program means the difference between SLOW starvation with no lasting results—or massive weight-loss that stays!

ARTIST RECREATES HARRY TRUMAN

Dick Smith is best known for the faces he creates. He made-up Marlon Brando for his role in "The Godfather" and created many of the special effects in "The Exorcist." And for a special public television program, he transforms actor Ed Flanders into President Harry S. Truman on Tuesday, at 9PM on KCET, Channel 28.

Flanders portrays Harry Truman on the hour television special, Harry S. Truman PLAIN SPEAKING, an extraordinary solo performance of a lifetime of Truman memories, based on the national best seller produced by David Susskind and directed by Daniel Petrie (producer/director of "Eleanor and Franklin").

To perfect the transformation from 44 year-old Flanders to Truman at 68, Dick Smith started with a plaster cast of Flander's face, added to his features with clay and cast foam latex pieces or "appliances" from the clay. These were attached with spirit gum to Flanders until he resembled Truman. Working from his own elaborate file of photographs, Smith lengthened Flanders' nose and thickened his jawline and throat with delicate latex casts, life-like down to individual pores. The result: an almost exact replica of Truman's profile. The big problem with making up for a character," Dick explains, "is that you can only add, you can't take away . . . the art is to create the illusion of a person's appearance."

Smith used some more unusual techniques to complete the aging Truman. "I thought that Ed should see like Truman, duplicating his eyesight as an old man." Before production, Flanders was fitted with contact lenses that altered his own good vision to that of the late President, then glasses were made from Truman's prescription, adding to the authenticity of Flanders' performance.

Flanders also agreed to have his hair stripped of its natural color for the show; "It's almost impossible to color hair white and have it look natural," Smith explained. "Ed also had to be fitted with dentures. Truman had that great smile, he used to flash it constantly. Ed's teeth just weren't that big." To finish Flanders' appearance, Dick used liquid latex to build up wrinkles, then colored his face and hands and added the realistic details: freckles, liverspots and small red veins.

"FRANCESCA, BABY"

The first ABC Afterschool Special is "Francesca, Baby," (Wednesday at 4 PM). It concerns a teenage girl and her younger sister, and the problems they encounter in their social life and at school because their mother is an alcoholic. Carol Jones stars as the oldest daughter, Francesca, and Tora Talboy is the younger Kate. When someone mails Francesca a brochure about Alateen--an organization for the children of alcoholics--Francesca attends and is surprised to find many of her classmates are members of the group. What happens as a result of Francesca's experience and how she dramatically changes the course of events in her family's life makes for some poignant and significant drama for both young people and adults. Co-stars are Dennis Bowen, Melendy Britt, Alice Nunn and Peter Brandon.

"BILLY"

James Carroll Jordan and Gregg Henry have challenging roles in "Rich Man, Poor Man--Book II" as Billy Abbott and Wesley Anderson respectively, on ABC-Tuesdays at 9 PM. James, as Billy Abbott, portrays the son of Julie (Susan Blakely) and Willie Abbott (Bill Bixby in original production). Willie Abbott was killed in a car crash in original production. Gregg, who is appearing in his first live assignment, is in the role of Wesley, son of the late Tom Jennings (played by Nick Nolte in original).

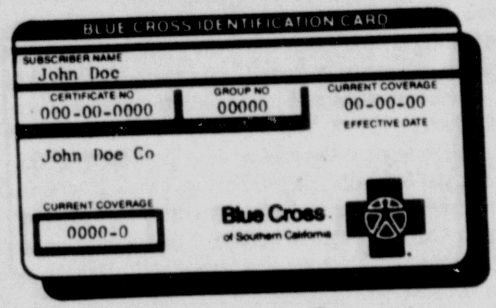

Jack Klugman portrays a unique law enforcement officer as a hard-driving medical examiner who attempts to link two City Hall deaths to a conspiracy in "Go Fight City Hall—To The Death!" on the debut of "Quincy" which marks the season premiere of NBC Sunday Mystery Movie series at 9:30PM.

Gloria Dalessio (Joan Prather) and board member Anderson Galt (William Smithers) have an argument which ends with her threatening to blackmail him, in Executive Suite, Monday, at 10PM on CBS.

COS:'COMEDY GENIUS'

By Chris Bearde
(Producer of the ABC's "COS")

Someone once said, "It's a good thing we have gravity, otherwise all the Australians would fall off the Earth." That's a mildly funny line, but in a strange sense it has a ring of truth. I'm an Australian, and I really do believe I have a somewhat upside-down perspective on what makes good television, at least insofar as our new series, "COS," is concerned.

Without accusing any particular programs, it seems to me that television variety shows have become too stereotyped. Viewers can flip the dial to any of them and see the same guest stars, hear the same songs, and watch the same type of skits. They might not even realize which show they're watching until the announcer comes on and tells them.

This is definitely not the plan we have in mind for "COS." First, there's our star Bill Cosby. He's distinctive, he's well-known, and few would not admit that he is one of the most widely accepted comic geniuses in America, if not the world. Bill simply walks on stage and people start smiling, which gives us a head start right there. He can go from a Las Vegas nightclub to a gelatin commercial without changing his image and still bring down the house.

However, "COS" will not be a weekly hour of stand-up comedy, nor will it be a steady dose of Bill rapping with youngsters. In truth, it's difficult to say precisely what the show will be, because I envision each program as being different. To be more specific, "COS" will be humor, it will be music and it will be "event television."

The latter term is important because it embraces a great number of things we intend to accomplish on the series. We will deal with sports (one episode includes a segment on soccer, probably the world's most popular sport, with Bill, pro players from the Los Angeles Aztecs and rock superstar Rod Stewart). We will deal with science and current events (another early show will feature the actual astronauts who will man America's first space shuttle). We will examine show business in a unique way, with top stars often appearing in roles vastly different from the ones which made them famous, or, simply doing something that interests them, be it hang-gliding, needlepoint or scuba diving.

We are also intensely aware that we are dealing in an electronic medium, and we will use every new and innovative television technique available to make "COS" visually imaginative and exciting. The average viewer probably couldn't care less if we used mini-cams or a pinhole camera, painted scrims or the most sophisticated chromakey. But the difference in look, and the wild video "trips" we will be able to achieve will be readily visible to all.

We will be dealing extensively with young people of all ages and backgrounds in a variety of sets and settings; we will offer wholesome programming which, rather than a variety series, will be a series with infinite variety; we will provide information, entertainment, and, above all, fun.

It looks as if it will be a crazy, busy fall for all of us associated with "COS" and I hope you will be able to join us each Sunday night on ABC.

BROOKLYN BOY HAVING FUN

Phil Foster, seen weekly as Laverne's father, Frank Difazio, on the hit ABC series Laverne and Shirley, holds the distinction of being one of the few "stand-up comics" appearing regularly on a network television series.

Surprisingly, for a personality so well defined over the years, Foster comes off as Frank DiFazio, not as Phil Foster, who has by now played every well-known night club in the United States (past or present) and guested on a multitide of television shows and series going all the way back to New York City's first TV station.

Phil thinks Laverne and Shirley works because "it's the first time since the early days of 'Lucy' that they've let two girls have a good time just being two girls, not comediennes."

The origins of what has proven to be a long and successful career for Foster began across the street from the Palace Theater in his native Brooklyn, when he joined up with a group of kids who sang and danced out front, hoping to get a show ticket in return for their efforts. From playing (in front of) the Palace, he went on to amateur talent competitions where, the bushy eye-browed Foster recalls, "I developed a hatred for accordion players, spoon players, and midgets who were tenors and sang ethnic songs."

As previously mentioned, Phil Foster has been seen on television since its infancy. "I go back to the days when we had to apply blue make-up to our faces so we'd photograph white."

He's watched the growth of the medium, and as a qualified observer is not without his opinions. "In those early days in New York we made very little money. But the one thing that I miss today is the freedom of the air we had then. It seems to me as if as television got stronger, it's gotten more backwards."

One major development that has happened to Phil Foster as a result of his role on Laverne and Shirley is not a career move, but a whole new life style.

Despite the fact he vowed to Walter O'Malley 20 years ago when O'Malley moved the Dodgers to Los Angeles that he'd never again root for the team in person at the ballpark, Phil Foster is settling in just fine in Southern California.

Perhaps it has something to do with the success of the series; maybe it's just the California weather, but Laverne and Shirley aren't the only ones on the show who are having a good time!

Stu Phillips is the composer on "Quincy," a new segment of the NBC Sunday Mystery Movie starring Jack Klugman.

His numerous television credits include McCloud, Switch, The Monkees and The Donna Reed Show. As director of artists and repertoires for Colpix Records in the early 1960s, he produced hit records for two stars of Donna Reed's series: Shelley Fabares (now starring in NBC's The Practice) with "Johnny Angel" and Paul Petersen with "My Dad" and "She Can't Find Her Keys."

In 1964 Phillips, then at Capitol Records, conceived of the idea of recording Beatles songs with lush instrumentations. Thus was born the Hollyridge Strings and a series of albums of Beatle instrumentals, followed by similar treatments for The Beach Boys, the Monkees and Nat "King" Cole.

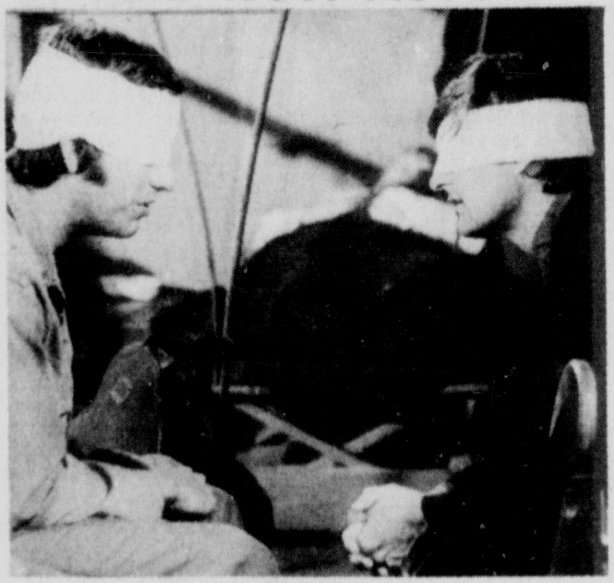

Phillips is also credited as a producer of many other pop records, including James Darren's "Goodbye Cruel World."

A woman is killed. The townspeople suspect her Doberman. But James Garner thinks they're barking up the wrong tree. Katharine Ross and Hal Holbrook co-star.

KABC-TV MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE
abc 9:00 PM 7

AND NOW ACTOR

Add acting to the many gifts of singer-composer Tom Sullivan. This remarkable 29-year-old, whose book "If You Could See What I Hear" now is in its fifth printing and who regards his lifelong blindness as "an inconvenience, not a handicap," will make his acting debut playing a soldier blinded in combat, on M*A*S*H, Tuesday, at 9PM on CBS.

Playing hospital scenes with Alan Alda as Hawkeye, who becomes a temporary blindness victim from a gas stove explosion, Sullivan's first reaction to his new venture concerned the absence of audience response. "I found it hard to say things funny or sad without hearing audience reaction," he said of the scenes with Alda in which Hawkeye, eyes bandaged, doesn't realize that his hospital roommate Tom Straw (Sullivan) also lacks vision.

As a steady traveller of the night club and concert circuits, the Boston-born Sullivan is accustomed to playing to audiences. His greatest national exposure came from singing the national anthem at the last Super Bowl football game.

But, for one who has had to cope with what generally is regarded as a physical handicap his entire life, this new challenge posed no more difficulty than earlier ones.

From the beginning, Sullivan was determined that nothing was going to keep him from living a normal life, despite the pronouncement within his family that "you'll never be like other children."

"If you accept such a pronouncement," he says, "you learn to love being pitied. The handicapped person has to get off his duff and society must stop putting him behind gates. We should get rid of special schools for the blind or the deaf; have them only as starting points."

That he is an excellent practitioner of his own philosophy is attested to by a notable string of accomplishments: A degree in clinical psychology from Harvard University, athletic skills in rowing on Harvard's eight-oared crew, wrestling, in which he reached the 1968 Olympic wrestling trials, basketball by means of a special buzzer hookup, sky diving, water skiing and even golf, which he plays in the 90s, aided by his musical rhythm and tempo and the understanding of a fine pro in Joe Delgadillo of Southern California's Palos Verdes Country Club, and a musical career that has seen him sing with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops and attain success as a composer and arranger.

THE GONG SHOW
7:30 PM THURSDAY (7)

TELE-TALK

Amanda Blake, who played Kitty in the long-running "Gunsmoke" series, will come out of retirement to guest-star in "The End of Winter," a segment of NBC's new Western series, The Quest. She will portray Cattle Sally, the operator of a brothel.

Shirley Jones and Tony Roberts have guest-starring roles in "Philip's Game," a "McMillan" drama to be aired on NBC Sunday Mystery Movie. Rock Hudson stars as McMillan.

Composers from a wide variety of backgrounds are scoring the music for NBC's new dramatic series.

Oscar and Emmy winner Elmer Bernstein will compose the music for Serpico, starring David Birney (Fridays, 10PM). Bernstein won an Oscar for Best Original Score for "Thoroughly Modern Millie" in 1967, and an Emmy for Outstanding Achievement in Composing Original Music for Television in the 1963-64 season for "The Making of a President 1960."

Bernstein is credited with changing the direction of film scoring with his unique score for "The Man With the Golden Arm." His numerous film credits also include "Walk on the Wild Side," "Hawaii," "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "The Ten Commandments," and he composed the music for the Broadway show, "How Now Dow Jones."

Dick Shores is the composer for The Quest, starring Kurt Russell and Tim Matheson (Wednesdays, 10PM). His recent credits include NBC's Police Story and Police Woman, but he has composed for many television series, dating back to his first score for a television show, "Richard Diamond." Among other TV credits: The Virginian, Wagon Train, Gunsmoke, Mannix, Medical Center, The Man from U.N.C.L.E.

Mike Post and Peter Carpenter wrote the theme song for The Rockford Files (Fridays, 9PM), and this year they will do the same for Baa Baa Black Sheep, starring Robert Conrad (Tuesdays, 8PM).

Post's recording of The Rockford Files reached the number 10 position on the national singles charts, and was the first in the wave of television themes which have hit the charts in the past year. He recently signed with Epic Records, and plans to release the theme from Baa Baa Black Sheep as a single.

Post is a two-time Grammy winner. He won for arranging and producing Mason Williams' "Classical Gas" in 1968, and for the arrangement of The Rockford Files in 1975. He was the producer of the recent Mac Davis weekly NBC-TV series and will produce Davis' upcoming specials for the network.

The Post-Carpenter team scored the television films "Locusts" and "Invasion of Johnson County," and they are working on two upcoming NBC-TV movies, "Scott Free" and "Richie Brockelman, Private Eye."

Lee Holdridge, who is composing the music for Gemini Man starring Ben Murphy (Thursdays, 8PM), is arranger and conductor for John Denver. He works with Denver in all media: recordings, television and live appearances.

He scored the soundtrack for "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" with Neil Diamond, and was a Grammy nominee for the instrumental prologue to Diamond's "Hot August Night" album. He also scored the film "Jeremy" and arranged the music for Diana Ross's movie, "Mahogany."

Past TV credits include writing the theme songs and scoring the music for the "Sierra" and "Sara" series. Holdridge scored the upcoming motion picture "Going Home" with the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

Jason Walton (Jon Walmsley, left), who has lost his scholarship at the Music Conservatory and is playing piano in a local roadhouse, tries to persuade country-western singer Red Turner (Merle Haggard) to make a comeback, in The Waltons, Thursday, at 8PM on CBS.

Singer John Denver brings music and jokes when he joins Dick Van Dyke for songs and comedy skits on NBC's Van Dyke and Company, Thursday at 10PM.

Ask Them Yourself

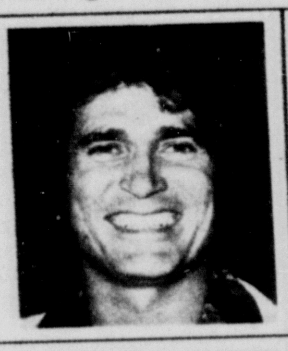

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

Wide World

FOR JACK CARTER, son of Gov. Jimmy Carter

The children of Gerald Ford have expressed unhappiness at times about living in the White House. Do you think the Carter children would have a similar reaction?—Daniel Morton, Austin, Texas

● No, I don't. First of all, we have been sort of moving toward such a position for quite a while. The Fords were thrust into the position suddenly. They weren't as well-prepared psychologically as we are. Secondly, three out of the four children are married and would not be living with our parents if they move into the White House. So we wouldn't have the "goldfish bowl" existence the Ford children have had.

FOR MICHAEL LANDON

Why is your TV locale of "Little House on the Prairie" in Minnesota? I thought the Ingalls lived in South Dakota. —Edith M. Thompson, Midwest, Wyo.

● If the show stays on the air long enough, the Ingalls family will indeed wind up in South Dakota, as they did in the books. But the Ingalls started their adventures in Minnesota. We plan to follow the books.

FOR EILEEN FULTON,
star of TV's "As the World Turns"

Since yours is an afternoon show, do you have any male fans?—J.B., Coshocton, Ohio

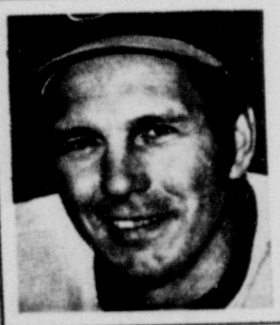

● Sure do. Since we go on at 12:30 in many parts of the country—the lunch hour—the show is watched by men in the garment industry, farmers and office workers. Truck drivers are big fans. I get mail from bus drivers, dentists, doctors and lawyers. In fact, 50 percent of my mail is from men.

FOR MRS. BETTY FORD

What is your definition of a liberated woman?—L.D.G., Alden, N.Y.

● One who is happy doing what she's doing, whether it's a job or as a housewife. It doesn't make a bit of difference—just so she inwardly feels that she is happy and she is liberated.

FOR BROOKS ROBINSON

Who are the toughest batters for you to play against, and which is your favorite stadium away from home?—Robert Cook, Bakersfield, Calif.

● The toughest hitters for me to play against are Mickey Rivers (Yankees), Frank Duffy (Indians) and Doug Griffin (Red Sox) because they are excellent bunters and you have to play them in very close. I enjoy playing in Boston's Fenway Park more than anywhere else.

FOR DODY GOODMAN,
star of "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman"

Why do you think your show has caught on the way it has? —J.C., Rapid City, S.D.

● Hard to give an exact reason, unless it's because we talk about things that have never been discussed so openly before. The subject matter is frank and candid, and, without patting myself on the back, we perform well and handle each situation as we would if it came up in our own homes. Maybe we were in the right place at the right time—who knows?

FOR GENEVIEVE BUJOLD, starring in "Obsession"

How did you get your start in pictures?—M.H., Albany, N.Y.

● By selling my bike for $15. I used the money to pay for acting lessons.

FOR CLARENCE M. KELLEY, F.B.I. Director

Have the recent attacks on the F.B.I. hurt your recruiting? —Steven Banks, Rockland, Mass.

● Not at all. As a matter of fact, we have a very fine group of young people waiting in the wings to come into the Bureau.

FOR EARL "THE PEARL" MONROE,
star of the New York Knicks

How did you get your nickname?—M.L., Dothan, Ala.

● In my senior year in college, Louis Overby of the Winston-Salem Sentinel dubbed me "The Pearl." I opened the season with big nights in four successive games, scoring 33, 68, 58 and 50 points. He called them "Earl's Pearls." That was 10 years ago, and I've been called "The Pearl" ever since.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Please tell me about Jenny Agutter. I loved her in the movie, "Logan's Run."—M. Sheehan, N. Tonawanda, N.Y.

● London-born Jenny has been an actress since she was 11. (Her father was in charge of entertainment for Britain's armed forces—that's how she became exposed to show business.) You won't remember her childhood performances, but you might recall her being Julie Andrews's daughter in the film, "Star!" Twenty-three-year-old Jenny is not married. Her dates have not yet reached the serious stage because, as she puts it, her career and independence come first. She lives in a modest apartment near Hollywood's Sunset Strip and is unimpressed by the advantages of being a star. In fact, she doesn't even own a car, preferring, instead, to rent one. Right now, she's back in her home country making a new film, "The Eagle Has Landed." Her parents are proud of her achievements but wish their daughter would settle down and get married.

HOW YOUR MIND CAN AFFECT YOUR

Our Panel of Doctors Agrees About the Increasing Danger of Stress—And

By Diana Hunt

Stress can kill us. Brought on by any number of life changes, stress can lead to such feelings of helplessness that it can pave the way for diseases or death. As Americans, we've never been trained in mind control, although various forms of meditation are becoming increasingly popular. Physicians have not been trained to think in terms of prevention of illness, neither have hospitals. And many of our insurance carriers cover therapeutic, not preventive care. Consequently, we visit the doctor only after we develop specific complaints.

We interviewed five different types of doctors, and they came up with some surprising, sometimes opposing, facts. But all agreed that the health of your mind very much controls the health of your body.

Norman Orentreich, M.D.
Dermatologist, New York, N.Y.

Dr. Orentreich is clinical associate professor of the New York University Medical Center, president of the Orentreich Foundation for the Advancement of Science and director of the Aging Study Center.

Dr. Norman Orentreich makes it clear that our inner feelings can alter our outward appearances.

"There is no doubt that tension and emotional problems can cause physical disease," says Dr. Orentreich, "but it also works the other way. Physical disease can cause mental problems. It is not a one-way street.

"Because of the skin's obvious visibility to the public, people are conscious of how they look. This can play an intense role on the mind. We all know that tension can cause cold sweating or blushing, but because of anxiety, people will not only bite their nails, they might also purposely scar their face to make themselves unattractive when unable to handle one-to-one relationships." Sometimes true disease occurs, and it then becomes a crutch, Dr. Orentreich feels. He gives the example of a child losing his hair because of an allergy. This changes the constellation of his place in the family. He may become overly spoiled by all the attention and reactions of his parents. Lines in the face are another reflection of one's mental state. We notice a relaxed face or a tense face immediately. "The pull of the muscles on the skin can alter the face by imprinting permanent expressive lines," Dr. Orentreich explains. "We hear of the inscrutable Oriental because his face shows nothing. This is because he is trained not to show emotion; therefore, his face does not reflect the internal tensions or stresses."

Wrinkles are a result of too much sun, as well. "People feel they get a kind of life force from the sun, and there is a psychic interrelationship. If a person is tan, he looks healthy, so he feels healthy. But sun is damaging to skin. It leads to premature aging, as well as wrinkles and unsightly dark spots."

While Dr. Orentreich feels that some people enjoy being sick as an excuse not to perform, he cautions that one can overdo disorders thought to be psychosomatically caused. "You do a patient an injustice if you label him a neurotic—you must first explore every avenue."

"There's an adage worth remembering: 'Your problems are not important; it's how you handle them that is important!'"

Dr. Lee Zawol

Dr. Robert Giller

Diana Hunt

Jacob Aranoff, M.D.
Plastic Surgeon, New York, N.Y.

Dr. Aranoff is affiliated with Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York, London Hospital and St. Andrews Hospital(England).

A former ear, nose and throat specialist, Dr. Aranoff has treated many patients with self-induced ailments.

"Frankly, at least 70 percent of my patients have psychosomatic symptoms," says Dr. Aranoff. "I would have patients with perennial symptoms of stuffiness, raw throat, sneezing, post-nasal drip, eyelid puffiness and so forth. The severity varies with the amount of tension the person is under. Often, symptoms are worse at night and in the morning because that's when people are most vulnerable. How many tensions and problems the person went to bed with determine how severe the symptoms are when he wakes up."

According to Dr. Aranoff, there are only three tissues which respond to tension: blood vessels, glands and the smooth (involuntary) muscles.

"I can tell from the membrane in the nose if tension or anger is causing the problem," he explains. "The normal color of the nasal membrane is pinkish. With anger or resentment, it turns red. With depression or fear, it is a violet gray."

Interestingly enough, 13 percent of Dr. Aranoff's nose-throat patients were under 10 years of age. Stress at home can cause nose bleeds, throat irritation and other problems. "I don't think psychosomatic symptoms have anything to do with city living versus country living. The problems are caused by things which occur everywhere—sibling rivalry, tension in marriage and so on. A child may react to the presence of a new baby, for instance, or he may resent his parents leaving him alone in the evenings. Blood vessels expand under stress and can burst. The child subsequently suffers from nose bleeds, and the parents can't figure out what is wrong."

No one can say why problems manifest themselves in certain areas of the body, but the most vulnerable spot often seems the target—the singer with hoarseness, the dancer with joint problems. Dr. Aranoff feels that extreme fear of a disease can make the symptoms of that disease appear. "One's father died of cancer of the larynx, and the son comes in suffering from chronic hoarseness."

Psychosomatic symptoms have to be recognized for what they are. He contends many unnecessary operations are performed, particularly those for the nose and tonsils. "The most common cause is lack of recognition that tension is the culprit."

HEALTH

What to Do About It

Lee Zawol, D.O.
Surgeon, Osteopath, Battle Creek, Mich.
Dr. Zawol is chairman of the Department of Surgery at Lakeview General Hospital.

As a surgeon, most of Dr. Zawol's cases are referrals. Not surprisingly, he feels it is detrimental to doctors' images to accuse them of performing unnecessary operations.

Dr. Zawol knows that tension can cause metabolic and related endocrine changes in the body and that continuing functional change over a period of time can cause permanent organic changes. When one is uptight, the blood vessels constrict and can produce changes in the vessels themselves.

Dr. Zawol sees depression as a common denominator in all of us. "We get depressed because we have difficulty coping with the problems of reality. If I can get a patient to talk about his problems, it's a good thing. I might find his taxes went up, his job is threatened, his wife is spending too much money, and the dog is pregnant. He is tense, and all he wants is to feel good."

Music, recreation or any avocation is beneficial in helping the body relax, Dr. Zawol feels. "Laughter, too, is therapeutic. It has an effect on the mind, releasing the body of tension. Work addicts are people unable to relax, and it will get to them eventually, like the young executive trying to get ahead; he's uptight, he's involved in the pecking order and the back-biting, and that produces tension. There's an adage worth remembering: 'Your problems are not important, it's how you handle them that is important!' "

Robert M. Giller, M.D.
Acupuncturist, New York, N.Y.
Dr. Giller is associated with Memorial Sloan Kettering Hospital and Brunswick Hospital Center. He is lecturing on "Alternatives of Western Medicine" at the New School for Social Research.

Dr. Robert Giller had not practiced long when he became discouraged with the defensive posture of medicine. He felt traditional methods of treatment were not effective, and so he dropped out and turned to Oriental theories and ultimately to acupuncture. New York was the second state, after Nevada, to recognize acupuncture and to license physicians to use that technique.

Dr. Giller is adamant concerning the inseparability of the mind and the body. "In Chinese medicine," he explains, "it is always body and mind together. Physical ailments can cause mental problems—if one is in constant pain one is likely to become depressed. By the same token, mental problems can cause physical ailments. Everybody is predisposed to certain weaknesses. Stress can be physical, mental, environmental or nutritional. It manifests itself in a physical form somewhere in the body—low back pain, migraine headaches, bursitis, neck and shoulder problems.

"I find acupuncture helps relieve muscular tension and allows the patients to relax and look at their mental problems in a new light. I then can discuss their problems with them, and, if I can't help, I refer them to someone who can." But the name of the game for Dr. Giller is preventive medicine, not having to cure ailments. What he would eventually like to see is children from grade school through university being taught regular health care.

"If people listened to their bodies, they would be able to recognize the early-warning signals and take the necessary steps to prevent illness. As it is, people are merely treated as parts and organs, and you just can't get better that way."

Kenneth A. Grigg, M.D.
Psychoanalyst, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Grigg is the training and supervising analyst at the Washington Psychoanalytic Institute.

Dr. Kenneth Grigg corroborated the relationship between tension or mental stress and physical disease. "There are several ways this manifests itself," Dr. Grigg explains. "Peptic ulcers, for instance, have been directly shown to be related to psychological factors. Mental stress causes more excretion of acid in the stomach, thereby physically causing the ulcer."

The two most common psychogenic symptoms, he says, are headaches and backaches. "Back pain often represents depression, but we don't know why."

Dr. Grigg pointed out that the mood of a person lowers his resistance to bacteria. After all, cold and flu germs float around us, but not everyone gets sick.

"The bacterial flora of the throat changes with the psychological state of the patient," he explains. "If a patient is depressed, he is more prone to a sore throat from the presence of pathogenic bacteria. No one knows the exact connection between the brain and bacterial resistance factors, but it certainly is a factor."

Even more striking is a cold occurring in a patient undergoing psychoanalysis when the threat of separation comes up, such as the analyst going on vacation. This situation reproduces the feelings that originally were experienced by the patient after a separation in childhood—the temporary or permanent loss of an important person.

"People react to stress in different ways," he believes. "They express themselves through certain target organs—that organ which becomes the target when psychological stress is present. Other physical symptoms related to stress are amnesia, hysterical blindness, paralysis and seizures. These generally occur following a severe psychological trauma."

"Dr. Grigg points out that the mood of a person lowers his resistance to bacteria. After all, cold and flu germs float around us, but not everyone gets sick."

There is often a family predisposition to certain illnesses. "There are also such things as anniversary reactions," continues Dr. Grigg. "People will have psychological or physical disorders on the anniversary of a patient's disorder and not be aware of the connection. A divorce may have this effect on a child, and on the anniversary of that trauma, years later, disorders may appear."

There you have it. Doctors across the medical spectrum in agreement on the ill effects of stress. And there is beginning to be a realization in our society that, in dollar terms, it is important for the mind to be as healthy as the body. Some insurance plans now have 80-percent coverage for up to $50,000 for psychotherapy. Originally the insurance companies felt that this type of coverage was too expensive. However, it has been conclusively proven that people who were in long-term therapy had a low rate of physical disease. Even though the original cost was high, the overall cost of health insurance was lower for the general population. Including psychotherapy in their coverage resulted in reduced payments in the long run.

The concept of dealing with the mind and body together is vital. Instead of courting ill health and merely trying to repair damage done to the body through abuses of overeating, excessive drinking resulting from continual stress, we should think in terms of preserving our health. We must learn to cope with the realities of life, even if it means lowering our expectations.

DOCTOR'S THRILLING REDUCING PROGRAM HELPS

BURN AWAY FAT BY THE HOUR

...TURN IT INTO FLUID THAT YOUR BODY FLUSHES AWAY!

Yes, now you can lose up to 10 . . . 20 . . . 30 — even 50 pounds or more • without starvation diets • without grueling exercise • without ravenous hunger THANKS TO THE MOST POWERFUL REDUCING AID EVER RELEASED FOR PUBLIC USE WITHOUT A PRESCRIPTION!

SHRINK YOUR BODY'S FAT CELLS . . . TRIM AWAY POUNDS AND INCHES!

First came the ALL DAY cold tablet. Then the ALL DAY allergy pill. Now, from medical science comes the latest GIANT-STEP in the conquest of fat . . . this incredible ALL-DAY time-release capsule and fat-melting program, developed by a medical doctor . . . and guaranteed to work like nothing else you've ever heard about, read about, or tried before in your life. Because when in your life did you ever dream of a weight-loss method so effective, that without starvation diet, without grueling exercise, without gnawing hunger you can transform your body into the sleek, streamlined figure you've always longed for . . . even if at this very moment you are as much as 50, 60, or even 100 pounds overweight!

CONTINUOUS ROUND-THE-CLOCK ACTION ATTACKS THE BASIC CAUSE OF FAT BUILD-UP DAY AND NIGHT

Unlike every other weight-loss method that has failed you in the past, the COUNTDOWN once-a-day capsule and reducing program works in a completely different way. Not by pitting your will-power against some "inhuman crash diet". Not by wracking your body with torturous exercise. And most certainly not by the use of high-powered "speed" drugs that leave your nerves shattered and shot.

Doctor's New All-Day Triple-Action FAT-MELTER PROGRAM Works All Day To:

1. Transform fat into fluid and flush it right out of your system.
2. Attack the basic cause of overweight — overeating — and convert the food you do eat into burned up energy instead of into fat.
3. Break down those bulges of flab as you lose weight from your entire body . . . that up to now seemed impossible to budge . . . and force them to be consumed — oxidized — by your own body chemistry — without ravenous hunger — thanks to this thrilling new ALL DAY TIME-RELEASE FAT-FIGHTER PROGRAM.

COUNTDOWN with Mira-thene-12

Before starting this program, consult with your physician to be sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. Individuals with high blood pressure, heart disease, diabetes, or thyroid disease should use only as directed by a physician. As a matter of fact, we urge you to show this entire program to your own family physician and see if he doesn't agree that this is a medically sound approach to the problem of obesity.

Instead, this NEW TOTAL APPROACH TO TOTAL SLIMNESS actually helps shrink the fat cells in your body ALL 24 HOURS A DAY . . . even while you sleep. Yes, literally burns and oxidizes those bulging pockets of flab as you lose weight — all over your body — as it melts down into liquid that your body flushes away daily, in a completely natural, gentle manner.

And it's all so easy with this wondrous ALL-DAY CAPSULE that helps set the stage for the fat-burning process to be triggered into action.

A DOCTOR EXPLAINS . . .

No matter how many fad and crash diets you've run through in the past . . . there is only one effective weight-loss method known to medical science. It is simply this: in order to burn off fat there are 2 things you must do.

1. You must decelerate the rate of calorie intake. 2. You must step up your body's rate of fat burn-off just like you step up a furnace, so that you actually convert the food you do eat into burned-up energy instead of into piled-up fat.

And this is precisely why COUNTDOWN is so effective. Because the moment you launch yourself on this doctor's "Lifetime Slimness" program, here's what happens in your body:

1. Gnawing hunger pangs disappear as tiny grains of the most powerful reducing aid ever released for public use without a prescription are gradually released into your system to constantly calm your appetite and help you decelerate your body's caloric intake.
2. The food you do eat on this doctor's fully satisfying eating program instead of being stored up as fat, is now converted into a source of energy that your body burns away.
3. And even though you may lose as much as 20, 30, 50 pounds OR MORE . . . you never miss a meal . . . never deny yourself sensible snacks and desserts . . . never for a single moment starve yourself the very least bit.

NOW! ALL THE ECSTASY OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT THE AGONY OF HUNGER!

That's because with the COUNTDOWN no-hunger way to slimness, you arm yourself with the most modern and effective way to weight control known to medical science: This medical doctor's all-out assault and VICTORY OVER FAT BUILD-UP . . . due to excess calorie intake and lack of fast calorie burn-off (the basic cause of overweight). The COUNTDOWN once-a-day, continuous action, time-release capsule and program works all the time . . . all day . . . Transforms your body fat into "flush-away liquids" . . . it is by far the easiest, most pleasant way to achieve that slim, trim body of your dreams.

WORKS SO FAST YOU START TO GROW SLIM IN JUST DAYS — IN FACT, EVEN WHILE YOU SLEEP!

Best of all, not once are you asked to pit your hunger against a cast-iron willpower. All you are asked to do is simply this: Take one of these new ALL-DAY time-release capsules each morning . . . then following the doctor's satisfying eating program and his simple nightly bedtime toneups (that are actually fun to do), you literally eat your way to slimness as you shed pounds and inches like never before.

Naturally, you can't expect to gorge and stuff yourself silly on all sorts of over-rich, high-fat foods . . . and in unlimited quantities. BUT — and this is the whole key to success — if you will simply replace all those zany, half-baked fad diets of the past with this high-powered ALL-DAY capsule and this doctor's sane, satisfying eating program . . . YOU without gnawing hunger . . . YOU without grueling exercise can lose up to 10 — 20 — 30 — even 50 pounds OR MORE thanks to the latest, most effective doctor-developed ONCE-A-DAY reducing program in AMERICA . . . COUNTDOWN with Mira-thene-12.

SEE DRAMATIC RESULTS IN JUST 72 HOURS . . . OR IT COSTS YOU NOTHING!

JUST ONE CAPSULE A DAY HELPS YOU DISSOLVE FAT AWAY as this doctor's 3-way action program

- breaks down bulging pockets of fat while it burns away fatty tissues from your entire body
- shrinks your body's fat cells
- turns fat into liquid that your body drains away

Yes, you step up fat burn-off as you decelerate calorie intake . . . meaning pounds and inches melt away starting in just days!

So effective you'll lose up to 6 pounds of fat and fluid the very first 72 hours!

OUR "TV" CELEBRITY POLL WINNER

PAUL MICHAEL ("STARSKY") GLASER

"Isn't It Nice... All The Ladies Being So Attentive to Me?"

ABC

Glaser—in the limelight but still searching for love . . .

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

It was the hottest day of the year as Paul Michael Glaser was hunched over the coffee table fixing my cantankerous tape recorder. We were in his dressing trailer in downtown Los Angeles, where he was on location for another episode of "Starsky and Hutch." Paul—who plays Starsky—will soon be seen in the title role of the TV movie, "The Great Houdini."

FAMILY WEEKLY: Let me ask you some "how" questions: How do you feel about being chosen by almost 40,000 FAMILY WEEKLY readers as the most popular TV actor after only one season on television?

GLASER: It feels pretty good!

FW: How do you feel about doing your television series?

GLASER: I have mixed feelings about that. Actually, I have mixed feelings about everything. But the series is a good challenge. At times it feels very tedious and very exhausting, but it's exciting.

"Television is a soap seller. They take you and put you up there, and you're cardboard before you know it."

FW: What would you do if it ended?

GLASER: Go into films as an actor, direct and produce—to realize as many creative outlets as possible.

FW: How are you getting along with your partner in the series?

GLASER: We have a marvelous relationship, and that really speaks for itself in the show. I don't believe that's something you can fake.

FW: When did you decide what you wanted to be?

GLASER: I don't believe anyone ever really decides when he'll be this or that. There is just a time in your life when you realize you are heading in a certain direction.

FW: But you went to college to major in something, didn't you?

GLASER: I went to two colleges—Tulane University in New Orleans as an undergraduate, then Boston University. [Paul received his master's degree in Fine Arts at Boston University.]

FW: And what did you study?

GLASER: Mostly theater. I wanted to direct.

FW: Do you feel you are making decisions today on a more deliberate, more calculating basis?

GLASER: I suppose you could say that. Actually, I am experiencing a greater self-awareness, a greater knowledge of not who I am, but what and how I am. I find the greatest problem in existing in this life is to strive to become something we think we should be, or something we want to be. We spend a lot of energy in finding out who we are. I am trying to spend more time finding out how I am—how do I feel, how do I operate, how do I exist, how does myself work? I am trying to relieve myself of those judgments which qualitatively cause me to evaluate myself in terms of what I want to be and what I'd like to be.

FW: How do you feel about your career at this point?

GLASER: It's getting easier and easier, but television is a producer's medium. It's a soap seller. They take you and put you up there, and you're cardboard before you know it. And it's just too easy to let that happen. The great struggle is to live in a moment, acquire that great balance where the pressure doesn't get to you, and I can do what I want—which is to work for my craft.

PAUL MICHAEL GLASER

Continued

FW: How do you keep fit?
GLASER: I run every morning for a couple of miles, play tennis when I can on weekends and swim and work out as much as possible in between.
FW: You are 33—and still a bachelor—how do you feel about marriage?
GLASER: I think marriage can be a beautiful thing—it will come to me when the time is right.
FW: Does that mean you have too much fun being single or that you haven't found anyone you'd like to be married to?
GLASER: Let's say I'm getting less afraid of making a commitment.
FW: Where is home?
GLASER: In the Hollywood Hills. I'm in the process of remodeling my house, and I'm doing all of that before we move in. I imagine I'll have someone take care of the grounds. I work incredible hours, so I won't have time, and my lady doesn't have time to do it, either.
FW: You referred to "your lady"—what does she do?
GLASER: Elizabeth is a schoolteacher. She teaches children between the ages of 6 and 9 in a school for special education.
FW: How did you meet her?
GLASER: We were each driving down Santa Monica Boulevard. I smiled at her, and she smiled at me; then I pulled over to the side, and so did she. . . . Then I asked her for a date, and she accepted. That was over a year ago.
FW: Before you started in the series?
GLASER: I'd finished the pilot, but the show hadn't gone on the air.
FW: Is there any pressure on your relationship now that you are a star?
GLASER: I indulge myself to the degree that I allow myself to say, "Isn't it nice . . . all the ladies being so attentive to me?" Of course, Elizabeth has to deal with her fears, but other than that, things work out very well for us.
FW: Is Paul Michael Glaser your real name?
GLASER: Paul and Glaser are my real names, but I became Michael for a time because there was another Paul Glaser. When he died, I tacked the Paul back to become Paul Michael Glaser.
FW: Do you have any brothers and sisters?
GLASER: Two sisters. Both were married, one is now divorced. The oldest one lives in Boston, is married to a psychiatrist. The other one has lived in France for the last 15 years. She trains horses. I'm the baby of the family.
FW: As the youngest, and the only boy, were you spoiled?
GLASER: Spoiled rotten. I was a brat. I wasn't aware of what I was like then in terms of how other people saw me, and the word brat is a judgment anyway. What I should say is I was a very angry kid.
FW: Why were you angry?
GLASER: Try the world! One of the motivations for someone's becoming an actor could be the fact that he wants love and attention and the limelight. So put two and two together, and you get a person who wasn't getting that, was plenty irked and found that the only way to get it was to express that anger.
FW: But you came from a family which was able to do much for you since they were well-off financially . . .
GLASER: Money doesn't mean anything! As a matter of fact, the more money the kid has, the more the kid's parents are out there busting their chops to get those things for the kid, while the one ingredient the kid needs most is love.
FW: You mean you felt you didn't have enough love?
GLASER: Yeah, I felt it. Very much so.
FW: Did you ever get over that feeling?
GLASER: That's what I am struggling to do. That's why I'm an actor. Trying to find out who I really am so Paul Michael Glaser can love Paul Michael Glaser.
FW: Have you had many close friends in your life?
GLASER: No. Never.
FW: Do you think you are at fault?
GLASER: Nobody's at fault. That's just the way it worked.
FW: I read that you said you were brought up in a "golden ghetto." What did you mean by that?
GLASER: I referred to an upper-middle-class Jewish community. A ghetto that has all the "gilt" as well as all the "guilt." But I never looked at myself as well-off, even though I was guilty of a good degree of snobbishness. When I was a kid, that was the way I felt about my status in the community: I had this and the other person didn't. But the older I got and the more pain I had, the more I realized all those things didn't really add up to anything.
FW: What was the first money you earned?
GLASER: I did a lot of odd jobs—a back-up chef, an asphalt construction worker, time keeper, assistant engineer. I mowed lawns, all those things. My parents put great emphasis on my arsenal of spare time—I was not allowed to sit around and just gaze at the wall.
FW: Do you still live that way today?
GLASER: I am trying to get to the point where I can enjoy coming home as Paul Michael Glaser and contemplating what a beautiful thing life is.

Terry Bradshaw

"This Quarterback is No Dummy"

Terry Bradshaw, who expects to lead his Pittsburgh Steelers to their third straight Super Bowl championship this season, laid to rest the false story that he was "too dumb" to be a successful quarterback, when he struck gold in last January's Bowl competition. The "dumby" image had its origin in the fact that Bradshaw, a native of Shreveport, La., went to little-known Louisiana Tech instead of Louisiana State, loved country music and seemed to sports writers to be a "big, blond hick from the backwoods." "I had a bellyful of being called a 'dummy,' and I hope that image is never brought up again," says the 27-year-old quarterback. Bradshaw's field generalship, as well as his outstanding passing ability, has been a key factor in the Steelers' triumphs. Unlike some other quarterbacks, he doesn't depend on the coach to send in plays but calls almost all of them himself. "The story that he's not a thinking quarterback was a bad rap and completely unfounded," says Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll. Bradshaw has been a success not only in football, but also in running a 480-acre cattle ranch in his native Louisiana. And this year he wooed and married 25-year-old Jo Jo Starbuck, the lovely blond star of the "Ice Capades," who skated for the U.S. in the 1968 and 1972 Olympics. Jo Jo is giving up her ice-skating career and nearly $100,000 in annual income to be with her husband.

According to his father, the Steelers quarterback was blessed with an "arm like a cannon." When he was only 5 years old, he could throw a baseball 40 feet at a target only six inches in diameter. His first sport was baseball, but he switched to football when he was 11. "He used to hang a five-gallon bucket off a swing set, and every afternoon he'd go out and throw footballs at it," the elder Bradshaw recalls. "In the course of one summer, he wore out two footballs and four buckets." Bradshaw was drafted No. 1 by Pittsburgh in 1970, but had rookie jitters the first year and did not live up to his advance billing. But as he gained professional maturity, he took command and clinched the role of No.-1 field general. The Steelers' 1975 Super Bowl victory marked the first time in 42 years that the Pittsburgh team won the championship of the pro-football world. After their repeat in 1976, the Steelers ranked with the all-time top teams of the sport. The 1976 triumph was highlighted by Bradshaw's dramatic 64-yard touchdown pass, thrown a second before he was knocked cold by a defensive player for the Dallas Cowboys.

"We never used a chain saw before today. Homelite put us in control."

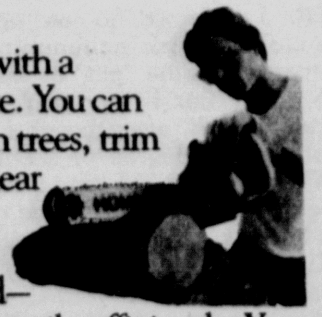

None of these seven people had ever handled a chain saw before. So we gave each person a different Homelite® and told them to start cutting. It proved our point: anyone can be in control with a Homelite.

Homelite chain saws are designed with control in mind. They're lightweight, precision balanced. They all have solid, comfortable grips. And they're the only chain saws with the exclusive new SAFE-T-TIP.™ With SAFE-T-TIP in place, a Homelite can't kick back—and you're protected against the most serious loss of control in a chain saw.

Kickback occurs when the nose of the saw hits a solid object. But the new SAFE-T-TIP shields the nose and chain. So kickback cannot occur. The SAFE-T-TIP also keeps the nose from hitting dirt, stones and obstructions that can dull or damage the chain. You get easier cutting with less need to sharpen or replace the chain.

Whether you're a first timer or an old timer, you're in control with a Homelite. You can cut down trees, trim limbs, clear brush and cut firewood—quickly, easily, efficiently. Your Homelite Dealer has the widest selection anywhere, from the economical XL,® to the SXL-Automatic. And with over 12,000 Homelite Dealers coast to coast, you're sure of fast, efficient service—and a wide range of parts and accessories—wherever you live.

How about a nice relaxing murder?

Searching for mysteries that tingle your nerve ends and tickle your little grey cells?

Your search is over. You have a home in The Detective Book Club.

The club's editors read some 400 new detective novels a year, saving only the finest mystery fare for our members. (They've done this for over thirty years.)

This assures you of getting the cream of new mysteries by such top authors as John MacDonald, Brian Garfield, and Mignon G. Eberhart. At a remarkable saving.

Each month you can get three complete, brand-new mystery novels in one fat, hardbound triple-volume for only $3.89. Less than you'd pay for a single new mystery in a bookstore.

And you're not tied down to any commitments. You're never required to buy any specific book. You take only those you really want.

To show you all the advantages of club membership, we'd like to send you fifteen of our best and latest mysteries, worth $98.80 in publishers' editions, for the introductory price of only $1.

For your dollar, you'll get the 488-page triple volume the lady below is reading. It lets you sleuth along with Georges Simenon's Inspector Maigret, get involved in narcotics and an adoption racket in Lillian O'Donnell's The Baby Merchants, and follow a brainwisting Dick Francis tale of racetrack intrigue and deceit.

Plus, you'll receive four more triple volumes that let you match wits with two of TV's favorite sleuths, Ellery Queen and Perry Mason. Try to crack two recent Saint puzzlers by Leslie Charteris. Team up with Travis McGee and Miss Marple. Stalk killers in the streets of Chicago in Death Sentence, and more.

Mail the coupon today, while our introductory offer still stands. Enjoy fifteen great mysteries for only $1. Then, as a new member, start getting the best new detective novels each month.

The Detective Book Club, Roslyn, N.Y. 11576.

Enjoy two solid weeks of murder for $1.

Please enroll me as a member and send the five triple-volumes shown above, containing fifteen mysteries worth $98.80 in publishers' editions. I enclose no money now. I may examine my books for one week, then will either accept them for the special new-member price of only $1, plus postage and handling, or return them and owe nothing.

As a member, I will receive the club's monthly Preview which describes my next selections, but I am not obligated to accept them. I will always have at least ten days to reject any volume by returning the form provided. I may return any book at the club's expense for full credit. For each monthly triple-volume I keep, I will send you only $3.89, plus postage and handling. I may cancel my membership at any time.

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John Gibson

Are big biceps really a plus when it comes to attracting a woman . . . or is she looking for something more?

What Makes a Man Attractive To a Woman?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. When it comes to catching a woman's attention — and holding it — the muscular man has the inside track.
2. Women prefer men with hairy chests.
3. Music can affect the way a woman responds to a man—and how attractive she finds him.
4. Women are much better at sizing up men than men are at sizing up women.
5. How much the cut of a man's clothes and his general grooming affect a woman's rating of him depends largely on whether her mood is up or down.

ANSWERS

1. False. According to a study of women's preferences in men, conducted at a leading university, "the traditional image of an ideal 'muscle man' holds little attraction for most women." The study also showed that: Women who are traditionally feminine show a preference for masculine physiques—trim, tapering V-shaped, while less traditional women express more nonstereotyped preferences.

2. True. A recent study of college-aged women, conducted by a team of investigators at Georgia College bears this out. In regard to the amount of chest hair, the findings are as follows: 46 percent of the women indicated that they preferred a "very hairy chest," while 46 percent voted in favor of a "moderately hairy chest," and only 8 percent preferred a "bare chest."

3. True. Studies show that women are much more emotionally responsive to music than men are, and that romantic music can alter a woman's mood appreciably and make her more receptive to the attributes of the opposite sex. Evidence indicates that when a man is seeking to impress a woman favorably, a background of appropriate music can tip the scales in his favor.

4. True. Psychological studies at Harvard University have shown that women are much better at judging a man's character and personality than vice versa. Tests show women to be more person-oriented and more acutely aware of telltale clues in speech mannerisms, body movements, and subtle changes in facial expression (which often tell far more about the man she is talking to than anything he may say). The fact that women's intuitive and extra-sensory faculties function more effectively than men's do—as demonstrated by Purdue University studies—is an asset when it comes to perceiving another's character. A woman often divines a man's innermost feelings before he is quite aware of them himself. ("I knew he was going to propose long before he did.")

5. True. If she's in a good mood, attention to dress and grooming can win a man Brownie points—particularly during the first meeting. However, psychological studies show that when a woman is distraught, anxious or worried about something, the way a man is dressed cuts little ice and has virtually no effect on her feelings about his attractiveness.

Observations™

Good Show. London's taxis, those marvels of roominess and comfort in basic black, have long roused Americans' envy. But now they're being challenged—right here in the U.S. At New York's Museum of Modern Art, five prototype taxis of the future were recently displayed alongside their British cousin. All are roomier than the London cab, and each is a snappy yellow or orange. The exhibit, called "The Taxi Project," was sponsored by Mobil and the Urban Mass Transportation Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Room for improvement. Can you guess how many passengers a year are carried by cabs? The answer: 2.5 billion. We're not pushing taxis over other forms of mass transit, but they are important even if often neglected. In fact, they are the only public transportation available in over 3,000 American communities. The prototype museum vehicles, built to exacting specifications, were produced by two American companies (American Machine and Foundry, Inc., and Steam Power Systems, Inc.) and three foreign firms (Volvo, Volkswagen and Alfa Romeo). The idea was to build, at a reasonable cost, cabs that would better serve passengers, drivers and the taxi industry.

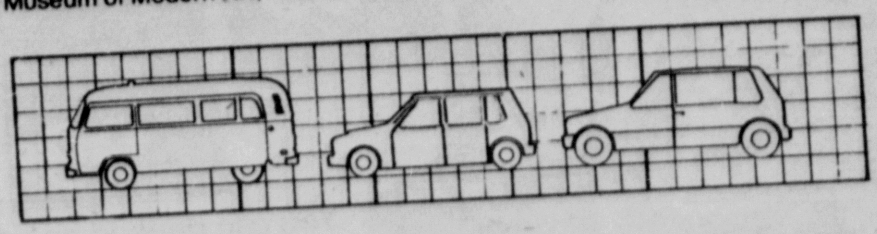

They come in a box. The designs are squarish. These are nimble, perky vehicles you can walk in and out of—carrying packages, and without bumping your head. A departure from modified passenger-car taxis, they could be great for suburbanites as well as city-dwellers. Features like sliding doors and niches for wheelchairs make them easier for the old and the handicapped.

"TAKE ME TO A COMFORTABLE CAB"

See how they run. Volvo's 4-passenger cab is diesel-fueled with 3-speed automatic transmission, gets 22 to 24 miles per gallon. Volkswagen's taxi looks like a minibus and features a hybrid power plant with an electric engine for city driving and gasoline power for longer hauls and faster speeds. Alfa Romeo's 5-passenger prototype has a dual-overhead-cam engine that runs on gasoline. The two American taxis have steam engines that can run on anything from unleaded gasoline and diesel fuel to kerosine and methanol.

We're moved. Anything that moves more people better and more comfortably, conserves fuel and enhances the urban environment is worth looking into. Want to know more about these cars? A book, "The Taxi Project: Realistic Solutions for Today" (160 pages with 147 illustrations, nine of them in color), can be obtained by sending $7.95, plus 50 cents handling charge, to Customer Sales Service, Museum of Modern Art, 11 West 53rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

THE CELEBRITY POLL WINNERS FOR 1976

Lindsay Wagner

Heartthrob Robert Redford is the man you voted the most popular movie idol for the second-year running. Last year he assumed the role from John Wayne, a three-time winner retired from the race. His new reigning counterpart is Julie Andrews, as the most popular actress. Paul Michael Glaser, Starsky of "Starsky and Hutch," vaulted to the top TV spot after only a season on the tube, as did Lindsay Wagner of "The Bionic Woman."

Sharing honors in the TV supporting-role category were Henry Winkler, the "Fonz," and Michael Learned, who becomes a consecutive three-time winner of our annual poll.

Movie Actor: Robert Redford easily edged out runner-up Clint Eastwood and third-place Paul Newman, just as he did last year.

Pictorial Parade

Robert Redford

Movie Actress: Julie Andrews, in a see-saw upset, retrieved her title by a bare percentage point from Barbra Streisand, who had won for the last two years. Doris Day came in a distant third.

Pictorial Parade

Julie Andrews

TV Actor: Winning for his role as the irrepressible crime fighter, Paul Michael Glaser had no real competition from Michael Landon or Alan Alda (who ran first last year.) They placed second and third respectively.

TV Actress: In a breathtaking finish, Lindsay Wagner grabbed the lead from Angie Dickinson by three percentage points. Karen Grassle, mother on "The Little House on the Prairie," came in third.

Henry Winkler

Pictorial Parade

Michael Learned

TV Supporting Actor: Talk about overnight successes! Henry Winkler of "Happy Days" walked away with the highest voting percentage of all categories. He left John Travolta of "Welcome Back, Kotter," and Ralph Waite of "The Waltons" far behind.

TV Supporting Actress: This was the most hotly contested category. Michael Learned, who secured her title of three-time champion, triumphed by one percentage point over Melissa Gilbert—young Laura on "The Little House on the Prairie." Melissa was followed closely by Julie Kavner (Rhoda's sister).

The Key Ingredient Discovered By A Medical Doctor

THE BRAN DIET

You can lose 14 to 24 pounds or more without eating less food. If this sounds too good to be true, get the entire program now and read what Medical Doctors say about it. We've just published a new guidebook, THE BRAN DIET, that is short enough for you to read in one hour and easy to understand. We've condensed a tremendous volume of research into just a few thousand words. It reveals that you can lose as much as you want without hunger through an amazing weight loss secret that shrinks the fat right out of your body.

I'm Ann Adkins. Here I am before I went on THE BRAN DIET and lost 110 pounds. Then, people would say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat." Read my full story.

What Makes It Work? It Must Work — Or You Pay Nothing!

A scientific study described in our guidebook reveals why fewer calories are absorbed by your body from food that contains the proper amount of bran, while more calories are absorbed from the bran-free food that most of us eat. It must work — no matter what you've tried before — or you don't even have to pay our low price of $1.99.

You'll Feel Full With The Right Amount of Bran in Your Diet

The Bran Diet reduces the urge to overeat by requiring more chewing, slowing down the intake of food and stimulating secretions that induce a feeling of fullness. We invite you to ask your doctor for his opinion of our diet.

Between Meal Hunger Banished!

Scientific studies show that volunteers with the right amount of bran in their diet stayed full while those on a bran-free diet soon became hungry and ate again. Do you ever feel this way on your present diet? If so, the reason's simple: it lacks bran, the outer fiber coat of grain that is usually discarded in milling. You just need a little bit of bran if it's present in the food you eat. When you fill out and mail the order form, you'll soon receive dozens of tasty menus and recipes with foods which contain the bran you must have to lose weight and keep it off without being hungry.

It's A Healing Diet Too

The Bran Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet after the brilliant detective work of a famous cancer researcher. He observed that people in certain countries enjoy virtual immunity from certain diseases, because they have the right amount of bran in their diet. You'll read the full story in our guidebook.

Two doctors recently praised bran in their newspaper columns. One says, "We now have evidence incriminating bland foods in the development of appendicitis, polyps, diverticuli, and cancer of the large intestine." The other says that our typical bran-free diets produce the cramping pain of diverticular disease, and that 90% of the symptoms are relieved on the bran diet. Few people are constipated either, since no blockages form. High blood cholesterol levels which go with heart, lung, kidney and artery disease are lowered astonishingly on the bran diet. Phlebitis and hemorrhoids are controlled too. Even ulcers and gallstones are related to the amount of fiber in your diet.

Here's Proof That Ordering THE BRAN DIET Can Help You Shed 20 to 100 Pounds Or More

Read what people who've tried it say in these true stories. Read why it may be the best way ever discovered to restore health and lose weight permanently.

Here I am now. Order THE BRAN DIET, and see how easy it will be for you to lose weight.

"I lost 110 pounds on THE BRAN DIET."
— Mrs. Ann Adkins, Westfield, N. C.

"I'd been fat all my life. I had tried all kinds of diet aids, pills and fad diets. I'd lose 20 or 30 pounds and gain it back — plus more. Then, at 31 when I weighed 224 pounds, I put myself on the bran diet. I know it sounds unbelievable, but I stuck with it until I lost 110 pounds. I didn't go hungry at all. It's the kind of food, not the amount, that matters. It's wonderful to be slim. People that I work with are fascinated with what I've done. They used to say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat!" Now, I get lots of compliments.

P.S.—My husband has lost 40 pounds too, and we are able to get out and do things we've never done before. It's been over 1½ years since I reached 114 pounds, and I have no trouble keeping weight off. I would like to share my newly found joy in life with others and encourage those who have problems losing weight."

"Your Bran Diet Program has been recommended by my doctor from England, and he says it has cured many people."

"My daughter and I have been on Plan No. 1 for awhile. It's easy to stay on because you don't have that empty feeling."
— Mrs. J. S.

"The macaroni and the meatloaf are the best I ever ate."
— Mrs. F. B.

Six Ways Going On THE BRAN DIET Helps You Lose Weight

1. It keeps you off the "Yo Yo Syndrome." (This is what happens when you lose a few pounds and then gain it all back.)
2. Your body absorbs fewer calories than with the same amount of regular food.
3. The food is delicious and easy to fix — so you aren't tempted to go back to your old diet. Imagine losing weight with these delicious dishes: Macaroni and Cheese, Pancakes, Brownies, Meatloaf, Dinner Rolls, Beef Stew, Rice Pudding, French Toast, Bran Cookies.
4. It works fast. You can see results in a few days. You'll soon feel like jumping up and doing things.
5. It mobilizes the fat — not the muscle out of your body. Your skin stays smooth, your body firm. Your complexion will become clearer. You will feel mentally alert.
6. Hunger disappears because it fills you up. You don't feel weak.

BARBI BENTON
Hugh Hefner's "touch of class"

Barbi Benton, Hugh Hefner's girlfriend, talking: "Regardless of what Hugh Hefner says in 'Playboy' magazine, he believes in permissiveness for men, but not for women. For example, he loves to see girls in see-through blouses, but if he ever saw me in one, it would be the end of us for sure. He's too possessive in his kind of love. He'd prefer that I didn't date anyone else. But you can't have everything. He's very conservative when it comes to me. I guess there's a certain amount of class that goes with being conservative. He likes to believe that I have class." Presently Barbi's proving her mettle as a recording artist, and there are a few hurdles to leap. "With the 'Playboy' image it's hard to convince people I have talent. But without 'Playboy,' I would never have had a chance at all."

By Frank Baginski

LITTLE EMILY

"I sure wish I was 7 again and knew what I know now!"

ARTISTS GUY AND JOY
Is this where modern art really comes from?

Two baby orangutans who live at the Los Angeles Zoo (their names are Guy and Joy) have taken up painting as a hobby —and in order to support various programs for the blind and handicapped sponsored by the Zoo Association. Guy's and Joy's original paintings are for sale, and Mrs. Chris Garton, a volunteer, says, "What's remarkable about these young orangutan artists is that they're so neat and serious about their work. They never throw paint or act playfully (as is usual for members of the ape family) while they're creating. I'm also impressed by their sense of color and design." It is interesting to note that the male uses only his brush, while the female uses her whole body to create these abstract works, but with equally enchanting (or befuddling) results.

A fad answers back: Tiny Tim, one-time gigantic star, understands what has happened to him but refuses to settle quietly atop the garbage heap. Here's how he's quoted in a new book about him: "People keep asking me why they haven't seen me on the Johnny Carson show recently. It's just for one reason—because I'm not hot. I understand that. If I ever make the grade again, they'll call me. That's how it is and should be. But I must admit, this current period is tough." According to the book, Tiny, who's currently living at home with his mother Tillie, has one hope—to re-establish himself quickly. It's a prospect that dominates his thoughts. He is continually having visions of the "new" Tiny Tim. Tiny sees himself as the star of a film. "My dream movie would be based on a Victor Hugo story called 'The Man Who Laughed,'" Tiny explained. "It's the tale of a kid who's lost his parents. A cruel slave trader takes him on a boat and beats him so much that his face becomes deformed. He always smiles, but he's crying inside. People look at him as a freak, a curiosity. So the slave trader puts him in circuses and makes a pile of money. He's sad his whole life, until he meets a beautiful, wonderful blind girl—Candice Bergen could play the part—who sees him for what he is. They fall in love, and he lives happily ever after." The book is "Tiny Tim," By Harry Stein. (Playboy Press, $8.95.)

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

FULL HOUSE

When children and their children visit,
You may well ask of me,
"How is it?"
"It's fine," I say, though I must face
The problem of a sleeping place.

My wife stays put, and all the others
Have beds—the kiddies, fathers, mothers.
But I must use a too-short sofa
Or sleeping bag (and can't turn ofa).

I don't know why, I couldn't guess.
It may be all-togetherness.
But this in honesty I tell:
I marvel that I sleep so well.

One wife's definition of retirement: "Twice as much husband on half as much income."

—Conrad Fiorello

Two Alaskans spent a summer vacation in the northernmost tip of Maine and had the time of their lives. As they were leaving, one of them said to his host effusively, "Thank you, thank you! Now I know what they mean by true Southern hospitality!"

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

My 3-year-old niece Gina was delighted at the arrival of her new baby cousin. When the baby was about 3 months old, Gina thought they should be old friends by now. She greeted her with a cheerful, "Hi Melany," but when the baby completely ignored her, she sighed, "She thinks she doesn't know me."

Taste Science Succeeds.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough brings unprecedented taste to low tar smoking.

By "cracking" cigarette smoke down into separate ingredients, researchers at Philip Morris discovered very special "key" flavor units that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'

The cigarette packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco is MERIT. At 9 mg., one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet, MERIT actually packs the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1976

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

LOW TAR–'ENRICHED FLAVOR'

If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Tests Verify Taste

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarettes ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The majority reported that even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than MERIT, MERIT delivered as much—or more—taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Go a little crazy. Get a lot of music.

11 records or tapes-yours for $1.00

plus shipping and handling

if you agree to buy 8 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the next 3 years

This is the beginning of a fling. A crazy fling. A fling filled with music. The music you love most. More music than you've ever been able to get at once.

Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums shown in this booklet. And you choose the 11 you want most. Then fill in and mail the application on the following pages.

Part Two of the fling: your 11 records or tapes arrive in the mail.

This, of course, is the part where you really go crazy. You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert you've ever had in your room. You can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again and again.

11 hit albums for only $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club. Make it happen now...

Imagine...one boring day when you've nothing to do...

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply mail the application together with check or money order for $1.86 as payment (that's $1.00 for your first 11 selections, plus 86¢ for shipping and handling).

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest . . . plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular Club prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened . . . the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 8 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan. Act now!
